Design Review Commission: Unique In Massachusetts

The Design and Architectural Review Commission is recommending what its chairman calls "a unique piece of legislation in Massachusetts"—creation of a commission to oversee building construction in Winchester.

Chairman Andrew Morrison, a town meeting member from prec. 2, indicated the concept could mark the beginning of a new era in Winchester.

"It will help the weakening business climate in Winchester and will reverse the trend. It will put the spotlight on Winchester. We think other communities will follow suit."

No other community in Massachusetts has such a commission imposing building and architectural standards in business and apartment areas.

Committee members met Tuesday night at Town Hall and agreed to formally ask the Board of Selectmen to insert an article in the warrant for the October special town meeting creating a design and architectural review commission.

If the selectmen fail to approve the warrant article, committee members indicated they are inclined to seek signatures to include the article by petition.

Since its creation by the March town meeting, the committee has been preparing the by-law under which the five member commission would operate. The by-law is based on Lexington's historic district statute passed by the state legislature.

Committee member Mark Lombardi said the members are anxious to come in at the October meeting because "if we wait until March, apartment construction won't be covered during that period."

The Planning Board has requested the October special meeting to enact a new zoning by-law for the town which includes a section defining what can and cannot be built in apartment districts.

Morrison said a design and architectural review commission would be an important and vital step for Winchester to take. "People in Winchester want to be reassured that new buildings in Winchester will not be an embarrassment to them."

The commission would rule on architectural designs of new buildings, alterations of buildings and demolition of structures within three zones as defined by the Planning Board.

The zones are the business district, light manufacturing districts, heavy manufacturing districts and apartment districts.

The commission would use the Planning Board's definitions of the boundaries of these districts.

If the Planning Board's recommendations fail to pass town meeting, the commission would use the present districts in defining its areas of control.

The commission's power would also extend to apartments not constructed in an apartment or mixed apartment-business zone. The individual citizen, he said, will be assured "that if the town chooses to spot zone land next to his, that something offensive won't be built."

The town will feel more secure in the future knowing that a Parkview Apartments can't be built.

What type of "atmosphere" does the committee desire to create? The Star asked Morrison. "It will be up to the members of the commission to decide what is acceptable in the town. We would hope, for example, that the commission would take as a guideline the Lexington and Concord sign laws," which are considered very restrictive.

Morrison personally would like to see the commission require that developers be forced to plant so many trees an acre.

The commission would have the right to limit the height of buildings in the districts of its control. Not under its jurisdiction would be single family districts. Thus a homeowner could still paint his house any color.

The commission would be required to hold a public hearing prior to making a decision. A developer could appeal commission decisions to the courts.

Morrison said the goal of the commission "would be to establish an attractive and viable town center. . . . When the center thrives, the town thrives."

Cost to the town is expected to be "less than $1,000 a year." The commission would consider any new construction in relation to its surrounding area and could impose dimensional and set-back limits. It could rule on the color and design of a proposed building, the architectural value and significance of a site.

The members of the commission would be drawn from four groups: Winchester Business Association, Historical Society, Planning Board and those recommended by the town moderator.

The Board of Selectmen would be asked to appoint one of two persons recommended by each of the four groups; or, in the case of the moderator, by him. One member would also be appointed "at large" by the selectmen; that is, not from one of the groups.

The committee believes this assures a good cross section of individuals and interests. "It will be the most nonpolitical body as could conceivably exist," Morrison said.

Incinerator: What's Next?

The chairman of the Solid Waste Disposal Study Committee said Tuesday the group may wait until November before making a recommendation on the future of Winchester's incinerator.

Varikes K. Karalan said solutions to the problem, which are caused by the incinerator's failure to comply with federal and state air pollution control standards, include:

—Closing the facility and hiring an outside firm to haul the trash away;

—Building a new "modulator" incinerator on the present site;

—Install new equipment to have the present facility meet anti-pollution requirements.

At a meeting of the study committee Tuesday night at Town Hall, indications were the group would wait until possibly a November special town meeting in order to acquire bids on the various proposals.

Superintendent Robert O'Brien urged the committee members to have the bids in hand before facing town meeting. He said town meeting members prefer to vote on matters they know how much will cost the town.

Waiting until November would allow the committee to present the various proposals with price tags attached. There was no clear indication from committee members which of the several solutions it will recommend.

But they talked at length about the recommendation from their consulting firm, Anderson & Nichols, on installing "scrubbers" to convert the present facility.

If the incinerator itself is scrapped the site would be used as a transfer station for trash to be hauled out of town. O'Brien said on a previous occasion that the 12 town workers employed at the incinerator would remain on the town payroll, their positions eventually eliminated by attrition.

Karalan said the committee will make its recommendation on the best solution based on what is most economical to the town.

"We don't want to wait until the annual town meeting (in March) because then we couldn't meet the June 30 compliance date," Karalan said.

Municipal waste disposal systems must be in conformance with federal and state laws by June 30, 1975. Some steps toward that end, however, must be met before that date. Included among these are completion of plans for pollution abatement systems. In Winchester, this is the work of Anderson & Nichols.

The committee hopes to conduct an informational meeting to explain to the town the alternatives Winchester must choose.

Volts Bolt

If you've had your air conditioner turned on during these hot days and have wondered why it just isn't doing the job, Boston Edison has some explanations:

You might live "at the end of the line," that is, at the end of an electrical cable serving Winchester. When Boston Edison reduces voltage, as it has by five volts the last few days, and others on the line before your home or business use a lot of electricity, then your voltage reduction is greater than five volts.

It's also possible, according to Edison public information officer Norman MacKenzie, that the electrical system servicing your home is an old one with heavy insulation. Such insulation absorbs more volts, he said.

Several Edison spokesmen said the company absolutely did not reduce the voltage by more than five. The Star checked its voltage Tuesday and found a reading of between 90 and 92 at 3 p.m. Normal reading is 117.

At 5:30 p.m., the reading was 100; at 6:30, 115; and at 8 p.m., 117.

Mackenzie said that Edison's request to consumers Tuesday to cut their use of electricity was only the second such request this year and "the response was tremendous. It was very gratifying."

Speaks Spanish

Patrolman Robert Baird Breaks Language Barrier

By Pauline Dishmon

On a recent day off, a local policeman spent two hours at the Winchester Hospital at the bedside of an accident victim. His reason for being there was to alleviate the patient's anxieties by acting as interpreter for the Spanish-speaking man before he was transferred to Massachusetts General Hospital.

Because of his knowledge of Spanish and his past experience on the police force in a bilingual capacity, Patrolman Robert G. Baird of 437 Washington st. considers his kind of help is all in a day's work.

Baird is a native of Medford, where he was graduated from Medford High School. Where did he learn Spanish? According to Baird, an ex-Navy man who spent two years in Mexico, he "found it imperative to learn Spanish" if he was to be stationed in Latin America.

Gradually he picked up a little here and there not realizing "the street talk" he was learning would worm its way into his future employment.

Patrolman Baird, who has been with the Winchester police force for 19 years, is generally assigned to day patrol in a police car. Two days a week he is assigned as desk officer.

During his years with the Police Department his bi-lingual skill, which Baird describes as minuscule, has been there as the need arises. "In times where the sick and injured are confused, all I do is alleviate their anxieties," Baird says.

In the case of the recent Route 93 accident victim Baird was called to Winchester Hospital on his day off. Baird recalls asking the Spanish-speaking fellow "How are you?"

"All right," the man responded. "What happened?" asked Baird.

With this introduction, the patient calmed down, feeling that someone was close who understood. He readily gave his name and address and the name of his sister who was contacted and asked if he was allergic to any medication.

In two instances during his years with the force, Baird has been able to help in situations where women were left in confused states following the death of their husbands. Baird assisted by contacting relatives from nearby cities who came to the widows' help.

Winchester, as all communities around the world, has incidents of family squabbles. Here again Baird has helped the Spanish-speaking persons involved by appearing on the scene and letting the people know that someone understands what is going on.

The modest Baird is quick to point out that he is not the only Winchester police officer who comes to the "language" rescue. He mentions Lt. John Peter McHugh, who is taking an extensive reading, writing and speaking course in Spanish.

Lt. McHugh, in turn, tells about officers Richard Anselmo and Joseph Perritano who come forward when German is needed, and Perritano and Jasper Asaro for Italian communication.

McHugh adds to the discussion by saying that Baird and other officers are also able to "let criminals know they are understood" and warn them not to play dumb.

Patrolman Baird and his wife, Phyllis, have two daughters. Susan, 16, attends Winchester High School. Cathie Ann, 15, is a student at McCall Junior High School.

Schools Open With Minor Traffic Woes

Schools opened in Winchester yesterday with some minor traffic problems.

Mystic Valley pkwy. and Main st., site of the new McCall Junior High School and new Lincoln School, was a scene of confusion as youths emptied into the busy streets shortly before noon.

At the Mystic School, children were reported crossing Highland avenue without supervision. Half a dozen mothers and about two dozen children protested lack of supervision at the police station at 1 p.m.

The mothers say the police lady, who used to stand at Madison avenue, had been moved to Jefferson road without notice.

Safety Officer John McKinley told the mothers the move was necessitated by a shortage of policemen. He said she had been moved in order to cover two intersections.

Petitions Circulating For Multi-Use Zoning

The Winchester Business Association this week is collecting signatures at several places in Winchester Center to include a warrant article for the special town meeting to act on multi-use zoning in the square.

WBA said it expects to have the necessary 150 signatures this week. The warrant for the special meeting Oct. 18 closes Sept. 10.

The area WBA is seeking to include in a "business-apartment, multi-purpose district" is defined as follows:

Starting at Church street at the corner of a private way known as Rangeley road, southerly to Mystic Valley pkwy., thence easterly to the intersection of Mystic Valley pkwy. and Washington street, northerly on Washington street to the intersection of Skillings road, thence northwesterly to Main street across Main street, then westerly on Lake street to a point at the easterly bound of property of Winchester Housing Authority, southerly on said property 11 line to Wedge Pond, across Wedge Pond to School street easterly on School street to Church street, thence northerly to the point of beginning.

The Planning Board prepared its own plans for Winchester Center apartments prior to the WBA proposal. The board's plans limit the center business area to commercial structures.

The difference between the two proposals is that WBA wants to mix apartments with businesses. WBA feels apartments would insure a continuous base of shoppers.

The Planning Board is proposing comprehensive new zoning for all the town under one article. Under two other articles, to be voted separately, the board is proposing creation of apartment zones.

These mid-rise zones would allow construction of apartments no higher than 80 feet. The boundaries are described:

—Westerly side of Main street; Vine street, Elmwood ave., Park street and Wedge Pond road area, from a central business district and general residential district to an apartment house residential district zone;

—Southerly side of Waterfield road from a central business district and land situated easterly and to the rear of Rangeley road from a residential district B to an apartment house residential district B zone.

(These boundaries are more specifically defined in the Planning Board legal advertisement appearing in this week's and next week's Winchester Star.)

The Planning Board is also recommending that a parcel of land on Waterfield road be included in a new "conservancy-institutional district," which is a district designed for public use.

That proposal to amend the zoning by-laws "by changing land situated to the rear and southerly from Waterfield road about 87 feet, from a central business district to a conservancy institutional district, said land described as follows:

"Northerly by Town of Winchester 20 feet, easterly by land now or formerly of Helen F. Dooley trustee of Richard Realty Trust 197 feet, westerly by land of Town of Winchester."

The following is a recapitulation of the pending dates relevant to the proposals:

MONDAY, SEPT. 10
Warrant closes for special town meeting.
MONDAY, SEPT. 24
Planning Board public hearing on the proposed zoning changes as outlined above; 8 p.m., new high school.
Thursday, OCT. 18
Special town meeting to act on proposed new by-law and proposed zoning changes.

Board Readies Warrant For The Special Meeting

In preparation for the Oct. 18 special town meeting, selectmen Tuesday night unanimously agreed to have Douglas Randall, acting town counsel, serve as special town counsel for the special meeting.

A potential list of articles, discussed by selectmen, includes: zoning by-law with several articles; a sign by-law which may be a part of the zoning by-law; a vision clearance by-law, which also may be a part of the zoning by-law; Fire Department special duty pay legislation to be filed to provide a revolving fund out of which firefighters would be compensated for special duty assignments.

Architectural Review Committee recommendation for a commission and a statute; a public drinking by-law; transfer of the control of the old Lincoln School from the School Department; acceptance of a land gift; and appropriation for funds for Highland ave. school sidewalk.

Selectmen noted there would likely be at least two more zoning type articles. One is expected from the local business association and another from a commercial developer, both groups circulating petitions for requests to appear before the town meeting.

Edward Donnelly, executive secretary to the selectmen, spoke about the Solid Waste Disposal study group having plans to appear before town meeting this fall, but, according to Donnelly, they do not expect to be ready for the Oct. 18 town meeting. (The warrant closes Sept. 10.)

Hearings
Tuesday night 10 residents of the Church and Dix street area appeared at the selectmen's meeting after receiving word from New England Telephone Company of plans to lay and maintain conduits and manholes, with wires and cables, under the surface of Church and Dix streets.

Because the telephone representative coming before selectmen with a request to do such work was late and in an attempt not to detain residents, Selectman John Sullivan suggested showing residents a diagram of the area of the proposed work and explaining what was to be done.

Later, assured by selectmen that their best interest would be the concern of selectmen, that the work was a fairly routine matter and would place manholes in the street, and be accomplished as soon as possible, the residents left before the telephone representative's arrival.

However, later, when the representative did arrive, selectmen discovered the telephone company expected to place two manholes on the sidewalk. Most of the work, the representative said, would be in gutters and would be accomplished in the fall. He noted the purpose of installing the additional cable is to provide more trunks to serve Arlington and Winchester.

Selectmen approved the work with two exceptions: the telephone company obtain the approval of the two abutters who would have manholes on sidewalks in front of their houses and resurfacing of the street be approved by Winchester's Superintendent of Highways, Robert O'Brien.

Building Commissioner William Butler MacDonald met with selectmen to briefly review a new building code which will be in effect nationwide on Jan. 1, 1975, and which, according to MacDonald, will alter all present codes and have far-reaching effect on present zoning, appeals and personnel.

Because of the complexities of the matter and ultimate ramifications, MacDonald recommended a study group be appointed to review new codes and gain "clearer perspective" to prepare the town in advance of the effective date of the law.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Covino Sr. and family of 9 Sanborn st., participating in the American Host Program, have had as their guest for one month Mlle. Michele Desmoulins of Paris, France.

Mlle. Desmoulins, who teaches English to students ranging in age from 11 to 16 in a College Enseignement Secondaire in France, has been exchanging ideas, comparing students and evaluating curriculum with Janet Covino, a French teacher in the Burlington High School. The pair have found a surprising number of equivalents in personality traits, dress codes and pupil studies.

The American Host Program objective is to enable teachers to gain a realistic and truthful understanding of American life. Mlle. Desmoulins has visited historical sites including the Freedom Trail, Lexington and Concord, the Mayflower and Plimoth Plantation.

Winchester and Burlington High Schools and Harvard and Tufts Universities have been on her list of educational institutions. She has even been initiated into a typical softball game with some of Miss Covino's students.

Mlle. Desmoulins has expressed pleasure in participating in various activities with her host family. After visiting the Freedom Trail, she said, "The people in Boston are nice, ready to help and even guide me—a most pleasant thing."

The American Host Program was begun in 1961 by Tom and Frances Murphy of California, teachers studying the school systems of Europe. It grew out of their discovery that Europeans have many misconceptions about the United States.

Since that time 3,000 teachers from all over Europe have been welcomed by American families. Funded through the nonprofit American Host Foundation, the program is made possible by contributions from individuals, industry and visiting teachers who pay a major portion of costs. Mlle. Desmoulins rejoined 200 other American Host visitors in New York this week to return to Reims, France, where she will resume teaching.

More information on the program may be obtained by writing American Host Program, Hotel Commodore, Park ave. at 42nd st., New York, N.Y. 10017.

The best time to put in a lawn is fall!
The best one to put in a lawn is the Lawn-A-Mat man!

From his successful experience on over one million lawns coast to coast, the Lawn-A-Mat man knows that Fall seeding is best because:

1. Fall is the seedling time for 15 of 22 seeded grasses including Kentucky Bluegrass and Fescues, the two best kind of lawn grasses.

2. Lawn seed sprouts fastest in cool weather, grows faster too. The Lawn-A-Mat man knows that grass is essentially a cool weather plant.

Fall is the time of year when the lawn's enemies, the hot sun, heat, bugs and weeds are on the wane. He agrees with experts who say that Fall is the best time to start a lawn you can be proud of, one that will probably require less expense than you are putting into your present lawn.

Just as Fall is the best time to put in a lawn, the Lawn-A-Mat man is the best man to put in that lawn. Lawn-A-Mat has put in more than one million lawns and has more lawn care professionals from coast to coast than any other service. Its Lawn-A-Mat seed and chemicals are the highest quality, equal to the best you can buy at most garden centers. This means that you get more for your money in the Fall. The Lawn-A-Mat man is offering you Fall Specials to save you even more.

He will do all the work and it will cost you no more than if you did it yourself. All you do is buy the high quality Lawn-A-Mat products and the work will be done fast! Take your choice of two Fall Specials or ask your Lawn-A-Mat man about the Annual Greenskeeper Program.

Letters To The Editor

Administration Acted Properly For Peace

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Referring to Mr. Frances X. Hurley's letter in your Aug. 30 issue, I would agree with him (up to a point) insofar as the statements made by Mr. Duffy and Mrs. Barone in their recent letters were essentially in Mr. Nixon's behalf. The comments in both these letters might be described as superficially sympathetic.

Nevertheless, I think, Mr. Hurley should recognize that according to our standards of justice, nothing has been proven up to this time concerning any wrong doing by Mr. Nixon in relation to Watergate and its ramifications. Unfortunately, and I must admit in many ways because of Mr. Nixon's hard-nosed and/or ruthless methods, he has had at the very least an unsympathetic press. I must admit also, and perhaps this is an understatement, that Mr. Nixon has shown a distinct lack of administrative acumen.

In regard to Mr. Hurley's statements related to the Nixon Administration's handling of the Vietnam peace settlement and the tragic events leading up to this event I am in complete disagreement.

For the record, and this is factual, the Vietnam War was started and escalated in the Kennedy and/or Johnson Administrations. Peace negotiations began under President Johnson. Obviously, diplomatic negotiations with the Asiatic race are at the very least frustrating. If memory serves me correctly, six months of discussion occurred in Paris before the Vietnam delegation agreed to the size and shape of the table at which negotiations were to be implemented. Mr. Hurley may also recall the lengthy and dreary negotiations at Panmunjon leading to the ending of the Korean War.

Admittedly, I am a "hawk" and proud of it. Communism is a hideous, untrustworthy, cancerous philosophy. There are many who consider it much worse than Nazism. As I am sure Mr. Hurley is aware, the admitted objective of Communism is world domination.

Mr. Hurley may also recall the fate of several nations within the Communist sphere of influence who attempted to initiate very minor adjustments in favor of better relations with their democratic neighbors. I am speaking of Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

We, and the other democracies of the world, should have learned a lesson since the start of World War II. Any historian will tell us that one of the most contributory causes for the start of that war was appeasement. Philosophies of government such as Communism are not deterred by weakness. But show a strong hand and what happens: the Berlin air-lift and the late President John F. Kennedy's firm stand in the Cuban missile crisis.

I firmly believe that President Nixon and his Administration reacted firmly and properly during the Vietnam negotiations. Granted, there were atrocities, as there are in any war, preventive or otherwise. Mr. Hurley cited the bombing of a hospital by our planes but failed to mention the atrocious and barbaric treatment of our POW's by the North Vietnamese.

I feel rather certain that the continued bombing, if it had not occurred, would have meant still further delays in the peace settlements.

I don't know if Mr. Hurley has studied any of the interviews by the press with our POW's after their liberation. However, I don't recall a single case in which these gentlemen did not wholeheartedly agree with the stand taken by our government.

Their opinions of several of our self-appointed "diplomats" such as Jane Fonda would be unprintable. People, such as this, and in my personal opinion, several of our senators and congressmen, by inferring that we take a weak stand, did more than we are led to believe to delay the peace settlement and possibly sow the seeds for future communist aggression.

A Firefighter

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Somewhere between the smoky scene of a spectacular fire, the soggy sight of a flooded basement, the misery-filled moments of a rescue squad call or the tricky trip to the tree top for a pussy cat rescue, you were sure to have met a most unusual guy called a firefighter.

Armed with ladders, hose, masks, rope, power tools or other awesome gear, the firefighter was usually the featured performer. He's as close to you as the flick of the telephone dial, the twist of the alarm box key. Your calls for assistance are always answered. Junior's caught in the wringer. Grandpa's gasping for air. Uncle Bill fell asleep with his favorite fillertip and Debbie's been playing with matches. They are all a most hasty introduction to this fellow called a firefighter. Around the clock, his vigil takes him in all kinds of weather. Holidays, birthdays, he never closes shop. His business is helping you.

Checking bikes, giving directions, registering voters, cautioning kiddies, inspecting homes, cordoning live wires, clearing fallen trees, visiting schools... a firefighter's duties are varied and many.

He never neglects his homework and his schooling is never done. He drills with the newest devices, studies the latest techniques. A firefighter knows he must be ready at all times for the unexpected. A combination acrobat, athlete, steeplejack, medic, electrician, chemist, locksmith and man about town. He's a rare combination of talent. He is expected to do most anything and he usually does.

A firefighter plays horseshoes, plays handball too. He's got to be in top physical condition for the job of protecting you. Safely in bed, you seldom get a chance to see him at three in the morning climbing walls, hanging on ladders and lending a hand to the needy. Risk his life? You bet he does. Every time the bell is sounded, in the cold of winter or in the excessive summer heat, a firefighter is making sure life is safe for you.

But a firefighter is a funny guy. He complains of his long hours of duty. Then volunteers his off days to help the Boy Scouts, the PTA and his church; at picnics for the underprivileged, a cookout for the orphans, driving a truck for the Brownies' paper drive or helping the neighbor with a ladder.

A firefighter is a lot of things to different people. To a taxpayer, he's a checker-playing bum. To someone he's rescued from the roof of a smoky building, he's a guardian angel. To the wide-eyed kids, he's Batman in a rubber coat. To his family he's a father every other day. To his critics, he's a moonlighter with red suspenders chopping everything in sight.

Despite his rugged armor and rough and tough exterior, a firefighter is a soft sentimentalist at heart. He likes little children and often has quite a brood of his own. He likes the Fourth of July circus parade, pic-a-nic mode and Sundays off. He enjoys camping trips, barbecues, family picnics and most of all, a pat on the back and some friendly words of encouragement like, "Nice work, firefighter. You're doing a good job!"

Low Test Scores And Vandalism

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Several years ago Winchester had a school superintendent who had the courage to say that instead of grade A or AA Winchester was fast heading toward a grade B school system. This, along with a few innovations, ruffled some feathers on the School Committee and they dismissed him.

Perhaps the fourth grade reading scores recently publicized in the paper could be used to back up this theory. What we need to bring our schools back up to AA is perhaps a little more imagination on the part of the School Committee and much more concern on the part of parents.

One problem spot (discipline) from first grade on could be considerably improved if parents would try to impress respect for teachers and be sure they know both sides of the story before they side with their child against a teacher.

I have found very few times that my children's complaints against teachers were any more than just "I don't think he's fair." "I shouldn't have to stay after school just because he caught me doing what I shouldn't have."

Parents must accept the responsibility for their children's attitudes and actions. It is their duty to teach manners, respect, citizenship, truthfulness, etc., not the school's. Maybe if we all work together instead of against each other schools can be improved and even some of the vandalism curtailed.

Summer Tennis

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As new Winchester residents, we would like to express our appreciation for the outstanding summer tennis program sponsored by the Recreation Department.

The instruction under the direction of Michael Hills was excellent. Marilyn Chamberlain, Robin Jewell, Drennan Lowell and Marcus Julian were fine teachers and hopefully will return again next year.

This kind of program helps to make Winchester unique and will always have our support.

County Assessment Saves $71,232

Middlesex County has informed the town that Winchester's 1972 assessment for operating the county government was $558,521.

"That assessment projected over 18 months would have been $837,781. The 1973-1974 assessment under our administration is $766,549. Thus the savings to the people of Winchester is $71,232.

"We invite you to meet with us to discuss county government. Hopefully we can together effect further savings for the beleaguered taxpayers that we all represent," county commissioners S. Lester Ralph, Paul C. Tsongas and John L. Danahy wrote in a statement.

The Winchester selectmen and the commissioners have been embroiled in a months-long dispute over assessment practices for operating Middlesex Hospital in Waltham.

Charter Commission

History Of Home Rule

This is the first of three articles by Robert C. Ericson explaining the move for a charter commission to possibly change the structure of town government in Winchester. Ericson is a member of the Town Government Study Committee, established by town meeting to see if changes are needed.

By Bob Ericson

September 9 a citizen petition drive will be launched to obtain 2,000 validated signatures of registered voters on the question:

SHALL A COMMISSION BE ELECTED TO FRAME A CHARTER FOR THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER?

This question would appear on the ballot in the March 1974 annual town election. The petition drive is a joint effort of the Town Government Study Committee, the League of Women Voters and the Winchester Jaycees. Because citizens should be made aware of what a charter commission is and how it functions before being asked to sign a petition, three articles have been prepared to provide factual background information. This first one traces the development of the home rule concepts which have made local self-government possible.

DEVELOPMENT OF HOME RULE

The advantages which could be achieved by the adoption of a home rule charter for Winchester can best be appreciated by examining the evolving relationship between the town and the state. In early colonial times, communities organized their own local governments and managed their own local affairs.

Each town functioned largely independently of any higher authority, except for a few laws that were commonly accepted by all communities. The earliest municipal charters, sometimes granted directly by royal governors, gave local corporations very broad powers over citizenship, military establishments, property, trade, transportation and other matters. It was not until after the Revolutionary War that the legislatures of the new states began to enforce claims of sovereign power over matters of local concern.

LOCAL CONTROL

Charters granted by state governments became increasingly restrictive in the early nineteenth century, and the idea that local communities should be left alone as much as possible all but disappeared. As voting rights were expanded and immigration increased, local government, especially in the seaboard cities, experienced a period of incompetent and corrupt political rule, which led states to intervene further in local affairs.

However, when the states stepped in to clean up the local messes, there was always the tendency to go too far and pass over into raw political manipulation of strictly local affairs.

Early efforts to protect municipalities from the ever-expanding domination of state governments were conducted in the name of home rule as it existed in colonial times. But this argument was denied first in state courts and later in the federal courts.

In 1923 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled: "A municipality is merely a department of the state and the state may withhold, grant or withdraw powers and privileges as it sees fit. However great or small its sphere of action, it (the municipality) remains a creature of the state."

ADVANTAGES OF HOME RULE

While this basic relationship between state and town remains, a new approach has been developed which provides that municipalities with home rule charters may exercise any power not specifically denied them by general law or by their charter. This approach has become a reality in Massachusetts through the home rule amendment to the state constitution adopted in 1961.

Proponents of home rule have advanced several common arguments to support their cause. First, they have noted that a well-conceived system of home rule frees the state legislature from spending time on purely local matters, enabling it to concentrate more effectively on statewide affairs.

Secondly, state legislative action on local matters is less effective than local control and allows local officials to evade responsibility for the discharge of local business. Finally, if governmental problems are not dealt with at the local level when possible, there will be further concentration of our public decision making at the state and federal levels of government.

The proponents of home rule in Massachusetts saw the limitations of the rigid pattern of state-local relationships which existed prior to 1961. Under these former restrictive legal traditions, communities had to petition the state legislature frequently for authority to do even relatively minor things about the organization of their local government.

ADOPTION AND RATIFICATION

Local agitation for change—for some form of constitutional home rule—goes back nearly two decades. Such an amendment was first submitted to the state legislature in 1963. The proposal swiftly won the bipartisan support of the leadership of both major parties, the then incumbent Gov. Endicott Peabody (D), and his successor, John A. Volpe (R).

The home rule amendment proposal was first approved by the state legislature on July 16, 1963 (by a vote of 208-43) and was agreed to (by a vote of 219-39) by another joint session on May 19, 1965. The home rule amendment appeared as Question 4 on the ballot of the state election, November 8, 1966.

It received overwhelming approval.

SELF-GOVERNMENT
Ratification of the home rule amendment has guaranteed to the people of the cities and towns of the Commonwealth—for the first time—a constitutional basis for true, local self-government. In addition to the obvious intent of the grant of local self-government spelled out in Section 1 of the amendment, home rule provides these three fundamental rights: (1) The power, within municipal boundaries, for a citizens' charter commission to frame and revise a home rule charter for local approval or rejection; (2) the right for cities and towns to exercise any power or function which the state legislature has the power to confer upon them; (3) protection for the cities and towns from unwarranted and unnecessary interference in local matters by the state government.

Next week's article will explain how Winchester can claim its home rule powers.

Acknowledgment is made to a joint publication of the Bureau of Public Affairs, Boston College Bureau of Government Research and the University of Massachusetts as a major source for this article.

Letter From The Editor

Community

Community is a much used and abused word. It's one of those trendy words that's supposed to contain some magic when spoken. It's supposed to elicit an automatic favorable response when inserted in the right places. Often the speakers have little understanding what community is really about.

Charles H. Pyne of 15 Lawrence st. sent The Star a four-page article from The Royal Bank of Canada Monthly dealing with communities. Charlie thinks Star readers might be interested in it since "the theme is appropriate and publication might well serve to balance the criticism of town meeting forms of government."

Here are a few excerpts. If anyone would like to see the complete article we have it at The Star office.

"Next to the family, the community is the most important centre of the activities that make life human, civilized and cultured. No other environment contributes so significantly to nourish the intimate values of life.

"Grave digging authors and lecturers are busy burying the community spirit under tons of words in praise of political take-over, with management by computers, statistics and experts. However, you can not make a community by law. Governments on all levels from municipal to federal are learning this through their abortive efforts to impose neighborhood redevelopment programmes without consulting and involving the people who live there.

"Citizens interest themselves in community work for many reasons. It is a safeguard against too much government; it satisfies the desire to contribute something to humanity; it broadens experiences and the mind; it gives a person something to do that is worth while. It provides fellowship.

"The good citizen is not a romantic idealist. He forms a plan for improving his environment, he wins supporters, he rallies helpers, he cements the blocks of his edifice with his work.

"The annual report of a municipality should be more than a tabulation of taxes collected and money spent. The real purpose of the administration is not to collect and expend money. The question to be answered at the year's end is: 'Did we meet the human needs of the people?'

"Listen to the young people. They want to be an effective part of the human race. They are excited by the idea of what they can contribute. They have views unencumbered by defeats, disappointments and disillusionment.

"They are passionate about causes and issues, and are more likely to join enthusiastically in a thoroughgoing reform than in a half-way palliative measure.

"Young people have needs. It is not an efficient answer to today's street-corner culture to keep a child under house-arrest. The community must provide out-of-school activities and healthful outlets for creative energies. Encourage young people to organize their own councils and boards, so that they attain responsibility by having a voice in community projects and activities. Give them the space, the opportunity, and the tools to make their own games, places and sports fields.

"A group will fail utterly if it becomes preoccupied with methodology. No strict adherence to a book of rules is needed, but every meeting should be governed by cardinal principles of parliamentary procedure: justice and courtesy for all; recognition of the will of the majority; protection of the rights of the minority; one thing at a time.

"By belonging, we accept certain responsibilities for constructive contribution. The good citizen will take the fate of his community into his own hands and will shape its destiny by collaborating with other citizens. Then things happen. Problems get solved. Wrong things are made right. The beauty and spirit of the community are enhanced."

Our readers tell us that Carmelita Pope's family runs a cooking school and restaurant in Chicago. Those television ads she makes were done for audiences out west. "That's why we don't know who the heck she is," one reader says. Now that I know, I wish I didn't.

People who own dogs in this town better be more careful about observance of the leash law. Dogs are required to be on leashes from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Town meeting passed this 12-hour law instead of a 24-hour law as a break to dog owners. The meeting's attitude was to see how the half-day restriction worked out.

If the same few owners of dogs continue to let their beasts annoy pedestrians, chase bicycles and get under the wheels of cars, scaring the wits out of anyone who dares take to the streets in Winchester, then they are going to spoil it for all dog owners by forcing the town to enact an all-day law.

For at least three days in a row last week the temperature in Winchester went over 100 degrees. Friday at 3 p.m. it was 102.5 degrees in indirect sunlight at the Winchester Savings Bank.

The times-change department. Ten years ago the Cambridge Center for Adult Education brochure of courses listed instruction in piano playing, art and music appreciation and similar conventional classes.

This year's fall brochure lists such far out classes as Self Flight, Cambridge Dining ("The greatest way to get to know Cambridge is through your stomach. Five meetings. $10. Price of meals not included"), Radical Economics, The Making and Designing of Backpacking Equipment, Role Playing, On Being a Woman, Male-Female Workshop ("How do we feel about our interactions and relationships with people of the opposite and same sex?"), Wear easy clothes ("... combines a strong emphasis on non-conformity with an ideal of world harmony..."), Parapsychology, Prisons, Community Alternatives and You, Burglar-Proof Your Home, Erotic Art.

Traditionalists will be happy to know there are still courses in flower arranging, photography and furniture refinishing.

Part Two

20th Birthday In New York

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is part two of excerpts taken from a diary written in 1926 by a 20-year-old man who left school for six months to work as an ordinary seaman on a fruit freighter. His diary was found on the premises of The Star, leaving the idea that the writer is a former employee of the newspaper. Though the diary gives clues to his identity and publication of part one has brought forth some names of people who may have been the writer which we will follow up, as of this date we do not know his identity. If you think you know who he is, call The Star office or drop us a note.

May 5

Have spent a most enjoyable week-end in Boston. Did night watch 12 on 36 off. Had birthday party Tues. Supper at HC with Dean Greenough and Mr. Drummond. Coaxed the first freshmen in the afternoon.

Had the good fortune to get raised to AB at $55. It really amounts to a quartermaster's job. We left Boston today for New York--will be gone two months I expect and will go to many South American ports.

Saturday was knocked over when hawser came off bit and struck my stomach. Today got struck in the face in the same way--my face is a sight!

Got new mattress and pillows as well as clean linen this trip. Have not slept for 48 hours. Am turning in for 4 hours. Later I will do 4 & 8--much better in every way.

Steered the boat thru Martha's Vineyard and the South on my watch from 12-4 tonight. Near Cuttyhunk you could almost touch the land--we have a pilot on a board from Boston to NY--passed the NY-Boston boat.

We are now in New York taking on a general cargo for Cuba, Jamaica and Colombia.

Today I am 20 years old. Dad gave me $10 dollars for a birthday present and mother wrote me a nice letter and enclosed $10 dollars also. I steered the ship out of New York harbor--we left about three o'clock and took it as far as rum row just off the Jersey coast. After eight o'clock I sat down and smoked one of Dad's good cigars, a birthday present, then turned in.

I have the 4-8 watch--this AB-quartermaster job is far better than the others--more sleep, better watch. The quartermasters have to do an hour's work on the bridge each day and I relieve the wheelman for 1/2 hour at 10 a.m.

The boatswain knows a lot about navigation so he brought his books along this trip and I had my first lesson tonight in navigation. It is quite complicated but a little study will make a great difference--above all it is more interesting.

Slept out on the hatch all night and got up at 5:30. Went to work at six painting over the side. At 7:30 we moved in to the dock, I being at the wheel. It was a hard job there being a strong wind blowing.

Later on I was sent up the funnel in a boatswain's chair to crape the steam pipe. Just as I got into the chair the boilers blew off sending a cloud of hot steam shooting up with a tremendous force. I managed to grab the top of the funnel and go around the whole stack hand over hand to the ladder.

The result was that I only got burnt on my left arm and right leg. They all saw that if it had been somebody else they would have been burned to death or would have fallen and nearly killed themselves. When I reached the ladder I looked down and all I could see was upturned faces and people yelling.

Mr. Drummond let me take a bath in the officers' bathroom and then I got bandaged up and the rest of the day off, so I am dressed up and think I will go ashore.

We were very lucky this trip for we had plenty of time to go ashore in Colon. We arrived here about 6 and leave about one tonight.

Colon is a most interesting place with its Hindu bazaars and tropical scenery. I bought a good Panama hat, a nice Spanish shawl and a cigarette box with a stork on it. The Hindus always place the price about three times what the thing is worth and it is always possible to beat them down three times. They are superstitious about letting a person go out without buying something. Colon is one of the best places I have been in on any trip.

July 31

Today finds us putting out to sea again. This is to be my last voyage. I hope it is a pleasant one. It hardly seems possible that I have been at sea four months now.

Fritz only made one trip and then left me in New York. We both had a very good time, especially in Conlon where we had a dinner fit for a king, cocktails, champagne and liquors. Also saw Gatun Locks. Fritz did not make much of a go of the sea and I think that the work was a little too much for him, but who wants to work during his vacation? In New York we both went to Coney Island where we had a fine time going on everything.

There have been some changes in the crew this trip. Mr. Drummond is going Captain and Mr. Robinson is back as third. I have the 4-8 watch this trip which makes the trip much better.

While in N.Y. I went to the top of the Statue of Liberty for we are due back in NY the 24th of August. It will seem good to get back home again although I am getting accustomed to this life.

August 18-19

(last entry)

We left Colombia late and arrived at Colon at eight Sunday evening. This is my last visit to Colon and I certainly had a good time for two nights on little money. A Cabaret called Bilgray's was where I sat and drank and had a couple of dances. It was a most enjoyable two nights and I did the town up brown.

We left Tues. and expect to arrive in New York Wed. the 24th making my five months of work just to the dot. It hardly seems possible that I have been on board here for five months and away from home nearly as long. It certainly will seem good to get home. I bought a very good parrot in Colombia and have just taught him to speak a little.

Comparing the way Fritz got along on the ship and many other things, I have decided that after all the loss of money and time by leaving college was not altogether wasted.

What I possess in the way of being able to get along with my fellowmen--no matter who they may be--(I am glad Fritz came with me to get these facts) and my ability to quickly catch on to new things and what I have learned from seafaring men of different viewpoints about many things, as well as useful things connected with the sea and land as well, have great value.

I have come to the conclusion that these five months have been a wonderful experience for me and were really worth the trouble and may be of vast importance some day.

Saturday Deadline
For Junior Tennis

Saturday is the deadline date to sign up for the Junior Tennis Championships. Boys will compete on Sept. 12. Girls will play on Sept. 18.

Plans are for two age groups for singles: from 13 to 15 years of age, and 12 years of age and under. Doubles play will feature those who are 15 years of age or older.

BIG CATCH - Bridegroom George Enman (his bride is the former Jane Sewall of Winchester), while honeymooning in Bermuda caught the largest game fish ever taken in Bermuda waters recently. Two sets of scales were needed to weigh the huge blue marlin which was finally logged at 631 pounds. It was Enman's first attempt at deep sea fishing. The fish head will be mounted.

Autobiography: The Island

BOOK REVIEW

by Enid G. Houlding
Winchester Public Library

From observation of the general trend of writing today, it seems that we do not expect other than a negative quality in our reading. We expect our books to be about the violent grasp of power, puzzles to be solved in the violent taking of life, or fables of young and lovely girls who go through untold hardships, persecution, even witchcraft, before emerging into the unlikely state of Happy Ever After.

Robert Russell's autobiography has nothing in common with any of the foregoing. He has been blind since an accident at the age of five, but has not allowed his handicap to be one. He and his wife scraped and saved to buy a summer cottage on an island in the St. Lawrence River and for years he has been the chief fixer of all the things that can possibly go wrong in a summer cottage—bats in the attic, trouble with the plumbing, or hurricanes battering their house and dock. He can still remember his seeing years—and describes the first time he went fishing at the age of five, with his 20-year-old brother, Bud, who made for him a rod from a branch, tied on four feet of line and a worm and inflated him into an all-time disciplinarian of Izaak Walton.

Like many other fishermen, Robert felt the need to get off by himself in a boat and just fish, but this obviously presented a problem to a blind man. He confided this problem to a colleague, Durrell Enck, chairman of the physics department at Franklin and Marshall College where Robert himself teaches English—

"...I need a way of keeping in touch with my dock—a radio transmitter or something like that." "Have you got electricity?" Yes, just got it. "Well, what about a bell, or something like that?" "That's an idea, but I can't have a bell ringing solidly while I'm out fishing. I have a neighbor nearby." "Suppose it rang just once in a while—maybe every twenty seconds?" "That would be good. That would really do the trick."

Durrell got to work in his lab on an electric motor which would allow current to pass at intervals to ring a bell and Robert installed this according to Durrell's instructions. On his first excursion his son, Richie, spotted him and ran up to enquire where he was going.

"Just out for a little row." I pulled gently on the oars and the boat slid out toward the channel. "Can you go out by yourself, Dad?" Ding...Ding. "Sure." "Will you take me for a little ride?" "Have you got your life jacket on?" "Yep." "Okay. Hang on." I backed-watered till the stern bumped gently against the dock. He climbed in. We had our ride and I docked again easily. The gate out onto the river had swung open for me.

Robert describes his first morning by himself out in his boat, when he caught and landed an eight and a half pound pike. Anyone who has seen a picture of a pike with its large mouth and needlelike teeth will be able to imagine the difficulty of picking such a fish up out of the water. He had to grab it by the gills—but where were the gills?

This family decided that the most valuable thing they could give their children would be good memories of their childhood to carry forward and mold into their own lives. They are people who may grumble about the work they have to do to get things as they want them, but go ahead and work at it anyway. They aren't in the least "goody-goody" but this is an inspiring book.

Children's Theater Meeting Scheduled

The Rich Room of the public library has been reserved by those interested in reviving children's theater in Winchester for Sept. 11 and 12, 3:30 to 5 p.m., to discuss registration, tuition scholarships and plans.

Parents and youths are invited to attend. Organized by Carlene Samoloff, the group hopes to produce its first play in December. There will be places in the production for about 40 children, Mrs. Samoloff said, from ages from 14.

The four year old to seven year old children will meet regularly one afternoon a week for the first six weeks, from 3:30 to 5 o'clock.

Arson Fire Is Investigated

Winchester firefighters fought two blazes in the last week, one of them apparently set and the other caused by overloading of an electrical circuit resulting in extensive damage to a home.

Vandals are thought to have ignited shingles in the middle of the first floor of a house under construction at 14 Berkshire dr. The fire occurred Saturday at 1:45 a.m. The house is being constructed by Charles W. Johnson for Gino Giangrande of Arlington. The fire damaged the support studs. It is being investigated by the state Fire Marshall's office.

The other fire was at the home of Nicholas J. Dizio at 59 Wendell st. Thursday at 11 a.m. A Fire Department report said the one-alarm blaze heavily damaged a second floor bedroom, where the fire started.

There was heavy smoke and heat damage to the second floor and water damage to the first. Probable cause of the blaze was listed as an overheated extension cord due to overloading. Dizio was home at the time. The remainder of his family was away on vacation. Two firefighters received minor injuries.

Last Thursday at midnight firefighters were called to the Parkview Apartments, 200 Swanton st., to investigate water leaking on cleaning chemicals.

Employees had been repairing a leak and pumping the basement. A pail containing the chemicals apparently had broken, giving off fumes when contacting the water.

Firefighters put on masks and protective coats to remove the pail and used a booster hose to wash the material away.

Vandalism, Break On Police Blotter

Winchester police in the last week investigated reports of vandalism, breaking and entering and accidents.

Assembled Homes on Holton street reported Sunday morning a whisky bottle thrown at a plate glass window and a sign uprooted. The window was not broken.

Harold Moran, superintendent of Wildwood Cemetery, reported Sunday morning several water faucets broken off.

A concrete planter was reported stolen from 66 Arlington st. Friday night. The 14-by-14 inch planter was on an outside wall.

Friday evening's thunderstorm set off the burglar alarm at Lynch Junior High School on Brantwood road, knocked down a tree limb at 127 Church st. and knocked out electrical power in areas of Pond and Church streets and Glen road and Cambridge street.

The Gately home at 89 Wildwood st. was reported broken into by forcing a rear door. It was not known if anything was missing.

Brother's Pizza, 883 Main st., reported last Wednesday at 11:30 p.m. that a man bought $5 worth of food and took off.

Accident reports included: Residents of Brantwood road said a small blue car smashed through a metal gate at Lynch Junior High School and left the scene; resident of Highland ter. reported a car rolled out onto Highland avenue, striking his car; a 48-year-old Woburn man was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol after the car he was driving reportedly ran into the rear of a car going into the driveway at 222 Cambridge st.; two cars collided last Friday at Washington and Mt. Vernon sts.

There were no reports of injuries in any of these accidents.

Sheeran Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Sheeran Sr. (Elizabeth Bradley) of Wakefield are parents of their first child, a son, Charles Gerard Sheeran Jr. born Aug. 30. Grandparents are Mrs. Charles G. Sheeran and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marderosian, all of Woburn.

Wadman Serves On Committee

Wallace W. Wadman of Park st., a deacon at Boston's Tremont Temple Baptist Church, is serving on the committee for the annual reunion and homecoming dinner to be held Sept. 17 at the Dorothy Quincy suite of the Hancock Building, Boston.

Featured speaker will be the Rev. "Don" Lonie of Illinois.

Tel. Books To Be Delivered

Nearly 240,000 copies of New England Telephone's new North Suburban directory, including Winchester, will be delivered beginning today. Surf breaking on the Wintrop shore is featured in a color photograph on the cover of the new book. Delivery of the directory will be completed by Oct. 4.

★Selectmen

fielding many questions covering a wide area, selectmen agreed a committee should be named. They decided to go to the engineering department, zoning board, and others for recommendations of names of citizens to be on the committee. They agreed with MacDonald that at least one lawyer would be needed.

Selectman William Chapman appealed to the press to inform the public of the formation of a study group and for those with knowledge in this area to contact selectmen.

No Junk Picking

Installation of a "No Junk Picking" sign at the town incinerator has caused alarm by many of the town's citizens. A letter to selectmen from Emmons Ellis of 14 Hillside ave. requested the new policy be stopped since his son used the dump as a place to find television and other appliance parts of his repairing hobby. Selectman Vito Giarrizzo said he had received many telephone calls from others asking that the picking policy be reinstated.

Giarrizzo explained the town has no contract with any junk dealer but has a verbal agreement with one contractor who hauls junk away at no cost to the town with an understanding that he takes all. "Safety to children" is another factor to be considered, Giarrizzo said, before recommending the town keep its present policy until the waste study committee comes forward with its proposal.

Liddell Birth

Capt. and Mrs. Robert J. Liddell (Mary Anne Gramow) announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Jennifer Florence, on Aug. 31, in Augusta, Ga. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Gramow of 5 Dennett rd. and Dennisport, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Liddell of Watertown and North Falmouth.

HS Gym Evening, Weekend Programs Begin Sept. 22

The senior high school gymnasium will be open evenings and weekends for public use beginning Sept. 22 and running through June 1974.

This fall's schedule is as follows:

Saturday, 9 a.m.-7 p.m.
Sunday, 1 p.m.-7 p.m.
Monday, 6:30-9:30 p.m.
Wednesday, 6:30-9:30 p.m.
Friday, 6:30-9:30 p.m.

The new gym concept is for Winchester residents only. Adults will meet in the evenings. Adults and youths will meet on the weekends. There will also be special youth hours during all school vacations.

Membership cards may be obtained, at no cost, at the gym during any of the open sessions. Adult cards are for anyone over 18 years of age. Youth cards are for anyone 15-18. Some proof of residence is required to obtain a card. An outside Winchester guest may use the facility only if accompanied by a resident, and only if the gym is not too crowded.

The gym area supervisor will be Francis Lane, a teacher at Lynch Junior High. Any questions regarding this new program should be directed to Lane by calling his home, 58 Nichols rd., Malden.

The gym, 220 x 140 feet, will permit six basketball games to be played at once. There are set-ups for volleyball, badminton, tennis (in the winter), golf, handball, jogging, weight lifting and street hockey. Participants must supply their own rackets or birdies.

Because senior high equipment will be used, a token fee of 50c for adults and 25c for youth will be charged daily. This money will be used for the replacement of damaged equipment; possibly for purchasing new equipment; or for having the gym lined for tennis. It is felt the small fee will help guarantee a successful program.

The men's and women's shower rooms will not be open because of lack of supervision.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Janet Dewar Manzie of 9 Webster st. and Francis R. Manzie Sr. of Boston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mello of Pembroke.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Francis R. Manzie Jr. of Winchester. The bride wore a band of yellow roses attached to a shoulder length tulle veil and carried a cascade of yellow roses and stephanotis.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Wilfred G. Laurin of Tewksbury, was matron of honor. She wore a French blue voile empire gown featuring a high neckline edged with ruffled lace. Ruffled lace also edged the long fitted sleeves and the flounce at the hemline. She wore a white picture hat and carried an Italian straw basket filled with yellow roses and yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Francis R. Manzie Jr. of Winchester, sister-in-law of the bride; Pamela Mello of Pembroke, sister of the bridegroom; and Mrs. Douglas Robinson of Littleton. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant and carried white daisies in their baskets.

Warren Delaney Jr. of Weymouth was best man. Ushers included John Morrison of Long Island, N.Y., Glenn DiNatale of Whitman, and Edward Mello of South Hadley.

Knit Shop Owner Points To Right Needles, Yarns, Kits

A shop selling yarn and accessory materials brings to mind "knit one, purl two" and resulting mittens, stocking caps or sweaters.

The Knit Shop at 33 Thompson st. is more than a place to buy domestic and imported yarn and knitting needles, it is a haven for creative artists operated by a teaching craftsman.

The Knit Shop has been in Winchester for 25 years. Mrs. Priscilla Heindel of 17 Seneca rd., its fourth owner, has been proprietor for 2 1/2 years. Previously she worked part-time in the store for Laura Johnston who owned the shop for about 11 years. Before that Adeline Haver and her sister, Dora Whorf, ran the shop.

Mrs. Heindel stresses the importance of quality yarn versus "discount yarns" pointing out that the former will give "a better garment that will stand up under wear and washing."

Besides yarn, The Knit Shop features needlepoint and crewel kits, canvases and yarns. Mrs. Heindel explains needlepoint is canvas work while crewel is embroidery with wool on line.

The shop has a full line of yarns for afghans and sweaters, both wool and acrylic (machine washable). There are also patterns, books, knitting bags and a complete line of buttons and other accessories.

Special features include imported Scottish tartans on 54" wide bolts; also, men's viyella shirts. For those who want a finished kilt or hostess kilt (floor length), the shop personnel will take a person's measurements and order finished garments from Scotland. "It's amazing to me that they come back and fit perfectly," Mrs. Heindel says.

Mrs. Heindel explains the interest in Scotch tartans is popular in Winchester because so many residents are curling enthusiasts.

Popular with grandmothers are a new specialty item—Polly Flinders hand-smocked baby dresses which are made in the Caribbean and offered in sizes infant to 6X. To match the dresses, many Winchester grandmothers buy kits to make matching sweaters.

Also popular are latch hook and punch hook kits for making rugs and pillows.

Mrs. Heindel makes it a point to have completed samples of the various kits she offers to give customers an opportunity to see what the finished product should look like.

Mrs. Heindel began knitting when she was about six years old. Her mother, Mrs. Hazel Chase of Cape Cod, was her teacher. Mrs. Chase is a master craftsman who is an author and judge on weaving.

Last spring Mrs. Heindel spoke to the home economics creative arts class at Winchester High School. She enjoys teaching knitting and crocheting, particularly to young people, who show great interest as they turn to handwork.

This year Mrs. Heindel will continue to conduct crocheting and knitting lessons. Also this fall she plans to begin needlepoint and crewel classes. All classes will be on a limited basis.

Mrs. Heindel tries to stick close to students of all ages to make certain they use the right needles for the right yarns. Her reason is to ensure "utmost satisfaction from their efforts." Mrs. Heindel says there is nothing so discouraging than to "make something too big or too small, and things can be corrected so easily."

At The Knit Shop, while mothers and dads (Mrs. Heindel points to two very good male knitters who buy materials from her) make their purchases, children are able to entertain themselves at a small library table featuring children's books. During The Star interview a youngster noted the table had new books.

Carolyn Morse of Fairlawn terr. has been a part-time employee of The Knit Shop for three years. This summer Sue Boardman, home economics teachers at the high school, worked in the shop.

Mrs. Heindel is married to Dennis Heindel. They have four children. Craig, a graduate of Dartmouth, is a geologist. Kathy, a graduate of the University of Maine, is a French teacher in Newburyport. Lorain, a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, works for the YMCA at Holyoke. And Janet, a 1973 Winchester High graduate, plans to enter the University of Vermont majoring in physical therapy.

LWV Meeting Sept. 19 On Center

Plans for revitalizing Winchester Center will be explored at an open meeting of the League of Women Voters on Wednesday evening, Sept. 19, in the Muraco School auditorium.

Principal speaker will be Prof. Edward Wood, MIT specialist in urban studies. He will talk on the role of the suburban community in relationship to the metropolis. Members of key town committees will be present to answer questions from the audience.

Winchester residents are invited by the chairman, Mrs. Albert Muggia, to attend along with league members. This informational meeting is in preparation for the special town meeting in October when the rezoning proposals of the Planning Board and those of the Design and Architectural Review Committee will be discussed and voted on.

The Sept. 19 meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. Coffee will be served by the league hospitality committee, headed by Mrs. George Humphreys.

Boots 'N' Blades Opens Enrollment

Boots 'N' Blades children's figure skating program has opened enrollment for the 1973-74 season.

Co-chairmen for the Winchester Wellesley Club-sponsored lessons Mrs. Lane McGovern and Mrs. Daniel Lisberger said, "After the spring first preference enrollment for former students, a few places now remain open in both the junior and senior groups for new enrollees." Applications are available at the Winchester Sport Shop in Winchester and Zwicker's Sport Shop in Arlington.

For the second year figure skating classes for children, grades 1-8, will be held at the Universal Sports Arena, Conant road, Winchester. Two consecutive 10-week sessions will run from Nov. 3 through Jan. 5, and Jan. 12 through March 16.

Saturday classes will meet at 10:50 a.m. for seniors—boys and girls grades 4-8—and at 11:55 a.m. for juniors—girls and boys grades 1-3. Hour-long sessions include a half-hour of professional instruction and a half-hour of instructed practice. The program is run along United States Figure Skating Assoc. guidelines.

A special feature this year will be an afternoon of skate fitting and advice on October 5 from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Lane McGovern, 7 Yale st. Program director Joyce Winship will check enrollees' skates for fit and advise parents.

All profits from this community service project are donated by the Winchester-Wellesley Club to the Winchester Scholarship Fund and Wellesley College.

John Hamilton Wins Three Firsts In Regatta Meets

The culmination of the children's sailing program at the Winchester Boat Club took place last Wednesday and Thursday when two regattas were held, including turnabouts from both the Winchester and Medford clubs. On these two mid-week mornings 22 beginner and intermediate skippers sailed the four-race series which allowed one discard. John Hamilton was the clear first-place winner with three firsts and a second. Second place was won by Rosemary Webb of Medford, with Kathleen Buckley of Winchester finishing a strong third. These children were trophy winners.

In the afternoons 11 of the most advanced skippers from both clubs sailed a five-race series. Again first place was easily taken by Jim Girard, who had four firsts and a ninth.

Second place went to Tony Alberti of Medford. Competition was keen for that third place and ended in a tie between Fred Hagedorn and Linda Hamilton. These skippers were awarded trophies at an award ceremony held on Friday at the Winchester Boat Club. At this time Clifford Lyon and Jayne Brady were given the trophy for the most improved boy and girl in the sailing classes.

Friday's pirate race winners were David Rogers and Ray Kenney, who found the "treasure." Edward, Peter, and Alex Mills were rewarded for being the best costumed sailors.

The Great Almost-Giveaway Rug Sale

Our rug buyer isn't speaking to us.

We ordered so much new furniture at the '74 markets that we're running out of space to stock it all. That means he has to clear out the warehouse area where he's been hoarding one-of-a-kind and discontinued rugs. Rugs he couldn't bring himself to mark down.

Now he's sorry. Because that space must be clear in time for our next shipment, we're marking every one of his rugs below our original cost. (Costs that would be even higher today.)

That's all, though. No pretty things up for you. Except for putting bright lights in that corner of the stockroom. So you can really see the colors, the textures and the conditions of what's in this Almost-Giveaway Sale.

What's in it is something for everybody who has all or part of a floor, hall, or staircase to cover. For example:

There's much more. All unbelievable bargains, because we are so desperate for stock space.

We're also putting very special sale prices on just 3 grades of quality broadloom, just in case you want a special size rug. Or in case there aren't enough in our buyer's hoard to go around. 100 percent nylon shag in 27 decorator colors at $9.95 square yard from $12.95, 100 percent nylon twist available in 10 distinctive colors at $6.50 square yard from $8.50 and 100 percent nylon design shag in 36 beautiful colors at $9.50 square yard from $12.00.

Kadesch Plays International Tennis Match

Phil Kadesch, 15 Mayflower rd., played No. 1 for New England in the International Junior Challenge Bowl tennis matches against Canada last week. He accounted for three of the four victories chalked up by the New England boys in matches held at the Monkland Tennis Club in Montreal.

In the feature match Kadesch defeated Graeme Duff, the current Canadian national junior champion.

After falling behind 2-6, 0-2, he rallied to pull out a victory, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1. In other matches the local player defeated the Canadian No. 2 singles player also and split two doubles matches. His partner was Richard Herbst of Worcester, Massachusetts State High School champion.

This was an off year for the New England junior boys as a whole because they won only four matches against eight losses to the Canadian juniors. The New England girls won eight and lost four making the total result 12 matches won and 12 lost after the completion of the two days of play.

ON WAY HOME - Three Springfield divers stop at Horn Pond on their way home from diving in the ocean. The fresh water of the pond permits them to rinse off their equipment and suits, they report. Questioned by police as to their swimming ability while donning their suits, they were given permission to proceed and asked to be on the lookout for bottled liquor supposedly hidden in a pipe buried in the water.

Sachem Gridders Face Scrimmages

By John F. Parrell

After about 10 days of practice sessions, all with the mercury reading above 90 degrees, Coach Manny Marshall's football team has entered upon its scrimmage schedule.

Yesterday afternoon Somerville came to Manchester Field under new coach Bill Quinlan. Chelmsford is listed for Saturday afternoon, and Wayland will be here a week from Saturday morning.

Although the weather has been much more favorable for swimming than football, the team has made good progress. The players have rounded into shape, and the new style offense and defense is functioning fairly well.

Just how well will be shown in the head-to-head workouts listed above. From what the Sachems showed in their intra-squad scrimmage they should be able to handle Somerville fairly well. The visitors have had very little practice and are in the throes of absorbing a new system.

The four-day workouts held at Horizons for Youth Camp in Sharon found 86 boys training with the Winchester coaches. There were no serious injuries other than the usual early season aches and pains.

Trainer Frank Provinzano was right on hand to minister to the needs of anybody who needed help. The trip to camp on Tuesday, and the return trip on Saturday evening, was made in cars provided by parents, friends and royal rosters.

Chelmsford, where Coach Marshall lives, is one of the small schools which is having growing pains in sports. They opened last season by shocking Div. 1 power, Lowell. An upset of the Sachems in Saturday's scrimmage would be the answer to their fondest dreams.

The full game scrimmage with Wayland has been an annual event for the past three years. Pete Sullivan, now coach of the Woburn Tanners, was in charge of the Wayland 11 in those years. With qualified board officials handling the scrimmages the players are instructed in the reasons for penalties called, which helps them avoid penalties in similar circumstances in regularly scheduled games.

It would be unwise to list the starters at this time, since at least half a dozen of the 22 starting positions on offense and defense are still up for grabs. Will this be an undefeated or a winning season? Who knows?

The team has good size and speed, but from present indications it would appear to rely much more on quick opening and pitch-out plays with short passes than one which would grind out yardage by power or spectacular long aerial shots. It will play a disciplined style, as have all Marshall coached 11, and should be a major factor deciding where the Middlesex League title will go.

Burlington will be a newcomer to the schedule, and the transition to the fast style of play in the new league may be difficult. Belmont has been the door mat for the past few years, but an undefeated freshman team last year may give the Marauders a more solid nucleus.

Can Pete Sullivan work his magic at Woburn, and please the downtown quarterbacks? Consider old rivals Melrose, Stoneham, Lexington, Watertown, Reading and Wakefield. It's a long hard schedule, and the winner has to be strong, avoid serious injuries, make a minimum of mistakes, and above all get the favorable bounces from that strange shaped pigskin. It would be nice to predict another championship, but, for now, let's just hope.

GOP Women

Plan Buffet

A candlelight buffet supper on Sept. 19 at 6:30 p.m. at the Church of the Epiphany will be the first fall event for the Women's Republican Club of Winchester. Husbands and wives, including all the public, are invited. A casserole, salad or dessert, or a monetary donation is the only admission price.

Mrs. James Grassi and Mrs. John L. Lowe are co-chairwomen. Other committee members are Mrs. Arthur Anderson, Mrs. Harwood Boynton, Mrs. Raymond Delaney, Mrs. E. William Johansen and Mrs. Raymond Dillon.

To place a classified advertisement in The Star telephone 729-8100 before 4 p.m. on Tuesday.

4 Firemen To Take Emergency Training

The Winchester Fire Department has been invited to send four men to Winchester Hospital to participate in a training program for emergency medical technicians. The training will include practical emergency courses to prepare participants for the National Registry EMT examinations.

According to a communication from Fire Chief I. Francis Amico to the board of selectmen, the program will have two parts: 71 hours of classroom meetings, two sessions a week for 13 weeks; and 10 hours of in-hospital experience.

The fire chief asked selectmen to transfer or earmark $3,400 to cover the cost of the program. Selectmen voted to do so.

The course will include training in pulmonary arrest and airway obstruction, mechanical aids in breathing, cardiac arrest and other heart disturbances, fractures, injuries to various parts of the body, emergency childbirth and pediatric problems, environmental emergencies, extrication from automobiles, and communications, emergency driving and record keeping.

Hospital Friends Seek Volunteers

The Friends of Winchester Hospital have begun plans to enlist new volunteers needed for the hospital.

Last year there were 850 volunteers who donated 50,000 hours of service to the hospital. This volunteer service is one of many reasons why Winchester Hospital has been appreciated and enjoyed by area residents.

In order to continue work, the Friends are in need of more volunteers, both male and female. There will be an orientation of all people interested in being a "Friend" early in September. Volunteers who can give a few hours a month to help others should contact Mrs. Sherman Mapes of 110 Johnson rd., or the hospital volunteer office.

J. Moore Accepts $18,890 In Checks

John Moore of the Winchester Conservation Commission visited the offices of the Department of Natural Resources in Boston, recently to accept checks in the amount of $18,890 from Department Commissioner Arthur W. Brownell and Director Matthew B. Connolly Jr. of the Division of Conservation Services.

The checks represent the state's reimbursement of 50 percent of the cost of acquisition of land to provide a second and better access to an area already owned by the Conservation Commission; also for land that abuts Whipple Hill and ties in with proposed conservation land in Woburn. When completed a greenbelt will extend through Winchester, Woburn and Lexington.

Commissioner Brownell congratulated Moore and the Conservation Commission on their foresight in preserving open land in the town of Winchester for future generations.

Donald Gelfand Is Co-Director

Donald Gelfand of Winchester and assistant professor at Boston University, is a co-director of a new program to train sociologists to have necessary skills to work as staff members in community organizations, thus broadening the role of the sociologist.

The project is made possible by a $550,000 grant from the Experimental and Special Training Branch of the National Institutes of Mental Health, a division of the department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The program, funded for the next five years, will train master's degree and doctoral candidates in sociology for jobs in a variety of community-oriented organizations, including mental health and counseling centers.

According to Gelfand, "We want sociologists to become more than academicians and researchers. It's time to see if the field of sociology can move from a research trade to one that is more practicable."

Gelfand received his MA and PhD degrees from Washington University in St. Louis.

Co-directing the program with Gelfand is Prof. Irwin T. Sanders, also of Boston University.

Take me to your husband.

He's never seen anything like the new BMW Bavaria.
6 cylinders. 130 mph. Wundercar!

Tell him you want him to test-drive me. The new BMW Bavaria. Let him take the wheel. And watch him fall in love.

I was made for a man like yours. I respond to his slightest command. I'm fast. In fact, I can hit 130 mph. Cruise at 120 mph. Hour after hour. With ease. Not that he'll always want to go that fast. But in a tight situation, it's good to have an engine that delivers so much power.

And my BMW suspension, independent on all four wheels, with multi-jointed rear axle. I'm proud of how it enables me to hold the road no matter how fast I run. On hairpin curves. Even on no-pavement country lanes.

You'll notice that I am elegantly fitted out. Roomy interiors. Reclining seats. Space for four adults and plenty of luggage. But the best thing about me is that I'm fun to drive for the man who likes driving.

So, go ahead and take me to your husband. What if he does go for me? It's better than having him fall for another woman.

FACTS

BY FRANK MAHONEY

Ever hear of Dr. Nicolas Barbon? It was he who first decided to establish an office dedicated entirely to fire insurance. Dr. Barbon, although he lacked the capital necessary to make a great venture in this business, did prove this: that fire insurance is a necessity and that it can be provided successfully. In 1860, in London, Barbon formed a partnership in order that he might divide the risks he had been assuming alone.

Don't YOU take any risks: be sure - insure with FRANCIS A. MAHONEY INSURANCE AGENCY, 913 Mass. Ave., 613-3600. We Think Of The Children Too...

Very seldom do we see children with neat-looking hair. The reason is their hair is very fine, making it difficult to cut. Ultimately it is difficult to give it a style that will hold.

It's the haircut that counts...

The Style Of The Cut

should be decided in correspondence with nature, the quality of the hair, the form of the face, and the appearance of the ears, are all to be considered for a unique style of each child. By using this method the hair will stay in place.

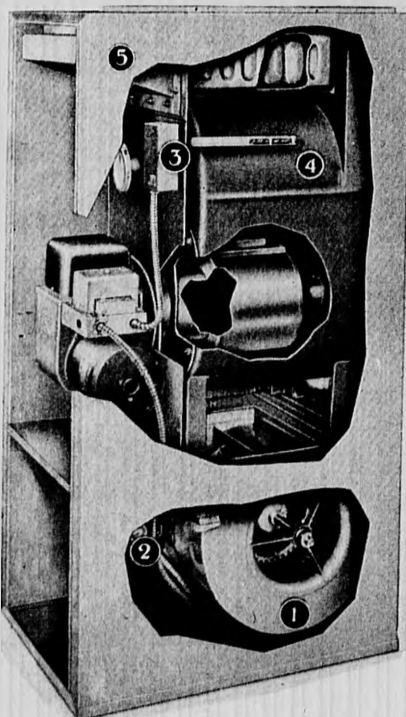

To keep up the hairstyle nothing is better than your finger, a comb, and naturally, a blower...

For purposes of these regulations, major recreational equipment is defined as including boats and boat trailers, travel trailers, pick-up campers or coaches (designed to be mounted on automotive vehicles), motorized dwellings, tent trailers, and the like, and cases or boxes used for transporting recreational equipment, whether occupied by such equipment or not. No such equipment shall be used for living, sleeping, or housekeeping purposes when parked or stored. Where, by reason of unique conditions, the strict application of these regulations would result in peculiar and exceptional practical difficulties, the Board of Appeals may issue a permit to allow the parking or storage of major recreational equipment within a front or side yard.

5.5 Parking and Storage of Certain Vehicles

Unregistered motor vehicles or trailers of any kind or type shall not be parked or stored on any residentially zoned property other than in completely enclosed buildings.

6.2 Supplementary Regulations

6.21 In addition to minimum lot area requirements for certain districts, density of land use is further regulated as follows:

a. In the Apartment District (RB-20), Business Districts (BL-0.50), (GBD 1.0) and (CBD 2.0) Light Industrial District (IL-1.0), Conservancy-Institutional District (SCI-0.5), the Floor Area Ratio shall not exceed maximum values for each District. The Floor Area Ratio is computed by dividing the total floor area, based on the outside dimensions at each story, of all buildings on the lot by the total area of the lot. The maximum Floor Area Ratio for these districts is as follows:

| Apartment District (RB-20) | -2.0* |
| Local Business District | -0.50 |
| General Business District GBD | -1.0 |
| Center Business District CBD | -2.0 |
| Light Industrial District (IL) | -1.0 |
| Conservancy-Institutional District (SCI) | -0.5 |

* If required off-street parking is provided within a garage on the site, maximum Floor Area Ratio may be increased to 2.5.

b. In the Apartment District (RA-120) there shall be provided 3,000 square feet of lot area per dwelling unit containing one room used for sleeping; 3,500 square feet of lot area per unit with two such rooms; 4,000 square feet of lot area per unit with three or more such rooms.

c. In the Apartment District (RB-20), each lot shall contain not less than following square footage of lot area per dwelling unit:

| Lot Area | Lot Area Per Dwelling Unit |
|---------------------------|----------------------------|
| 20,000 - 24,999 sq. ft. | 600 sq. ft. |
| 25,000 - 39,999 sq. ft. | 575 sq. ft. |
| 40,000 - 54,999 sq. ft. | 550 sq. ft. |
| 55,000 - and over sq. ft. | 525 sq. ft. |

The lot area required in the RB-20 district for any new building and the lot area required in the RB-20 district in determining lot area per dwelling unit for any new building shall not include any part of a lot that is required by any other conforming or non-conforming building or use to comply with the requirements of this by-law, or was required by the applicable dimensional requirements prior to the effective date the land was placed in the RB-20 district.

d. In the Planned Residential District the maximum density of the total development shall be determined on the basis of 6 dwelling units and 12 bedrooms per acre.

e. Maximum density of the Cluster Residential Development in the residential Districts A & B shall be computed as follows:
1. In the RDA, divide the gross lot area by 25,000 Sq. Ft.
2. In the RDB, divide the gross lot area by 12,500 Sq. Ft.

f. Existing public and non-profit institutional buildings existing at the time of adoption of this by-law may be allowed to exceed the maximum building height on not more than three sides of the building where:

(1) There are substantial finished grade differentials between the side of the building with the highest average finished grade (where the maximum building height cannot be exceeded) and one or more of the sides of the building with a lower average finished grade, and -

(2) The Board of Appeals shall find in its review under Section 8.7 that no reasonable alternate method of enlarging the structure is available and that adequate provision has been taken to eliminate any adverse impact on surrounding properties through the provision, on those sides where the maximum height will be exceeded, of increased yard areas.

6.22 The measurement of lot width shall be shown on a plan approved and endorsed by the Planning Board.

6.23 Lots having one half or more frontage on a circular turnaround or curve of less than 100 feet radius, may be reduced in frontage below the requirements of this section to a minimum of 50 feet.

6.24 In BL and IL districts in particular instances, the Board of Appeals may grant a special exception, permitting a principal building to be erected on a lot having less area or frontage, or both, than the minimum requirements specified in the Table of Dimensional Requirements, if at the time of the adoption of said minimum requirements such lot was lawfully laid out and recorded by plan or deed and did not join other land of the same owner available for use in connection with such lot, provided that the Board determines that such exception can be granted without substantial derogation from the intent and purpose of this by-law. In SCI districts in particular instances the Board of Appeals may grant a special exception permitting buildings owned and occupied at the time of the effective date of adoption or amendments of this by-law for a public, charitable or other purpose lawful in such district to be altered, repaired, rebuilt, or added to in a manner failing to conform to the dimensional requirements of Section 6.1 or the density regulations set forth in Section 6.21 (a), or permitting uses accessory to such buildings which fail to conform to the area limitations of Section 4.2, subject however to such conditions or limitations as the Board in its decision may impose as in its judgement are reasonably required to minimize any departures from the general purpose and intent of such requirements, regulations or limitations.

6.25 In residence districts, the Board of Appeals may grant a special exception, permitting alterations to existing structures which encroach on the side or rear yard requirements of the district, providing that:

a. The enforcement thereof would involve practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and the granting of relief will not result in menace to the public safety, health or welfare of the neighborhood.

b. The intended use of the alteration is permitted in the district.

c. The yard requirement is not reduced by more than 15 percent.

6.26 Cluster Residential Housing - Special Permit

In order to permit maximum flexibility for developing land for single family homes, group or town houses of two and one-half stories or less; open space; private recreational facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the Cluster Residential Housing and their guests; and related off-street parking and landscaping, tracts of land consisting of 20 Acres or more in the RDA-20 district and 10 Acres or more in the RDB-10 district may be developed as Cluster Residential Housing provided the number of dwelling units shall approximate the number permitted in the district, and maximum density shall be determined as provided in paragraph (e) of section 6.21.

To afford the Town of Winchester ample assurance that such developments will not tend to degrade the amenities of the neighborhoods in which they occur, or of the Town as a whole, and to insure that objectionable congestion of traffic is not created, Cluster Residential Housing may only be constructed under a special permit granted by the Board of Appeals as hereinafter defined and limited.

6.261 Procedure

The owner or owners of a parcel of land in the RDA-20 or RDB-10 district which is of sufficient size to allow cluster residential housing, as defined in 6.26, shall submit to the Board of Appeals an application for a special permit, together with plans and a filing fee, in accordance with the provisions for Site Plan Review in Subsection 8.7 of this by-law and in accordance with the additional provisions of this section 6.26.

6.262 Standards for Reviewing and Approving Cluster Residential Housing

The Planning Board shall review all Cluster Residential Housing applications submitted to it by the Board of Appeals. The Planning Board shall report its recommendations for approval or disapproval, together with reasons therefor and any additional requirements, to the Board of Appeals within 30 days of receipt of the application and plan. Reasonable requirements may be recommended to the Board of Appeals by the Planning Board for the protection of adjoining residential property.

The Planning Board shall recommend approval of the Cluster Residential Housing application and plan only if it finds the Cluster Residential Housing satisfies all of the following standards.

(a) Uses

The permitted uses in the Cluster Residential Housing may include single-family homes, and town houses, of two and one half stories or less, open space, private recreational facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the Cluster Residential Housing and their guests, and related off-street parking and landscaping.

(b) General Standards

The Cluster Residential Housing shall provide for an effective and unified treatment of the development possibilities on the project site making appropriate provision for the preservation of scenic features and amenities of the site and the surrounding areas.

The Cluster Residential Housing shall be planned and developed to harmonize with any existing or proposed development in the area surrounding the project site.

More than one building is permitted on tracts of lots held by one owner or in common ownership.

The uniqueness of each proposal for a Cluster Residential Housing requires that the specifications for the width and surfaces of streets ways for public utilities, for curbs, gutters, sidewalks, street lights, storm water drainage, water supply and distribution, sanitary sewers and sewage collection and treatment shall be subject to modification from the specifications established in the Rules and Regulations Governing the Subdivision of Land in the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts and as amended from time to time. The Planning Board may recommend that the specifications otherwise applicable for a particular public facility may be waived or modified (provided that such modification shall not apply to the materials of said construction and shall not produce construction of inferior quality to that required in the Rules and Regulations Governing Subdivision) when such waiver or modification is not inconsistent with generally approved design standards.

The Planning Board shall recommend the installation or the furnishing of a performance guarantee in lieu thereof, of all or any of the following improvements it may deem to be necessary or appropriate: street grading, pavement, gutters, curbs, sidewalks, street lighting, shade trees, landscaping, surveyor's monuments, water mains, culverts, bridges, storm sewers, sanitary sewers or other means of sewage disposal, drainage facilities or structures and other improvements as the Planning Board may require or deem necessary in the public interest. The Planning Board may recommend phases for the completion of improvements in sections of the Planned Residential Development and recommend minimum improvement completion requirements necessary for the issuance of certificates of Zoning Compliance in any section.

(c) Design Standards

All buildings in the layout and design shall be an integral part of the development and have convenient access to and from adjacent uses and roadways.

Individual buildings shall be related to reach other in design, masses, materials, placement and connections to provide a visually and physically integrated development. Buildings shall be separated by a minimum of 20 feet or 0.75 percent of the building height times its length whichever is greater.

Treatment of the sides and rear of all buildings within the Cluster Residential Housing shall be comparable in amenities and appearance to the treatment given to street frontages of these same buildings.

All building walls shall be so oriented as to insure adequate light and air exposures to the rooms within.

All buildings shall be arranged so as to avoid undue exposure to concentrated loading or parking facilities wherever possible, and shall be oriented so as to preserve visual and audible privacy between adjacent buildings.

All buildings shall be arranged as to be accessible to emergency vehicles.

All utilities shall be placed underground.

(d) Landscape Design Standards

Landscape treatment for plazas, road, paths, service and parking areas shall be designed as an integral part of a coordinated landscape design for the entire project area.

Primary landscape treatment shall consist of shrubs, ground cover, and trees, and shall be combined with appropriate walks and street surfaces to provide an attractive development pattern. Landscape materials selected should be appropriate to the local growing conditions.

Whenever appropriate, existing trees shall be preserved and integrated into the landscape design plan.

All streets contained within and bordering the project area shall be planted at appropriate intervals with street trees.

Whenever possible the existing terrain shall be preserved and land moving shall be kept to a minimum.

(e) Circulation System Design Standards

There shall be an adequate, safe, and convenient arrangement of pedestrian circulation facilities, roadways, driveways, off-street parking and loading spaces.

Roads, pedestrian walks and open space shall be designed as an integral part of the overall site design. They shall be properly related to existing and proposed buildings, and appropriately landscaped.

There shall be an adequate amount, in a suitable location, of pedestrian walks, malls, and landscaped spaces in order to discourage pedestrian use of vehicular ways and parking and loading spaces; and to separate pedestrian walks, malls and public transportation loading spaces from general vehicular circulation facilities.

Buildings and vehicular circulation open spaces shall be arranged so that pedestrians moving between buildings are not unnecessarily exposed to vehicular traffic.

Landscaped, paved and comfortably graded pedestrian walks shall be provided along the lines of the most intense use, particularly from building entrances to streets, parking areas, and adjacent buildings.

The location and design of pedestrian walks should emphasize desirable views of new and existing development in the area.

The maximum separation of private automobiles and services vehicles shall be provided through the use of separate service lanes.

Materials and design of paving, lighting fixtures, retaining walls, bulkheads, fences, curbs, benches, etc., shall be of good appearance easily maintained and indicative of their function.

(f) Parking and Loading Design Standards

Off-street parking and loading facilities shall conform to the provisions of Section 7 of this by-law. Parking facilities shall be landscaped and screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness and to the monotony of parked vehicles.

Pedestrian connections between parking areas and buildings shall be via special pedestrian walkways and/or elevators.

Parking facilities shall be designed with careful regard to arrangement, topography, landscaping, ease of access, and shall be developed as an integral part of an overall site design.

Any above grade loading facility should be screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness.

(g) Common Open Space

A minimum of 25 percent of a Cluster Residential Housing site area shall be developed as open space, including walkways, plazas, landscaped areas, recreation areas, tennis courts, pools, and fountains. Parking areas and vehicle access facilities shall not be considered in calculating open space. A maximum of 40 percent of the Cluster Residential Housing site area shall be covered by impervious waterproof surface.

(1) Common open space must be suitably improved for its intended use, but common open space containing natural features worthy of preservation may be left unimproved. The buildings, structures and improvements in the common open space must be appropriate to the uses which are authorized for the common open space.

(2) The development schedule must coordinate the improvement of the common open space, and the construction of residential dwellings.

(3) All land shown on that site plan as common open space shall be subject to covenants approved by the Board of Appeals which restrict the common open space to the uses specified on the site plan and which further assure that ownership of the common open space shall not be separate from ownership of the entire tract except that all or part of the common open space may be conveyed to the appropriate agency of the town for public park, recreational, conservation or other public purposes, if such open space is deemed suitable and needed for its intended public purpose by the appropriate town agency. A special permit shall be conditional upon the actual acceptance by the appropriate town agency and of the Town Meeting of the title to the common land in the case of plans providing conveyance to the town of all or part of the open space.

(h) Buffer Zone Requirements

A buffer zone within fifty (50) feet of all external lot lines of a designated Cluster Residential Housing shall be provided except that portion which fronts upon an existing external street or roadway. Said buffer zone shall be kept in its natural state where wooded, and, when its natural vegetation is sparse or nonexistent, the landowner may be required to provide a year-round visual screen as recommended by the Planning Board.

Within said buffer zone, no principal or accessory structure, nor any off-street parking or loading areas or other use shall be permitted. Within said buffer zone, utility easements and streets may be provided if necessary to insure continuity with adjoining properties, subject to the recommendations of the Planning Board.

Said buffer zone area may be utilized for the purpose of computing the Cluster Residential Housing open space requirements of this Ordinance.

The requirements of this paragraph may be modified or eliminated where two planned residential unit developments abut or adjoin one another.

(i) Setbacks

A minimum setback from all external lot lines of a Cluster Residential Housing from all existing streets and thoroughfares for all buildings, structures and uses of no less than seventy-five (75) feet or a distance equal to twice the height of any structure or building within the development, whichever is greater, shall be provided.

6.27 Planned Residential District - Special Permit

In order to permit maximum flexibility in employing the latest techniques for developing land for multiple family dwelling units, tracts of land consisting of 20 acres or more within the RDA-20 district and 10 acres or more in the RDB-10 district may be rezoned by the Winchester Town Meeting for a Planned Residential District with maximum densities of 6 dwelling units and 12 bedrooms per acre. To afford the Town of Winchester ample assurance that such developments will not tend to degrade the amenities of the neighborhoods in which they occur, or of the town as a whole, and to insure that objectionable congestion and density of traffic is not created, a Planned Residential Development may only be constructed after rezoning and under a special permit granted by the Board of Appeals as hereinafter defined and limited.

6.271 Procedure

The owner or owners of a parcel of land which has been zoned for a Planned Residential District shall submit to the Board of Appeals an application for a special permit, together with plans and a filing fee, in accordance with the provisions for Site Plan Review in Subsection 8.7 of this by-law and in accordance with the additional provisions of this section 6.27.

6.272 Standards for Reviewing and Approving Planned Residential Developments

The Planning Board shall review all Planned Residential Development applications submitted to it by the Board of Appeals. The Planning Board shall report its recommendations for approval or disapproval, together with reasons therefor and any additional requirements, to the Board of Appeals within 30 days of receipt of the application and plan. Reasonable requirements may be recommended to the Board of Appeals by the Planning Board for the protection of adjoining residential property.

The Planning Board shall recommend approval of the Planned Residential Development application and plan only if it finds the Planned Residential Development satisfies all of the following standards:

(a) Uses

The permitted uses in the Planned Residential Development may include single-family homes, garden apartments and town houses, of three stories (40 feet) or less, open space, private recreational facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the Planned Residential Development and their guests, and related off-street parking and landscaping.

(b) General Standards

The Planned Residential Development shall provide for an effective and unified treatment of the development possibilities on the project site making appropriate provision for the preservation of scenic features and amenities of the site and the surrounding areas.

The Planned Residential Development shall be planned and developed to harmonize with any existing or proposed development in the area surrounding the project site.

More than one building is permitted on tracts of lots held by one owner or in common ownership.

The uniqueness of each proposal for a Planned Residential Development requires that the specifications for the width and surfaces of streets, ways for public utilities, for curbs, gutters, sidewalks, street lights, storm water drainage, water supply and distribution, sanitary sewers and sewage collection and treatment shall be subject to modification from the specifications established in the Rules and Regulations Governing the Subdivision of Land in the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts and as amended from time to time. The Planning Board may recommend that the specifications otherwise applicable for a particular public facility may be waived or modified (provided that such modification shall not apply to the material of said construction and shall not produce construction of inferior quality to that required in the Rules and Regulations Governing Subdivision) when such waiver or modification is not inconsistent with generally approved design standards.

The Planning Board shall recommend the installation or the furnishing of a performance guarantee in lieu thereof, of all or any of the following improvements it may deem to be necessary or appropriate: street grading, pavement, gutters, curbs, sidewalks, street lighting, shade trees, landscaping, surveyor's monuments, water mains, culverts, bridges, storm sewers, sanitary sewers or other means of sewage disposal, drainage facilities or structures and other improvements as the Planning Board may require or deem necessary in the public interest. The Planning Board may recommend phases for the completion of improvements in sections of the Planned Residential Development and recommend minimum improvement completion requirements necessary for the issuance of certificates of Zoning Compliance in any section.

(c) Design Standards

All buildings in the layout and design shall be an integral part of the development and have convenient access to and from adjacent uses and roadways.

Individual buildings shall be related to each other in design, masses, materials, placement and connections to provide a visually and physically integrated development. Buildings shall be separated by a minimum of 20 feet or 0.75 percent of the building height times its length whichever is greater.

Treatment of the sides and rear of all buildings within the Planned Residential Development shall be comparable in amenities and appearance to the treatment given to street frontages of these same buildings.

All building walls shall be so oriented as to insure adequate light and air exposures to the rooms within.

All buildings shall be arranged so as to avoid undue exposure to concentrated loading or parking facilities wherever possible, and shall be oriented so as to preserve visual and audible privacy between adjacent buildings.

All buildings shall be arranged as to be accessible to emergency vehicles.

All utilities shall be placed underground.

(d) Landscape Design Standards

Landscape treatment for plazas, roads, paths, service and parking areas shall be designed as an integral part of a coordinated landscape design for the entire project area.

Primary landscape treatment shall consist of shrubs, ground cover, and trees, and shall be combined with appropriate walks and street surfaces to provide an attractive development pattern. Landscape materials selected should be appropriate to the local growing conditions.

Whenever appropriate, existing trees shall be preserved and integrated into the landscape design plan.

All streets contained within and bordering the project area shall be planted at appropriate intervals with street trees.

Whenever possible the existing terrain shall be preserved and land moving shall be kept to a minimum.

(e) Circulation System Design Standards

There shall be an adequate, safe, and convenient arrangement of pedestrian circulation facilities, driveways, roadways, off-street parking, and loading spaces.

Roads, pedestrian walks and open space shall be designed as an integral part of the overall site design. They shall be properly related to existing and proposed buildings, and appropriately landscaped.

There shall be an adequate amount, in a suitable location, of pedestrian walks, malls, and landscaped spaces in order to discourage pedestrian use of vehicular ways and parking and loading spaces; and to separate pedestrian walks, malls and public transportation loading spaces from general vehicular circulation facilities.

Buildings and vehicular circulation open spaces shall be arranged so that pedestrians moving between buildings are not unnecessarily exposed to vehicular traffic.

Landscaped, paved and comfortably graded pedestrian walks shall be provided along the lines of the most intense use, particularly from building entrances to streets, parking areas, and adjacent buildings.

The location and design of pedestrian walks should emphasize desirable views of new and existing development in the area.

The maximum separation of private automobiles and service vehicles shall be provided through the use of separate service lanes.

Materials and design of paving, lighting fixtures, retaining walls, bulkheads, fences, curbs, benches, etc., shall be of good appearance easily maintained and indicative of their function.

(f) Parking and Loading Design Standards

Off-street parking and loading facilities shall conform to the provisions of Section 7 of this by-law. Parking facilities shall be landscaped and screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness and the monotony of parked vehicles.

Pedestrian connection between parking areas and buildings shall be via special pedestrian walkways and/or elevators.

Parking facilities shall be designed with careful regard to arrangement, topography, landscaping, ease of access, and shall be developed as an integral part of an overall site design.

Any above grade loading facility should be screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness.

(g) Common Open Space

A minimum of 25 percent of a Planned Residential Development site area shall be developed as open space, including walkways, plazas, landscaped areas, recreation areas, tennis courts, pools, and fountains. Parking areas and vehicle access facilities shall not be considered in calculating open space. A maximum of 40 percent of the Planned Residential Development site area shall be covered by impervious waterproof surface.

(1) Common open space must be suitably improved for its intended use, but common open space containing natural features worthy of preservation may be left unimproved. The buildings, structures and improvements in the common open space must be appropriate to the uses which are authorized for the common open space.

(2) The development schedule must coordinate the improvement of the common open space, and the construction of residential dwellings.

(3) All land shown on that site plan as common open space shall be subject to covenants approved by the Board of Appeals which restrict the common open space to the uses specified on the site plan and which further assure that ownership of the common open space shall not be separate from ownership of the entire tract except that all or part of the common open space may be conveyed to the appropriate agency of the town for public park, recreational, conservation or other public purposes, if such open space is deemed suitable and needed for its intended public purpose by the appropriate town agency. A special permit shall be conditional upon the actual acceptance by the appropriate town agency and of the Town Meeting of the title to the common land in the case of plans providing conveyance to the town of all or part of the open space.

(h) Buffer Zone Requirements

A buffer zone within fifty (50) feet of all external lot lines of a designated Planned Residential Development shall be provided except that portion which fronts upon an existing external street or roadway. Said buffer zone shall be kept in its natural state where wooded, and, when its natural vegetation is sparse or non-existent, the landowner may be required to provide a year-round visual screen as recommended by the Planning Board.

Within said buffer zone, no principal or accessory structure, nor any off-street parking or loading areas or other use shall be permitted. Within said buffer zone, utility easements and streets may be provided if necessary to insure continuity with adjoining properties, subject to the recommendations of the Planning Board.

Said buffer zone area may be utilized for the purpose of computing the planned residential development open space requirements of this Ordinance.

The requirements of this paragraph may be modified or eliminated when two planned residential unit developments abut or adjoin one another.

(i) Setbacks

A minimum setback from all external lot lines of a planned residential development from all existing streets and thoroughfares for all buildings, structures and uses of no less than seventy-five (75) feet or a distance equal to twice the height of any structure or building within the development, whichever is greater, shall be provided.

SECTION 7 — OFF-STREET PARKING AND LOADING REQUIREMENTS AND AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE REGULATIONS

7.00 Intent

It is the intent of this Section of the by-law that any use of land involving the arrival, departure, storage, or entry upon the land of motor vehicles be so designed and operated as to reduce hazard to pedestrians upon the public sidewalks, to protect the use of adjoining property from nuisance caused by the noise, fumes, and glare of headlights which may result from the operation of cars parking off the street and at the same time to reduce congestion in the streets and contribute to traffic safety by assuring adequate places for the standing and storing off the street of motor vehicles associated with the use of a lot of land.

7.10 General Regulations Applying to Required Off-Street Parking Facilities

(a) Structures and land uses in existence or for which building permits have been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law shall not be subject to the requirements of Section 7 so long as the kind or extent of use is not changed so that the changed or enlarged use would require an increase of more than 15 per cent in the parking facilities required in this Section, provided that any parking facilities now serving such structures or uses shall not in the future be reduced below such requirements.

(b) Whenever there is an alteration of a structure, addition of a new structure, or a change or extension of use which increases the parking requirements by 15 per cent or more according to the standards of Section 7, the total parking required for the entire structure or use shall be provided in accordance with the requirements of this section.

(c) No parking area shall be used for any use that interferes with its availability for the parking need it is required to serve.

(d) All required parking facilities shall be provided and maintained so long as the use exists which the facilities were designed to serve. Off-street parking facilities shall not be reduced in total extent after their provision, except when such reduction is in conformity with the requirements of Section 7. Reasonable precautions shall be taken by the owner or sponsor of particular uses to assure the availability of required facilities to the employees or other persons whom the facilities are designed to serve. Such facilities shall be designed and used in such a manner as at no time to constitute a nuisance, or a hazard, or unreasonable impediment to traffic.

(e) Any privately owned off-street parking areas now serving structures or uses within the Center Business District (CBD-2.0) which are in existence or for which building permits have been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law shall be continued and shall not, in the future, be reduced below the off-street requirements of the General Business District (GBD-1.0) except through application to the Board of Appeals as described below. The Board of Appeals may allow a reduction or discontinuance of existing privately owned off-street parking in the Center Business District (CBD-2.0) if it finds that sufficient and accessible off-street municipal parking facilities have been provided within 300 feet (walking distance) of the structure or use being served. "Sufficient" shall be deemed to mean that the off-street municipal parking facility or facilities contain sufficient parking spaces to serve all existing uses, based on the standards of the General Business District (GBD-1.0), within 300 feet of the parking facility or facilities.

(f) Where a parking facility is a principal use of any lot, it shall not be opened to use until the Zoning Administrator has issued a certificate of compliance to the effect that the lot conforms to the provisions of Section 7.13. Such certificate may be revoked by the Zoning Administrator upon violation of any of the conditions set forth in Section 7.13.

7.11 Off-Street Parking Space Regulations

(a) Off-street parking facilities shall be provided for each type of land use, in accordance with the following Table of Off-Street Parking Requirements, and subject to the further provisions of Section 7.

Table of Off-Street Parking Space Requirements

| District | General Use Category | | | | | | | |
|------------------|---|---|--|-----------------|-----------------|--------------------------|------------|------------------------------|
| | Residence No. of Spaces per d.u. | Public Assembly No. of Seats Requiring 1 Space | Inst. | Retail & Office | | | Industrial | Ware- house & Other |

| SCI | | 4 | 600 ^c | | | | | |

Note a. 1.5 spaces for each dwelling unit in group, garden or mid-rise apartment houses designed to serve families. 0.75 spaces for each dwelling unit in group, garden or mid-rise apartment houses restricted by law to serve elderly citizens.

Note b. Bowling alleys shall provide four parking spaces for each alley and tennis courts shall provide two spaces for each court.

Note c. Hospitals shall provide one and one-half parking spaces for each patient bed. Sanitarium, nursing, rest or convalescent home primarily providing long-term custodial care for patients shall provide one parking space for three patient beds.

Note d. In order to encourage the most efficient use of land the municipality will accept the responsibility for the off-street parking in the C.B.D. district.

(1) Where the computation of required parking space results in a fractional number, only the fraction of one-half or more shall be counted as one.

(2) Two or more uses may provide for required parking in a common parking lot if the total space provided is not less than the sum of the spaces required for each use individually.

The number of spaces required in a common parking facility may be reduced below this total by a special exception under Section 9 of this by-law if it can be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Board of Appeals that the hours or days or peak parking need for the uses are so different that a lower total will provide adequately for all uses served by the facility.

(3) Where part of a lot is or has been acquired by the Town to be used by the Town for public parking or for facilities accessory to public parking, the parking requirements on the remaining portion of the lot in private ownership shall be reduced by the number of spaces that could have been provided on the part of the lot so acquired by the Town, calculated on the basis of one space per 400 square feet of lot area so acquired.

(b) Residence Uses shall include Uses 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, as listed in Section 4.4.

(c) Places of Public Assembly shall include Uses 9, 10, 13, 23 and 24, as listed in Section 4.4. Where Places of Public Assembly are provided with benches rather than fixed individual seats, each two linear feet of bench shall equal one seat, and where no fixed seats are used, each 20 square feet of public floor area shall equal one seat.

(d) Institutions shall include Uses 6, 7, 8, 11, 15 and 16, as listed in Section 4.4.

(e) Retail and Office Uses of land and structures shall include Uses 19, 21, 22, 25, 26, 28, 30, 31, 34, 36, 41, and 42, as listed in Section 4.4. Where a principal use on a lot is an open-air use not enclosed in a structure, the area of the lot devoted to such use shall be considered to be floor space for purposes of calculating parking requirements. Where the area devoted to such use is not clearly determinable, the Zoning Administrator shall determine the area to be considered equivalent to floor space.

(f) Medical and Dental Uses of land and structures shall include Use 32 as listed in Section 4.4.

(g) Industrial Uses of land or structures shall include Uses 27, 29, 33 and 39, as listed in Section 4.4. Where a principal use on a lot is an open-air use not enclosed in a structure, the area of the lot devoted to such use shall be considered to be floor space for purposes of calculating parking requirements. Where the area devoted to such use is not obviously defined, the Zoning Administrator shall determine the area to be considered equivalent to floor space.

(h) Warehouse and Other Uses of land or structures shall include Uses 18, 37, 38 and 40, as listed in Section 4.4. Where a principal use on a lot is an open-air use not enclosed in a structure, the area of the lot devoted to such use shall be considered to be floor space for purposes of calculating parking requirements. Where the area devoted to such use is not obviously defined, the Zoning Administrator shall determine the area to be considered equivalent to floor space.

(i) Where any land, structure or land and structure in combination is in more than one use, parking spaces shall be provided for the entire lot in accordance with the requirements of the use which requires the maximum number of spaces, except that the number of spaces may be reduced below that maximum requirement by a special permit under Section 8 of this by-law if it can be demonstrated to the Board of Appeals that:

(1) At least 15 percent of the area is in a use with a requirement less than the maximum,

(2) A total number of parking spaces is provided so that the area of each use shall be provided with parking spaces as required for that use,

(3) It is unlikely that the uses requiring the lesser number of spaces will be changed to one requiring a greater number.

7.12 Location: Required Off-Street Parking Facilities

Required off-street parking facilities shall be provided on the same lot. Where the requirements of this section cannot be met on the same lot, the Board of Appeals by Special Permit under Section 8.5 may authorize, within the same district, required parking on any lot in the same ownership within 300 feet of the principal use served, as measured along street lines, subject to such bond or other assurance of permanence and of common ownership, as it may deem adequate.

7.13 Design of All Off-Street Parking Facilities

(a) Parking facilities shall be occupied only by passenger cars and commercial vehicles not exceeding seven and one half feet in width and 18 feet in length, unless the special standards provided in paragraph (h) of this Section 7.13 are met.

(b) The minimum dimensions of stalls and aisles shall be as follows:

(1) Stall width shall be at least nine feet:

(2) Stall depth shall be at least 19 feet for all angle parking and 22 feet for parallel parking. Such dimension may include more than two feet of any landscape setback area adjacent to the front and rear of a stall and used for bumper overhang.

(3) Minimum width of aisles providing access to stalls for one-way traffic only, varying with the angle of parking, shall be

| Angle of Parking | Minimum Aisle Width |
|------------------|---------------------|
| Parallel | 12 feet |
| 30 degrees | 11 feet |
| 45 degrees | 13 feet |
| 60 degrees | 18 feet |
| 90 degrees | 20 feet |

(4) Minimum width of aisles providing access to stalls for two-way traffic shall be 24 feet, except that aisles providing access primarily for overnight parking may be a minimum of 22 feet.

(c) Parking facilities shall be designed so that each motor vehicle may proceed to and from the parking space provided for it without requiring the moving of any other motor vehicle. The Board of Appeals, however, may by special exception modify this requirement, and the dimensional requirements of paragraph (b) of this Section 7.13 where a parking facility is under full-time attendant supervision.

(d) The width of entrance and exit drives, except as permitted in paragraph (k), shall be:

(1) A minimum of 12 feet for one-way use only;

(2) A minimum of 20 feet for two-way use, except that driveways providing access primarily for overnight parking, with incidental daytime use, may be a minimum of 12 feet wide and

(3) A maximum of 20 feet at the street lot line in residence districts, and 30 feet in business and industrial districts

(e) Setbacks for parking areas shall be as follows:

(1) In all districts, except as permitted in paragraph (k), parking stalls in parking lots shall be set back from the street lot line to whatever extent may be necessary in the specific situation, as determined by the Zoning Administrator, to avoid the probability of cars backing or otherwise maneuvering on the sidewalk upon entering or leaving the stalls. In no case shall parking lots be designed to require or encourage cars to back into a public or private way in order to leave the lot, except for parking stalls the sole access to which is an alley adjacent to rear lot lines and so arranged that there is at least 20 feet of clear backing between the rear line of the parking stall and the opposite and more distant line of the alley.

(2) In all residential districts, the surfaced area of a parking lot shall be set back:

(i) from the front lot line, except where an access driveway crosses the street lot line, the distance specified for building setback under Section 6.1;

(ii) from the side lot line 1/3 the distance specified for minimum side yard set back of the district under 6.1 except in the RA district, where the minimum setback shall be 20 feet.

(iii) from the side and rear lot lines in the rear yard, a minimum of five feet. Such setback shall be seven feet where two feet of setback area is included in a minimum stall depth as provided in subparagraph (b) (2).

(3) In all residential districts, the setback areas shall be planted and maintained.

(4) In all districts, barriers shall be provided to prevent motor vehicles from being parked within required setback areas, or beyond the boundaries of the lot where no setback is required.

(f) Abutting properties in residential districts shall be protected from lights, as follows:

(1) All illumination on parking lots must be shielded so as not to shine directly upon abutting properties in residential districts.

(2) Properties in residential districts, other than the use served by the parking lot, which abut the parking lot shall be protected from headlight glare by either:

(i) A strip at least four feet wide, densely planted with shrubs or trees which are at least four feet high at the time of planting and which are of a type that may be expected to form a year-round dense screen at least six feet high within three years, or

(ii) A wall, barrier, or fence of uniform appearance at least five feet high, but not more than six feet above finished grade, or above the roof level, if on a roof.

(3) Such screening shall be maintained in good condition at all times. Such screening or barrier may be interrupted by normal entrance and exits, and shall have no signs hung or attached thereto other than those permitted in the district.

(g) No stall shall be located within 10 feet of that part of a building having windows of habitable rooms at the basement or first story level, except as permitted in paragraph (k).

(h) The regulations for the parking of trucks, buses, or other commercial vehicles exceeding seven and one half feet by 18 feet in size shall be as follows:

(1) Stalls to provide parking for commercial vehicles exceeding seven and one-half feet by 18 feet in size shall be located at least 100 feet from the nearest dwelling unit in a residence district

(2) Stalls for such vehicles shall be specifically identified upon the plan, and shall be of such dimensions as to accommodate the specified type of vehicle. Such vehicles shall be permitted to park only in the stalls so identified and approved.

(3) Whenever such lot is adjacent to residential districts it shall be screened from abutting property as provided in paragraph (f) above.

(i) Drainage, surfacing and maintenance of parking lots shall be as follows:

(1) The parking lot shall be marked so as to indicate clearly the space to be occupied by each motor vehicle, in accordance with the dimensions specified in paragraph (b) of this Section 7.13. Such markings shall be maintained so as to be plainly visible.

(2) The area of the lot not planted and so maintained, including driveways, shall be graded, surfaced with asphalt or other suitable material, and drained to the satisfaction of the Zoning Administrator, to the extent necessary to prevent nuisance of dust, erosion, or excessive water flow across public ways.

(3) Lots shall be kept clean and free from rubbish and debris.

(j) Where parking lots are increased in capacity after the effective date of this by-law, the expanded portion thereof shall be designed in accordance with the regulations of this Section 7.13.

(k) Parking lots for three vehicles or less shall conform to the regulations of this Section 7.13, with the exception of paragraphs 7.13 (d) 1 and 2, (e) 1, and (g).

(l) Under a special exception after a hearing, the Board of Appeals may permit in lieu of the dimensional requirements of this Section 7.13, where new parking facilities are being installed to serve structures and land uses in existence or for which building permits had been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law, the substitution of other dimensional requirements, provided such substitution is necessary to permit the installation of some or all of the off-street parking spaces that would be required for a similar new building.

(m) At least 2 per cent of the interior of a parking lot with 21 or more parking spaces shall be planted and continuously maintained. Planting along the perimeter of a parking area, whether for required screening or general beautification, shall not be considered as part of the 2 per cent interior planting. The planting shall be distributed throughout the parking area and shall include trees as well as other plant material. Existing trees shall be preserved where possible. No planting bed shall have a width of less than 3 feet.

7.20 Off-Street Loading Regulations

(a) Structures and land uses in existence or for which building permits have been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law shall not be subject to the requirements stated below, provided that any loading facilities now serving such structures or uses shall not in the future be reduced below these requirements.

(b) Where a structure existing on the effective date of this by-law is altered or extended in such a way as to increase the gross floor area by 5,000 square feet or more, only this additional gross floor area shall be counted in computation of the off-street loading requirements. Alterations or extensions aggregating less than 5,000 square feet subsequent to the effective date of this by-law do not require such provisions of loading space.

(c) Where retail, or other stores are designed or constructed as a group or as a unified building, the aggregate of individual stores shall be treated as one building for the purpose of calculating off-street loading facilities.

(d) Where mixed uses occur, off-street loading facilities shall be the sum of the requirements for the several individual uses computed separately, except that such facilities may be less than said sum by special exception from the Board of Appeals when it can be demonstrated that such individual uses are not in operation at the same time.

(e) Off-street loading facilities shall be provided in accordance with the following requirements for each type of land use except Uses 1 to 4 inclusive, as listed in Section 4.

Number of Loading Bays Required for New Structures By Gross Floor Area of Structures (In thousands of square feet)

(6) Such facilities shall be designed and used in such a manner as at no time to constitute a nuisance, or a hazard or unreasonable impediment to traffic.

(b) All required loading facilities shall be provided and maintained in accordance with the following requirements:

(2) They shall not be reduced in total extent after their provision, except when such reduction is in conformity with the requirements of this Section 7.

SECTION 8 — ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT

8.1 The Board of Selectmen shall appoint an administrative official, hereinafter referred to as the "Zoning Administrator," who shall be responsible for the administration and enforcement of this By-Law. He may be provided with the assistance of such other persons as the Board of Selectmen determine to be required.

8.11 If the administrative official shall find that any of the provisions of this ordinance are being violated, he shall notify in writing the person responsible for such violations, indicating the nature of the violation and ordering the action necessary to correct it. He shall order discontinuance of illegal use of land, buildings, or structures; removal of illegal buildings or structures or of illegal additions, alterations, or structural changes; discontinuance of any illegal work being done; or shall take any other action authorized by this ordinance to ensure compliance with or to prevent violation of its provisions.

8.12 The Board of Selectmen shall establish a schedule of fees, charges and expenses and a collection procedure for certificates of zoning compliance, applications for site plan review, appeals and other matters pertaining to this by-law. The schedule of fees shall be established to reflect the cost of the services required, and it shall be the responsibility of the Zoning Administrator to recommend changes in fees from time to time to reflect changes in these costs.

8.2 Certificates of Zoning Compliance for New, Altered, or Non-Conforming Uses

8.21 It shall be unlawful to use or occupy or permit the use or occupancy of any building or premises, or both, or part thereof hereafter created, erected, changed, converted, or wholly or partly altered or enlarged in its use or structure until a Certificate of Zoning Compliance shall have been issued therefor by the Zoning Administrator stating that the proposed use of the building or land conforms to the requirements of this by-law.

8.22 No non-conforming use as defined by Section 4.4 Table of Use Regulations shall be maintained, renewed, changed or extended until a Certificate of Non-Conformance shall have been issued by the Zoning Administrator. The Certificate of Non-Conformance shall state specifically wherein the non-conforming use differs from the provisions of this by-law and indicate that the non-conforming use was in fact a legal use prior to the enactment or amendment of this by-law, except that upon enactment or amendment of this by-law, owners or occupants of non-conforming uses shall have six months to apply for Certificates of Non-Conformance. Failure to make such application within six months shall be presumptive evidence that the property was in conforming use at the time of enactment or amendment of this by-law. Every owner or occupant of a non-conforming use shall be notified on appropriately advised by the Zoning Administrator within three months of the effective date of this By-Law, or as promptly thereafter as is practicable; and the six-month time periods specified hereinabove shall not commence until such notification has been made.

Note: The requirements of this section do not apply to non-conforming Lots or Structures. (see Sections 3.2 & 3.4)

8.23 No Building Permit for erection, alteration, moving or repair of any structure shall be issued until an application has been made for a certificate of zoning compliance, and the certificate shall be issued in conformity with the provisions of this by-law upon completion of the work.

8.24 A temporary certificate of zoning compliance may be issued by the Zoning Administrator for a period not exceeding six months during alterations or partial occupancy of a building pending its completion, provided that such temporary certificate may include such conditions and safeguards as will protect the safety of the occupants and the public.

8.25 The Zoning Administrator shall maintain a record of all certificates of zoning compliance, and a copy shall be furnished upon request to any person.

8.26 Failure to obtain a certificate of zoning compliance shall be a violation of this by-law and punishable under Section 8.9 of this by-law.

8.27 Certificates of zoning compliance issued on the basis of plans and applications approved by the Zoning Administrator authorize only the use and arrangement set forth in such approved plans and applications, and no other use or arrangement. Use or arrangement at variance with that authorized shall be deemed violation of this by-law, and punishable as provided by Section 8.9 hereof.

8.28 Application for certificate of zoning compliance shall be acted upon by the Zoning Administrator within a period of 30 calendar days and the applicant advised thereupon as to the issuance or denial of the certificate.

8.3 Board of Appeals; Appointment

The Board of Appeal under the Building Laws shall be the Board of Appeals under this by-law and shall have all of the powers and duties of Boards of Appeals under the statutes relating to zoning. An appeal may be taken to the Board of Appeals by any officer or board of the Town, or by any person aggrieved by any order or decision of the Zoning Administrator. Such appeal may be taken within thirty days after the order or decision appealed from has been rendered.

8.4 Administrative Review by Board of Appeals

The Board of Appeals shall hear and decide appeals where it is alleged that the applicant is aggrieved by any order, requirement, decision or determination made by the Zoning Administrator in the enforcement of this by-law or by the applicant's inability to obtain a permit pursuant to Section 13 of the Zoning Enabling Act.

8.5 Special Exceptions by Board of Appeals; Conditions; Procedures

The Board of Appeals shall hear and decide only such special exceptions as are specifically authorized by the terms of this by-law. The Board may grant special exceptions only where such conditions and safeguards as required by this by-law have been made, and only after a determination that such grant would promote the public health, safety, welfare, comfort or convenience of the community. A special exception shall not be granted by the Board of Appeals unless and until:

8.51 A written application for a special exception is submitted indicating the specific section of this by-law under which the special exception is sought and stating the grounds on which it is requested;

8.52 The Board of Appeals has made written findings certifying compliance with the specific provisions of this by-law governing the exception and that satisfactory provision and arrangement has been made covering the following where applicable;

(a) Ingress and egress to property and proposed structures thereon with particular reference to automotive and pedestrian safety and convenience, traffic flow and control and access in case of fire or catastrophe;

(b) Off-Street parking and loading areas where required with particular attention to the items in paragraph (a) and the economic, noise, glare, or odor effects of the special exception on adjoining properties and properties generally in the district;

(c) Refuse collection or disposal and service areas, with particular reference to items in paragraphs (a) and (b) above; (On site incinerators are permitted only if approved by Metropolitan Air Pollution Control District) of the Zoning Enabling Act. A variance from the terms or any of the provisions of this by-law shall not be granted by the Board of Appeals to allow a use not permitted under the terms of this by-law in the district involved, or to allow any use expressly or by implication prohibited by the terms of this by-law in said district. The non-conforming use of other lands, structures or buildings in the same district nor non-conforming uses of lands, structures or buildings in other districts shall not be considered as grounds for a variance.

8.7 Site Plan Review; Findings; Procedures

The Board of Appeals shall review preliminary site plans for developments prior to approval of applications for special permits in certain cases specified in Section 4 (designated Yes* in the Table of Use Regulations); to make findings and determinations in regard to such cases in conformity with sub-section 8.52 of this by-law. In such cases, a special permit shall be issued only if the Board of Appeals makes a finding and determination that the proposed placement of buildings, provisions for waste disposal, surface drainage, parking areas, driveways, and the location of intersections of driveways and streets will constitute a suitable development and will not result in substantial detriment to the neighborhood.

No building, other than a single-family dwelling, shall be erected or externally enlarged, and no area for roadways, parking, loading or open space shall be established or changed on land developed under the provisions of this section except in conformity with a preliminary site plan bearing the endorsement of approval of the Board of Appeals. No certificate of zoning compliance shall be issued for any such building or buildings, unless the same conforms in all respects to such site plan and unless all facilities included in the site plan have been in accordance therein.

8.71 A person applying for site plan review under Section 8.7 or applying for a special permit in certain cases specified in Section 4 (designated SP in the Table of Use Regulations) shall file with the Board of Appeals ten copies each of an application and a preliminary site plan, and a filing fee. Such application and site plan shall include the elements on which the Board of Appeals is to make a finding and determination, as provided in Section 8.52, and shall also include information as to the nature and extent of the proposed use of buildings, and such further information in respect to such elements and use as required in Section 6, if applicable, and as the Board of Appeals or the Planning Board shall reasonably require by rule or regulation. In subsequent applications concerning the same subject matter, the Board may waive the filing of plans and documents to the extent they duplicate those previously filed.

8.72 The Board of Appeals shall within three days (Saturdays, Sundays and holidays excluded) of receipt of them transmit to the Conservation Commission and Planning Board two copies of the above application and site plan. The Planning Board and Conservation Commission shall consider the same and submit a final report thereon with recommendations to the Board of Appeals. The Conservation Commission shall review the application with particular reference to the provisions of the Wetlands Protection Act, Chapter 131, Section 40 and shall recommend as to the advisability of granting the special permit and as to any restrictions which should be imposed upon the development as a condition of such permit. The Board of Appeals shall not make a finding and determination upon an application until it has received the final report of the Planning Board and/or Conservation Commission thereon or until thirty days shall have elapsed since the transmittal of said copies of the application and site plan to the Planning Board and Conservation Commission without such report being submitted. The period within which final action shall be taken may be extended for a definite period, but not more than ninety days by mutual consent of the Board of Appeals and the applicant.

8.73 The Board of Appeals shall hold a public hearing, and, except as hereinafter provided, shall take final action within sixty days after the date of the filing of such application with said Board of Appeals. Such final action shall consist of either:

(a) A finding and determination that the proposed construction, reconstruction, substantial exterior alteration, or addition will constitute a suitable development and will not result in substantial detriment to the neighborhood, or

(b) A written denial of the application for such finding and determination, stating the reasons for such denial, which reasons shall include a statement of the respect in which any elements in and particular features of the proposal are deemed by the Board to be unsuitable or detrimental to the neighborhood.

(c) A finding and determination may be made subject to such reasonable conditions, modifications and restrictions set forth therein as the Board may deem necessary to ensure that the proposed construction, reconstruction, substantial exterior alteration, or addition will constitute a suitable development and will not result in substantial detriment to the neighborhood.

(d) In the event that the Board of Appeals approves a special permit under these provisions, any construction, reconstruction, substantial exterior alteration, or addition shall be carried on only in conformity with any conditions, modifications and restrictions subject to which the Board shall have made its findings and determination, and only in conformity with the application and site plan on the basis of which the finding and determination are made.

8.8 All questions of interpretation and enforcement shall be first presented to the Zoning Administrator. Such questions shall be presented to the Board of Appeals only on appeal from the decisions of the Zoning Administrator. Said decision shall be forthcoming from the Zoning Administrator within a period of 30 calendar days after their submission.

8.9 Enforcement

8.91 Complaints Whenever a violation of this by-law occurs or is alleged to have occurred, any person may file a signed written complaint with the Zoning Administrator who shall record properly such complaint, immediately investigate, and take appropriate action thereon.

8.92 If the Zoning Administrator shall find that any of the provisions of this by-law are being violated, he shall notify in writing the person responsible for such violations, indicating the nature of the violation and ordering the action necessary to correct it. He shall order discontinuance of illegal use of land, buildings, or structures; removal of illegal buildings or structures or of illegal additions, alterations, or structural changes, discontinuance of any illegal work being done; he shall also cause to be instituted civil or criminal actions to secure enforcement of the provisions of the zoning by-laws or shall take any other action authorized by this by-law to ensure compliance with or to prevent violation of its provisions. The Zoning Administrator shall have the right to enter upon private property for the purpose of inspecting it to determine if this By-Law is being violated.

8.93 Penalties for Violation

(a) Violation of the provisions of this by-law or failure to comply with any of its requirements (including violations of conditions and safeguards established in connection with grants of variances or special exceptions) shall constitute a misdemeanor. Any person who violates this by-law or fails to comply with any of its requirements shall upon conviction thereof be fined not more than $50.00 for each offense. Each day such violation continues shall be considered a separate offense.

(b) The owner, tenant, occupant or person or persons in possession of any building, structure, premises, or part thereof, and any architect, builder, contractor, agent, or other person who commits, participates in, assists in, or maintains such violation may each be found guilty of a separate offense and suffer the penalties herein provided.

FILLING STATION. Buildings and premises where gasoline, oil, grease, batteries, tires, and automobile accessories may be supplied and dispensed at retail, and where in addition the following services may be rendered and sales made, and no other:

- (a) Sale and servicing of spark plugs, batteries, and distributor parts;

Uses permissible at a filling station do not include major mechanical and body work, straightening of body parts, painting, welding, or other work involving noise, glare, fumes, smoke or other characteristics to an extent greater than normally found in filling stations. A filling station is not a repair garage, a body shop, or a parking lot. No torches or electric welding equipment shall be stored or used on the premises.

FIRE LANE. An open space in which no building or structure may be erected and in which no automotive vehicles may be parked, except that buildings may be interconnected by corridors or walkways if provision is made for access by fire apparatus to all outside walls. The open space shall be between a building and a line parallel to and fifteen feet equidistant from a building.

FLOOR AREA. The aggregate horizontal area in square feet of all floors of a building or several buildings on the same lot measured from the exterior faces of walls enclosing each building, exclusive of garages, cellar and attic areas used only for storage or for service incidental to the operation or maintenance of such building or buildings.

FRONTAGE, LOT. The boundary between a lot and an abutting street between lot lines or, in the case of a corner lot, between a lot line and the intersection of street lines or of street lines extended.

FRONTAGE, STREET. A street which provides the required lot frontage for a building. When a lot is bounded by more than one street any one of them, but only one, may be designated as the frontage street by the owner, provided that the street meets the frontage requirement and that the principal permitted building on the lot is numbered on such frontage street. However, in the case of a lot bounded by two streets forming an interior angle of more than 135 degrees, their combined frontage between lot lines may be used to satisfy the lot frontage requirement.

GARDEN APARTMENT HOUSE. A multiple-family dwelling, not over three stories in height, and containing not less than 4 dwelling units.

GROUP HOUSE. A building comprised of not less than three nor more than ten attached single-family dwellings.

HALF STORY. See "Story, Half."

HEIGHT OF A BUILDING. The height of a building is the vertical distance of the highest point of the roof above the mean grade of the curbs of all the streets upon which it abuts, and if it does not abut on a street, above the mean grade of the ground adjoining the building.

HOME OCCUPATION. An occupation conducted in a dwelling unit, provided that:

- (a) No person other than members of the family residing on the premises shall be engaged in such occupation;
- (b) The use of the dwelling unit for the home occupation shall be clearly incidental and subordinate to its use for residential purposes by its occupants, and not more than 25 percent of the floor area of the dwelling unit shall be used in the conduct of the home occupation;
- (c) There shall be no change in the outside appearance of the building or premises, or other visible evidence of the conduct of such home occupation other than one sign, not exceeding one square foot in area, non-illuminated, and mounted flat against the wall of the principal building;
- (d) No home occupation shall be conducted in any accessory building;
- (e) There shall be no sales of products on the premises in connection with such home occupation;
- (f) No traffic shall be generated by such occupation in greater volumes than would normally be expected in a residential neighborhood, and any need for parking generated by the conduct of such home occupation shall be met off the street and other than in a required front yard.
- (g) No equipment or process shall be used in such home occupation which creates noise, vibration, glare, fumes, odors, or electrical interference detectable to the normal senses off the lot, if the occupation is conducted in a single-family residence, or outside the dwelling unit if conducted in other than a single-family residence. In the case of electrical interference, no equipment or process shall be used which creates visual or audible interference in any radio or television receivers off the premises, or causes fluctuations in line voltage off the premises.
- (h) Renting of rooms to not more than two persons.
- (i) Barber shop, beauty shop and mortuary are not permitted.

IMPERVIOUS SURFACE. Any surface which sheds water rather than absorbing it, such as roofs and roads, and has a run-off coefficient of 80 percent or higher. If perforated paving surfaces are used extensively in place of parking areas, etc., it shall be counted as an impervious surface.

LOADING SPACE, OFF-STREET. Space logically and conveniently located for bulk pickups and deliveries, scaled to delivery vehicles expected to be used, and accessible to such vehicles when required off-street parking spaces are filled. Required off-street loading space is not to be included as off-street parking space in computation of required off-street parking space.

LOT. An area of land in one ownership with definite boundaries ascertainable by recorded deed or plan.

LOT AREA. Area within a lot, including land over which easements have been granted, but not including any land within the limits of a street upon which such lot abuts, even if feet to such street is in the owner of the lot, except that if a corner lot has its corner bounded by a curved line connecting other street lines which, if extended, would intersect, the area may be computed as if such boundary lines were so extended.

LOT, CORNER. A lot bounded by more than one street which has an interior angle of 135 degrees or less formed by the tangents or straight segments of street lines between the side or rear lines of such lot or by an extension of such street lines. A lot bounded by one street shall be considered a corner lot when the tangents or straight segments of the street line between the side lines of the lot form or would form if extended, an interior angle of 105 degrees or less.

LOT DEPTH. The distance between the midpoints of straight lines connecting the foremost points of the side lot lines in front and the rearmost points of the side lot lines in the rear.

LOT FRONTAGE. See "Frontage, Lot."

LOT, INTERIOR. A lot other than a corner lot with only one frontage on a street.

LOT, THROUGH. A lot other than a corner lot with frontage on more than one street. Through lots abutting two streets may be referred to as double frontage lots.

LOT, REVERSED FRONTAGE. A lot on which the frontage is at right angles or approximately right angles (interior angle less than 135 degrees) to the general pattern in the area. A reversed frontage lot may also be a corner lot, an interior lot or a through lot.

LOT WIDTH. The distance between opposite side lines through that part of the dwelling where the lot is narrowest. In the case of a corner lot, the shorter street frontage may be considered the side line except that in this case the minimum rear yard requirement shall be no less than the side yard requirement.

MUNICIPAL. The word "municipal" means the Town of Winchester.

NON-ACCESSORY SIGN. See "Sign, Non-Accessory."

NON-CONFORMING USE OR STRUCTURE. A lawfully existing use or structure which does not conform to the regulations for the district in which such use or structure exists.

PUBLIC. The word "public" means the Town of Winchester, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, United States Government or an agency thereof.

REAR LINE OF A LOT. A line separating a lot from other lots or from land in a different ownership, being the boundary of a lot which is opposite or approximately opposite the street frontage.

RECORDED. The due recording in the Middlesex County South District Registry of Deeds, or, as to registered land, the due filing in the Middlesex County South District land Registration Office.

ROADSIDE STAND. - (a) Flags and insignia of any government, except when displayed in connection with commercial promotion;
- (b) Legal notices, identification, informational or directional signs erected or required by governmental bodies;
- (c) Integral decorative or architectural features of buildings, except letters, trademarks, moving parts or moving lights;
- (d) Signs directing and guiding traffic and parking on private property, but bearing no advertising matter.

SIGN, ACCESSORY. Any billboard, sign or other advertising device that advertises, calls attention to, or indicates the person occupying the premises on which the sign is erected or the business transacted thereon, or advertises the property itself or any part thereof as for sale or to let, and which contains no other advertising matter.

SIGN, NON-ACCESSORY. Any billboard, sign or other advertising device that does not come within the foregoing definition of an accessory sign.

SIGN, ON-SITE. A sign relating in its subject matter to the premises on which it is located, or to products, accommodations, services, or activities on the premises. On-site signs do not include signs erected by the outdoor advertising industry in the conduct of the outdoor advertising business.

SIGN, STANDING. The term "Standing Sign" shall include any and every sign erected on or affixed to the land and any and every exterior sign that is not attached to a building.

SPECIAL EXCEPTION. A special exception is a use that would not be appropriate generally or without restriction throughout the zoning district but which, if controlled as to number, area, location or relation to the neighborhood, would promote the public health, safety, welfare, order, comfort, convenience, appearance, prosperity, or general welfare. Such uses may be permitted in such zoning district as special exceptions, if specific provision for such special exceptions is made in this zoning by-law.

STORY. That portion of a building contained between any floor and the floor or roof next above it; it does not include either the lowest portion so contained if more than one-half of such portion vertically is below the mean finished grade of the ground adjoining such building, or the uppermost portion so contained if under a sloping roof and not designed or intended to be used for human occupancy.

STORY, HALF. A story directly under a sloping roof in which the points of intersection of the bottom of the rafters and the interior faces of the walls are less than three feet above the floor level on at least two exterior walls.

STREET, ROAD OR WAY. An area of land dedicated, approved by the Planning Board, or legally open for public travel under at least one of the following classifications:

(a) A public way duly laid out by the Town of Winchester, the Middlesex County Commissioners, the Metropolitan District Commission or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, or a way which the Winchester Town Clerk certifies is maintained by public authority and used as a public way excluding, however, limited access highway; or

(b) A way shown on a definitive plan approved and endorsed in accordance with the Subdivision Control Law; or

(c) A way in existence prior to said Subdivision Control Law having become effective in the Town of Winchester (August 31, 1953), having, in the opinion of the Planning Board, sufficient width, suitable grades and adequate construction to provide for the needs of vehicular traffic in relation to the proposed use of the land abutting thereon or served thereby, and for the installation of municipal services to serve such land and the buildings erected to be erected thereon.

A public or private way as stated above shall not be deemed to be a "street" as to any lot of land that does not have rights of access to or passage over said way.

STREET LINE. The right-of-way line of a street.

STRUCTURE. Anything constructed or erected with a fixed location on the ground, or attached to something having a fixed location on the ground. Among other things, structures include buildings, mobile homes, walls, fences, billboards, and poster panels.

STRUCTURE, TEMPORARY. Tent, construction shanty, or similarly portable or demountable structure intended for continuous use for not longer than one year.

TOWN HOUSE. A row of attached single-family dwellings contained within one (1) building and separated by common or party walls.

USE, TEMPORARY. Use, operation or occupancy of a parcel of land, building or structure for a period not to exceed one calendar year.

YARD. An open space on a lot unoccupied by any structure or such parts thereof as covered or uncovered porches, steps, cornices, eaves and other projections; provided, however, that fences, freestanding walls, poles, posts, and other customary yard accessories, ornaments and furniture, and customary summer awnings are permitted in any yard, subject to height limitations. Yard depth shall be measured from the street or lot line to the nearest point on a building in a line perpendicular or normal to such lot or street line. The fellowship and education committees will provide soft drinks and ice cream. Children will have an opportunity to play games. New friends are invited.

St. Mary's Begins Religious Classes, Teachers Needed

Religious education classes at St. Mary's Church will begin Sept. 23. The opening to the school year will be a commemorative mass to be celebrated by Fathers Sheehan and Hoy at 9 a.m. that day. All students, teachers, and personnel are invited to attend.

Two types of classes will be available this year: school classes to be held at St. Mary's, and, as initiated last year, home classes to be held in each of the four neighborhood parish districts.

School classes will be in session as follows:

Grades 1-6, Sunday 9:45, principal Bob and Marilyn LaRue, or Thursday 3:30, Ann McGovern, Jenny Stevenson, secretary.

Grade 7, Wednesday 3:30, Principal needed.

Grade 8, Monday 3:30, Bob Quinn.

Grade 9, Tuesday 7:30, Jack Ellis and Dick Coakley.

Each school class teacher has a high school student assistant teacher. Volunteers are needed in both cases, especially for the Wednesday, Grade 7 class.

For home classes the parish is divided into neighborhood districts, Washington-Muraco, chairman Joanne Kirk; Lincoln-McCall, Linda O'Callaghan; Mystic, Elaine McPhail; and Ambrose-Wyman, Ann May. Though some home teachers have volunteered, more are needed, especially Lincoln-McCall, grades 2, 3, 6, Mystic, grade 3, and Ambrose-Wyman, grade 3.

CWU Sell

UNICEF Cards

Church Women United will continue to sponsor the sale of UNICEF greeting cards, toys, calendars, and books in time for Christmas giving.

Mrs. Lee J. Aubrey will direct the sale of UNICEF items at the post office from Nov. 12 to Nov. 30. Mrs. Harry F. Shaw Jr. will sell them at the Star Market from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15.

Mrs. Jenness Eugley, president of CWU, reminds residents that the United Nations Children's Fund contributes to the health, nutrition, and education of needy children in 111 developing countries, as well as providing emergency aid and sponsoring projects to improve the quality of family life.

The sale of one box of greeting cards enables UNICEF to protect 75 children against tuberculosis. The sale of 10 boxes provides exercise books for 150 school children — or provides assistance in a number of other ways.

UNICEF is supported solely by the voluntary contributions of people and governments in 130 countries. For each $10 worth of supplies or training grants that UNICEF provides, the receiving nations must spend an average of $25 from their own resources.

The best time to put in a lawn is fall!
The best one to put in a lawn is the Lawn-A-Mat man!

From his successful experience on over one million lawns coast to coast, the Lawn-A-Mat man knows that Fall seeding is best because:

1. Fall is the seeding time for 15 of 22 seed grasses including Kentucky Bluegrass and Fescue, the two best kinds of lawn grasses.
2. Lawn seed sprouts fastest in cool weather, grows faster too. The Lawn-A-Mat man knows that grass is essentially a cool weather plant.
3. Fall is the time of year when the lawn's enemies, the hot sun, heat bugs and weeds are on the wane. He agrees with experts who say that Fall is the best time to start a lawn you can be proud of, one that will probably require less expense than you are putting into your present lawn.

Just as Fall is the best time to put in a lawn, the Lawn-A-Mat man is the best man to put in that lawn. Lawn-A-Mat has put in more than one million lawns and has micro lawn care professionals from coast to coast than any other service. Its Lawn-A-Magic seed and chemicals are the highest quality equal to the best you can buy at most garden centers. This means that you get more for your money in the Fall. The Lawn-A-Mat man is offering you Fall Specialists to save you even more.

He will do all the work and it will cost you no more than if you did it yourself! All you do is buy the high quality Lawn-A-Magic products and the work will be done for you! Take your choice of two Fall Specialists or ask your Lawn-A-Mat man about the Annual Greenskeeper Program.

Unitarian Cooperative Church School To Begin

Regular classes for grades one through eight will start Sept. 23 at the Unitarian Cooperative Church School on the corner of Main st. and Mystic Valley pkwy.

The program is planned to coincide with the period for adult worship and discussion from 10 a.m. to 11:30; to enable families to come to church and return together.

Child care for small children will be provided in the Nash Nursery, while 3- and 4-year olds and those in kindergarten will have separate programs.

The school operates as a cooperative effort of the church, an integrated part of the total program seeking to include as many in the church as possible. Parents of children in the program are expected to share in its operation. The program year is divided into three terms of approximately 10 weeks each.

The curriculum committee has outlined a growing program that takes into consideration the needs for heritage roots, value formation, human understanding, and identification with the universe and its creative power. Most of the class material comes from the Unitarian Universalist Beacon Press. Their teaching units, which are used widely in other schools, emphasize the discovery method of learning.

The fourth, fifth and sixth graders will have 45 minutes of class period followed by a chosen activity period for 45 minutes. In addition to some special festivals in the church school, the children will attend church once a month when part of the service will be planned for them. First, second and third graders will meet in their own circle time every Sunday.

Some of those who will be sharing their time on Sunday mornings with the children and youth are: Margaret Sudbury, Nancy Strader, Mary Aubrey, Sandra Pomeroy, Judy Heuter, Louise Fackert, Mem Chipman, Lisa Jeffrey, Andrea Fritch, Linda Trageser, Constance Abel, Jeanne Ives, Richard and Virginia Sorenson, Anita Poss, Jane Miller.

Also, Barbara and Donald Brown, Beverly Jones, Virginia Hartman, Lawrence and Susan Keats, Margaret and John Russell, Barbara Marshman, Jeanne Weylman, Barbara and Douglas Flockart, Judith and Frank Virnelli, and Dr. Robert Storer.

The junior choir, under the direction of David Arsenault, will meet regularly at 9 each Sunday morning to prepare music for their participation in the several special services of the year.

The Sacred Dance Choir, open to new members of junior high age, will hold its first meeting in the sanctuary at 8 p.m. on Oct. 3 with director Bee Gonnella.

The junior and senior high program committees will meet soon to outline their activities for the year.

The total program of the cooperative church school is the responsibility of the religious education committee of the church. Serving on this committee this year are: Mrs. Erma Hirschfeld, chairperson, Mrs. Louise Fackert, Leo Leiberman, Robert Horne, James Kimball, Mrs. Donna Redpath, Mrs. Jeanne Ives, Mrs. Maggie Russell, Richard Sorenson, and Prescott Keyes. Mrs. Barbara Marshman is the director of religious education.

A prospectus outlining the courses and activities of the school is available. Anyone interested may call Mrs. Marshman.

He is author of about a dozen books on psychology and religious belief, including "The Pain of Being Human" and "The Return To Man."

Father Robert F. Quinn, CSP, moderator of the series, indicates this year's program will be pointed toward clarifying unclear religious concepts which have caused misunderstanding among Catholics and other Christians. The lecturers will examine some of the cultural and personal changes in morality in today's society.

For more information or tickets for the lectures, contact Father Quinn, P.O. Box 8579, JFK Station, Boston, Ma. 02114.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As an answer to the letter of Linford N. Fitzpatrick in the Winchester Star of Sept. 6, I would paraphrase the popular song "When You Say Love, You've Said It All." It is his characterization of himself that leads me to wonder if he has consulted a reliable dictionary.

I believe that no competent ornithologist has ever accused the hawk of being an exceptionally perceptive bird. To the hawk almost any living thing is an enemy to be destroyed. That's the trouble with hawks—they cannot distinguish between Chinese Communists and Russian Communists with whom Nixon is now having a love feast, and those terrible pajama-clad peasant communists in the rice paddies of Southeast Asia.

It must be awfully confusing to the poor hawks whom Nixon keeps tethered from attacking our good friends the Russians and Chinese, but unleashes them against those "slinky-eyed" men, women and children who want to be left alone to live out their lives in peace. It sure must be awfully confusing to the poor hawks.

Petition Drive

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This week has seen the opening of a petition drive to put the question of a home rule charter for Winchester on next spring's ballot. The Winchester League of Women Voters supports this effort with enthusiasm.

We have been working with the Town Government Study Committee for several months to assist the drive. League precinct captains are working with Jaycee precinct captains to organize petition distribution throughout the town. The Winchester LWV has drawn on wide charter experience of leagues in other communities to assist the TGSC in compiling informational materials about the charter process.

The Winchester League of Women Voters has long supported measures to encourage planning and cooperation among town boards and committees. It supported the Home Rule Act of 1966 because that made possible local change by local citizenry, diminishing dependence on the state legislature.

Citizen participation is a vital ingredient for democratic government. The drive to formulate a basic law for Winchester and present it to voters for consideration would seem to reinforce our goal of an efficient and responsive government.

Margaretta Thuma
President, Winchester LWV

Residents Urged To Hear Speaker

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Wednesday, Sept. 19, the League of Women Voters is sponsoring a meeting about Winchester Center. A distinguished speaker from the MIT Department of Urban Studies will give a talk on problems in suburbs like ours.

Members of the Planning Board, the Winchester Business Association, and Design and Architectural Review Committee will be present to discuss how this applies to Winchester.

This is a great opportunity for everyone to share in the protection and improvement of their town, either by getting to know the issues involved or by being able to offer suggestions for help.

So please come. It may be your last chance before the special town meeting on Oct. 18 votes on the new zoning by-law proposals.

The day: Wednesday, Sept. 19. The time: 7:45 p.m. The place: Muraco School.

BOOK REVIEW

'The Making Of A Rebel' By Winchester Resident

THE MAKING OF A REBEL By Joseph Mayer. The Naylor Company, San Antonio, Tex., 114 pages, $4.95.

"The Making of a Rebel" is light reading for a couple of summer afternoons at the beach. Written by a Winchester resident who spent much of his boyhood in Brooklyn, N.Y., in the 1890s, the book contains quite a bit of color that should appeal to nostalgia buffs. "Three rolls, and a cup of coffee for seven cents...Brooklyn likewise had large markets, such as the Wallabout near the Brooklyn Navy Yard, beautiful parks and monuments, and in particular it then possessed wide uncluttered boulevards, much open country and many fine swimming beaches."

It took the young Joseph Mayer a long time to reach his electrical repair job in Manhattan by streetcar—a job which paid him $3 a week. His descriptions of his summer vacations near Long Island, then quite rural, seem a long time ago. Equally distant are his narrations of pleasant family life uncomplicated by electrical gadgets. But for those who might long for those days, he had to work long hours to keep bread on his mother's table. The work the teenager was forced into was dull and led nowhere. The future for the precocious Joseph pointed to one unstimulating low-paying job after another.

Why Mayer included certain material in this autobiographical account of his youth is puzzling. For instance, the family parrot: "The parrot, which I'll (Joseph's brother) also liked to tease, was an early concession to Dad and his seafaring days. Bill would make believe he was about to pull Polly's tail, which in fact he sometimes did! The parrot would whirl dizzily about the cage to keep his tail out of the way and would yell, 'Quack, quack.' " Mayer then relates how his sister, in rescuing Polly from Bill, was pecked on the lip.

Not very startling material, and certainly in no way illuminating how Mayer became a "rebel." Perhaps inclusion of such stories is intended to give the reader a composite picture of Mayer's family life, in other ways an unusual one.

Following a move to San Antonio, Tex., and two more jobs, one of them quite promising, Joseph decided he needed a college education. Without any high school training, he began study by himself for the University of Texas entrance examinations. He studied text books for a year and in June "took the exams in more than half of the needed subjects. I did creditably in all but one, and that one was algebra!" He says he relied on reason in studying for the algebra test. Over the summer he changed his method of study—memorization—in preparation for retaking the exam in September.

"Good As my resolve, I scored 100 percent on the September algebra test and secured more than passing marks on the other exams taken. My achievement in algebra got the attention of the Admission Committee. In all, I was credited with 12 units out of the 14½ then required and was granted entrance to the university on 'individual approval.' "

If his boyhood was unusual because he was self-reliant, apparently a leader of his friends, a loving son, hard working, confident of his fists, then Mayer's college years would be considered equally unusual.

With his Brooklyn accent and constant need for money, he was at the outset not one of the campus boys in the "clannish, high-hat" college in Austin. He had signed up for electrical engineering but added a couple of electives. "This final addition (I found out later on) caused me to be singled out as the 'crazy engineer taking elocution.' "

His college years, with their campus pranks, bull sessions, in-jokes, a prohibitionist crusade and the crushing of certain fellow students who pandered in pornography should appeal to the nostalgics. "We were also among those independent critters, who if we didn't like certain characters, such as dormitory pests or purveyors of smut, took positive action after ordinary indulgent hints proved unavailing." Most of Mayer's recreated conversations are unconvincing. For instance, his encounter with a "bully-boy" who liked to crush coeds' hands: "Chum," I began with a disarming grin, "I hear you have a steamhammer grip." "You bet," retorted the blowhard belligerently. "Wanna try it out?" He shoved his mitt forward.

Needless to say, Mayer crunched bully-boy's hand. "Remember this," I said, "when next you get the yen to crush some coed's hand. In addition, my roommate has a bear hug waiting for you, which could net you a couple of broken ribs, at least, if you ever again try any of your outhouse filth on our group. At the same time, I might also feel inclined to push the guff right back down your throat."

During this third year, Mayer transferred to a nearby college where he took on teaching duties. Once again, his natural intelligence and dogged studiousness went to work in getting him through Southwestern University.

His great scholastic accomplishments, some unorthodox (for then) religious beliefs, devotion to his family and determination to succeed in whatever he began all contributed to what Joseph Mayer is. But is he a rebel, as the title suggests? Maybe he is. Who knows.

But the book ends with his graduation from college, suggesting a sequel. Mayer is revealed as a tremendous human being, but far from a rebel. Quite the opposite in fact. We're left with a feeling of unfulfillment.

And the jacket blurb doesn't do much to fill us in. It says he received an MA from Harvard (where he went immediately after Southwestern), Ph.D. from Columbia and LL.D. from Southwestern. Mayer "has achieved international eminence in the fields of social science and political economy as researcher, lecturer and writer."

"His articles have been widely published in national and international journals and his books have received the highest accolades for scholarly presentation and innovative ideas. He is listed in all important directories including 'Who's Who Among Authors and Journalists' and 'Who's Who in the World.' "

"In 1969 he was elected to the Wisdom Hall of Fame and was presented with the Wisdom Award of Honor. Professor Emeritus, Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, he now spends full time at his varied writing projects in Winchester, Massachusetts."

Charter Commission

Local Self Government By Home-Rule Charter

This is the second of three articles by Robert C. Ericson, a member of the Town Government Study Committee, on how Winchester can go about creating a charter commission. The study committee was created by town meeting to look into possible changes in Winchester's governmental structure.

By Bob Ericson

The 1966 Home Rule Amendment affirms the right of local self-government in clear and direct language: "It is the intention of this article to reaffirm the customary and traditional liberties of the people with respect to the conduct of their local government, and to grant and confirm to the people of every city and town the right of self-government in local matters."

The most effective way for a town to claim to the fullest its home rule powers of self-government is to draft and adopt a home rule charter. Winchester does not have such a charter and the Town Government Study Committee has strongly recommended that Winchester take the steps necessary to obtain one.

PRESENT TOWN LAWS

Winchester's present governing documents consist primarily of two bodies of special laws: (1) a collection of almost 100 special and general acts of the state legislature going back to 1882 (requiring access to a law library to look them all up); (2) a set of town meeting-enacted by-laws (a booklet available from the town clerk). Thus, Winchester's governing documents are unorganized for easy reference and are inaccessible and confusing.

With the adoption of a home rule charter all of the special acts of the legislature are put aside; the powers and functions of the town government take the form established in the charter by the citizens of the town. However, section nine of the Home Rule Amendment allows that "all special laws relating to individual cities and towns shall remain in effect."

Thus, Winchester continues to operate with only these legislative acts as its frame of government until such time as they are amended or repealed by the adoption of a home rule charter.

LIMITATIONS

This grant is of necessity limited as cities and towns remain agents and political subdivisions of the Commonwealth, subject to state control through standards and requirements established by the state legislature by general and special laws.

About Letters . . .

This page is a forum for readers of The Star to express themselves. Readers who wish to make a point on any subject may write a letter to the editor of The Star, 3 Church St.

News Copy

News copy for The Winchester Star must be received in The Star office, 3 Church St., no later than 5 p.m. on the Monday preceding publication.

News copy, which includes reports on social events, sports, coming events, letters to the editor and religious announcements, should be typed, and double spaced. Untyped copy delays publication.

Most importantly, the Home Rule Amendment excludes the following topics from local control: (1) the regulation of elections; (2) the levying, assignment and collections of taxes; (3) municipal borrowing; (4) the disposal of municipal park land; (5) civil law governing private relationships; (6) the definition and punishment of felonies.

In these six areas, cities and towns continue to possess only those powers specifically granted by state statute.

CHARTER COMMISSION

A charter commission may or may not recommend changes in the form of town government. Many towns have adopted home rule charters that did not change many substantial way the structure of town government.

However, these towns now have a single document setting forth the framework of their government and in so doing have claimed to the fullest extent possible their home rule powers. On the other hand, some towns have adopted charters that have included substantial changes in town government.

It should be noted, however, that a charter commission can make no change in town government by itself. A charter commission can only propose a charter. The final decision with respect to adopting any charter can be made only by the voters at a town election.

CHARTER AMENDMENTS

An additional and very important reason for a town to adopt a home rule charter is that it makes it easier for a town to periodically update and improve town government. Charter amendments may be proposed to the voters by a two-thirds vote of the town meeting.

The proposed amendment is then placed on the ballot at the next local election and becomes effective if approved by a majority. The state legislature need not be petitioned for special legislation.

As an example, Winchester's present grant of powers to its Water and Sewer Board goes back to a special act of the state legislature, Chapter 265, acts of 1872. If the town needs to make changes to update the functions of this board and these changes fall outside the 1872 act, we would have to petition the legislature again.

However, if Winchester adopts a home rule charter it would structure this government service the way it wanted, and could change it as the need arises.

CHARTER REVISION

The Home Rule Amendment provides for limitation on the type of change that can be proposed by town meeting action as a charter amendment. The amendment process cannot be used to change in any way the composition, mode of election or appointment, or terms of office of the town meeting or the board of selectmen or the town executive. These changes may only be made by repealing the entire charter commission procedure and submitting the revised charter to the voters.

(Next week, in the final article the charter making procedure of the home Rule Amendment will be explained in detail. This process is novel to Massachusetts in that it permits citizens of any community to adopt a new charter for their local government without recourse to the state legislature.)

Letter From The Editor

Communes (Part 2)

A note in this column Aug. 16 said there's no real way the town can control young persons from living together. The note said the Planning Board's new proposed by-law would limit to no more than four the number of unrelated persons who can live together.

The article quoted the acting town counsel as saying that he didn't think the courts would enforce such a law. We've received some further information on the subject from a reader who sent us a newspaper clipping from the Newton Villager and Transcript of Aug. 16 reporting that Gov. Sargent "recently signed a bill reducing from five to four the number of unrelated boarders that may occupy an unlicensed apartment or housing unit."

That bill was written and filed by Rep. Peter Harrington, a friend of mine, so I probably should have known it was coming up. But Peter, who has more bills in the works than Dun & Bradstreet, never mentioned it. I told Peter I thought the newspaper clipping vague (he said that's probably because he wrote it) and would explain it a little more. Anyway, he says it's now illegal in Massachusetts for more than four persons who are not related to live in the same apartment.

The new law requires that a lodging house license be obtained when more than four unrelated persons live together. Peter says his purpose in filing the legislation was not necessarily to get at communes as much as "avaricious" landlords who evict families in order to rent apartments to students at higher rates.

He was particularly concerned about parking problems in Newton resulting from split-up houses.

The law will give local city councils, boards of aldermen and selectmen power to control communes. They are the licensing authority for lodging houses.

There are no lodging house licenses in Winchester at present, according to the selectmen's executive secretary, Ed. Donnelly. Harrington's bill amended the present state statute (Ch. 140, Sect. 22-31).

The statute provides that selectmen would rule "as to the fitness of a person" applying for a lodging house license and provides for immediate revocation pending a hearing if the licensee is found unfit. Selectmen would take into account fire and police reports.

Someone sent us some "examples of unclear writing . . . taken from actual letters received by the local Welfare Department in applications for support." (The Welfare Department is in a nearby town.)

"I am forwarding my marriage certificate and six children. I have seven, but one died which was baptised on half sheet of paper."

"I am writing the Welfare Department to say that my baby was born two years old. Where do I get my money?"

"I cannot get sick pay. I have six children, can you tell me why?"

"I am glad to report that my husband who is missing is dead."

"This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?"

"Please find for certain if my husband is dead. This man I am now living with can't eat or do anything until he knows."

"I am very much annoyed to find you have branded my son illiterate. This is a dirty lie as I was married a week before he was born."

"In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a boy weighing two pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

"I am forwarding my marriage certificate and three children, one of which is a mistake as you can see."

"My husband got his project cut off two weeks ago and I haven't had any relief since."

"Unless I get my husband's money pretty soon, I will be forced to live an immoral life."

"You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will this make any difference?"

"I have no children yet as my husband is a truck driver and works day and night."

"In accordance with your instructions, I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope."

"I want my money as quick as I can get it. I've been in bed with the doctor for two weeks and he doesn't do me any good. If things don't improve, I will have to send for another doctor."

"Mrs. Jones has not had any clothes for a year and has been visited regularly by the clergy."

Last week's Star printed the boundaries of the apartment-business district proposed by the Winchester Business Association for the center business area.

At Monday's selectmen's meeting WBA president Nancy Dressler said The Star's boundaries were in error. They were not.

But because the residents of Dix street, included in the proposed WBA mixed zone, raised such a clamor after they read the newspaper, the WBA rewrote its boundaries of the business area to exclude most residential areas, including Dix street and Wedge Pond.

The WBA-revised version reads: "To amend the zoning map of the town so that the following three areas of the town now described as 'general business' shall be placed in the business-apartment, multi-purpose district.

"A) The area currently bound by B&M station, Waterfield road, Church st., and Dix terrace called now 'General Business.' "

"B) The area currently bound by B&M Railroad, Shore rd., Skillings rd., Mystic Valley parkway and Waterfield rd., called now 'General Business' (exclusive of public conservancy areas).

"C) The area currently called 'General Busis' bound by B&M Railroad, Skillings rd., Main st., Wedge Pond, & Elmwood ave., with boundary moved back to Vine st. and thence into Church st."

Rev. Kenneth R. Henley has resigned as associate minister of the First Congregational Church. Failing health was cited as his reason for seeking full retirement from his active ministry after eight years.

The church pastor, Rev. Walter Bond Davis, said: "During these eight years we have 'grown accustomed to his face.' His presence has brought joy to countless of us: the elderly, the sick, the shut-in, the young and his fellow clergy. His calling ministry has created expectations for the time being we must now learn to live without."

Winchester's five selectmen usually try to compromise on most issues and go on to vote them unanimously. But at last week's meeting they split over a seemingly inconsequential matter.

Potential jurors have to fill out a questionnaire. There are two types of questionnaires: male and female. The female one asks for the husband's occupation; the male one does not.

Selectman Larry Smith didn't think this right, suggesting that lawyers might want to know the occupation of a man's wife before selecting jurors.

The board queried Rep. Harrison Chadwick on the subject. He didn't seem all that interested. "Let me say that I am not aware of any need to change our present system. However, if the Board of Selectmen decides that it wishes to have legislation filed along these lines, I shall be glad to do so at their request."

"At their request" means the bill would carry the words "by request," a euphemism meaning a representative doesn't support a proposal. Smith thought the board should go ahead anyway and file legislation to make the questionnaires consistent.

For a while at that meeting it looked like Smith's only support would come from Selectman John Sullivan, who readily favored the proposal. Vito Giarrizzo abstained, saying, "I think the legislature has enough to do." Finally William Chapman broke the silence with a yes vote. Chairman Arthur Dunbar voted no.

There are so many radio stations serving the Boston area that you can't count them all. With such a large number you would think there would be more diversity in programs than there is.

It's the same few stations, such as WCRB and WGBH, that consistently present something different. You can add WCAS for broadcasting something different in music.

The other stations seem divided into a few categories: elevator-restaurant type music (WHIS, WHEE, WHOO, etc.), teenage music and talk show-news.

Naturally there is a large audience for these three types of programming. But surely in the Boston area, with a population of three million, there are widely varying tastes. It seems the majority of stations is bent on appealing to the widest common denominator.

With everyone trying to cut food bills, one way comes readily to mind: buy the supermarket's own name brands, rather than the national brands advertised on television.

The supermarket brands are usually as high in quality and cheaper because the firms are local with smaller advertising budgets to support.

Another way to cut food costs, of course, is to eat less. None of us needs the great quantities of food we seem to stuff down our throats in some mad race to keep our stomachs at their fullest possible level.

Slowly cut down on what you eat. One week drop desserts, the next, potato chips with lunch. Gradually you might want to drop drinking tonic, nibbling on munchies and crunchies (no damn good for you anyway), halve your consumption of meat, potatoes and rice.

And in a year or two you'll be able to subsist only on orange juice like Dick Gregory. He doesn't look any the worse for it either.

It sure is a pitiful sight to go to the supermarket and see the elderly shop. They pick up each item to compare prices carefully. (This is in Winchester, by the way; a town which can spend a million dollars for a sports playing field for practice.)

Mount Vernon House Women Volunteer

By E. B. Seferian

Nine sprightly ladies at the Home for the Aged on Mt. Vernon street have contributed their Thursday mornings for most of the summer to benefit other senior citizens in this and neighboring communities.

Since mid-July, the ladies have spent three hours each Thursday, packaging greeting cards for the Mystic Valley Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and preparing a leaflet about Winchester's own Retired Senior Volunteer Program which has been mailed out to all town elders.

In addition they have addressed cards for the Leukemia Drive. Some have made and contributed knitted scarves to a service organization, and one has written letters to shut-ins.

Presently they are working on a recruitment letter which the Winchester Council on Aging is mailing to all senior citizens who volunteered their time and skills in the recent town survey of older citizens. Mrs. Grace Creamer, Mrs. Cecilia Cunningham, Mrs. Signe Fiffeld, Florence Gibbs, Mrs. Beulah Lindsey, Mrs. Ethel Rieburg, and Mrs. Margaret Withington are handling the mailings, while Mrs. Mary Campbell is knitting, and Alice Peterson is writing letters to shut-ins.

Hilda Hope, who with Beryl Hagan is in charge of the Thursday morning activities, says the ladies will be glad to continue as long as their services are needed. Any service organization needing help with mailings etc. may have more information by contacting Miss Hope at 37 Glenn Green.

Lynch Guidance Staff Sets Meets

The guidance staff of Lynch Junior High School has announced that small group meetings for parents of seventh grade students will be held at the school during the next two weeks.

The purpose of the meetings is to familiarize parents with the services offered by the guidance department and to discuss other educational concerns.

Times for the meetings have been set aside for each homeroom group. Specific details regarding the meetings will be published in a bulletin to be sent home tomorrow with each seventh grade student.

Picture Lenders To Meet Sept. 16

The second party of the Winchester Art Association Picture Lending Program for the current season will be held Sept. 16 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Roy A. Johnson, 61 Arlington st.

According to Joseph J. Pontone, president, patrons of this program borrow three pictures per year for a period of four months each, with proceeds from the tickets benefitting the Winchester Art Association Scholarship Fund. The money allows the granting of art scholarships each year to qualified Winchester High School students.

Professional and accomplished local artists, representing both the modern and the traditional idioms, have loaned their paintings for the series. Many of the works are for sale and a number are purchased each year by subscribers for their own collections.

Patrons are reminded to return their paintings to the Johnson home on Sept. 15 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Members wishing to purchase a painting should contact Mrs. Raymond Watts prior to Sept. 15 for further information.

Anyone not able to be present this Sunday may designate a friend to attend and make a selection in his place.

Want some advice about packing for a trip? Only take what you can carry in your own two hands. Make sure your suitcases are light enough so that you can manage them yourself. Otherwise, you will always be looking about for help, which is hard to find, and may be expensive. Customs is much more difficult if your luggage is many and varied as is sightseeing, unpacking, packing, shopping. Limit yourself to a few essentials and you will be much better off.

James Isenhower of Alabama and William O'Brien of Burlington, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom; James Finley of New Jersey; Raymond Narciso of Connecticut; Richard D'Angelo of West Roxbury; and Glenn Allen of Ohio. They wore dark brown Prince Edward tuxedos with apricot ruffled shirts.

The bridegroom's niece and nephew were

If you earn nine thousand dollars per year for the next thirty years, until you retire at age sixty-five, you will have earned a total of $270,000. This, of course, is assuming that you have no advancement during the next thirty years at all. When you stop to think of it, what would your family do without you?

And when you stop to think about insurance, think first of FRANCIS N. MAHONEY INSURANCE AGENCY, 814 Mass. Ave., 613-3800. PLANNING BOARD NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING REGARDING PROPOSED ZONING CHANGES

Notice is hereby given pursuant to statute that the Winchester Planning Board will hold a public hearing on the 24th of September, 1973, at 8:00 p.m. EDST in the Senior High School Auditorium upon the following proposals to amend the Zoning By-Laws of the Town:

- To see if the Town will vote to amend the Zoning By-Laws of the Town and the Zoning Map which is incorporated therein and made a part thereof, by adopting the following Zoning By-Law and map, substantially as follows:

ZONING BY-LAW of the Town of Winchester Massachusetts

In Town Meeting 1973: Voted, that to promote the general health, safety, convenience and welfare of the Town of Winchester, as set forth in the Zoning Enabling Act in Chapter 40A, as amended, of the General Laws of Massachusetts, the following Zoning By-Law is hereby adopted.

SECTION 1 - ESTABLISHMENT OF DISTRICTS

The town is hereby divided into zoning districts as follows (districts are designated in this by-law by initial letters and numbers in parentheses with the numbers for all residential districts indicating minimum lot area in thousands of square feet, and for all other districts, the numbers indicate maximum floor to land area ratios):

1.1 Residential Districts are intended as districts primarily devoted to buildings for residential purposes, with only such accessory buildings as will enhance those districts.

1.11 Apartment House Residential Districts A (RA-120) are intended as districts where groups of apartments houses of various types may be arranged on large lots to provide desirable developments compatible with adjacent residential neighborhoods.

1.12 Apartment House Residential Districts B (RB-20) are intended as districts within Winchester Center where mid-rise apartment houses may be developed to provide housing compatible with adjacent residential and commercial uses.

1.13 Planned Residential Districts are intended as districts where single family homes, Town Houses and Garden Apartments may be developed to meet the needs of various age groups and are developed on large tracts as an integrated residential complex with design criteria regulated and controlled by special permit.

1.14 Residential Districts A (RDA-20) are primarily intended as districts of one-family dwellings in sections of the town having low density or being currently relatively undeveloped for residential purposes, where topography generally is of such nature that comparatively large lots are required for proper siting of buildings and where comparatively spacious types of development are ensured, or districts of Cluster Residential Housing designed to protect the natural landscape and increase open space on sites of 20 Acres or more with design criteria regulated and controlled by special permit.

1.15 Residential Districts B (RDB-10) are intended primarily as districts of one-family dwellings in developed sections of town having medium density and smaller lots than those found in RDA districts, or districts of Cluster Residential Housing designed to protect the natural landscape and increase open space on sites of 10 Acres or more with design criteria regulated and controlled by Special Permit.

1.16 General Residence Districts (RG-6.5) are intended as districts of one and two-family dwellings in the well-developed sections of the town having medium to high density.

1.2 Business Districts

1.21 Local Business Districts (BLD-0.50) are intended primarily for limited business uses and services catering to the day to day household needs of the residents in the immediate vicinity.

1.22 General Business Districts (GBD-1.0) are intended primarily for the retail interchanges of goods, wares, or property by purchase or sale, for offices, and for certain other business uses hereinafter limited and defined where prevailing usage and location would require on-site parking facilities.

1.23 Center Business Districts (CBD-2.0) are intended primarily for the retail interchanges of goods, wares, or property by purchase or sale for offices, and for certain other business uses hereinafter limited and defined where existing concentrated development makes it impractical to require parking on the lot.

1.3 Industrial Districts

1.31 Limited Light Industrial Districts (IL-1.0) are intended primarily for light manufacturing, miscellaneous service and related activities; for retail and wholesale commercial establishments; for laboratories engaged in research, experimental and testing activities; and offices, but not office buildings, specifically related to the foregoing, all as hereinafter limited and defined.

1.4 Special Districts

1.41 Conservancy-Institutional Districts (SCI-0.50) are intended primarily as public use districts in which the predominant purposes for the land are for conservational, educational, institutional and recreational uses. The districts are also intended to preserve and increase the amenities of the town; to provide a specially suitable setting for public and quasi-public buildings and structures; to restrict residential uses of the land; to prohibit commercial (including commercial recreation), industrial, and other uses of the land which would diminish its value in providing the foregoing setting of said buildings and in serving the conservational, educational and recreational needs of Winchester. In addition, the districts are specifically intended for the preservation and maintenance of the ground water table for the protection of public health and safety, persons and property against the hazards of flood water inundation; for the protection of the community against the costs which may be incurred when unsuitable development occurs in swamps, along water-courses, or in areas subject to floods; and for the conservation of natural conditions, wild life, and open spaces for the education, recreation and general welfare of the public.

1.5 Boundaries of Districts

1.51 Official Zoning Map

(a) The location and boundaries of the district set forth under Section 1 are hereby established as shown on a map entitled, "Official Zoning Map of 1973, Town of Winchester, Massachusetts", revised which map, with all explanatory matter thereon, is declared to be part of this by-law hereafter referred to as Official Zoning Map.

The Official Zoning Map shall be identified by the signatures of the members of the Planning Board attested by the Town Clerk, and shall bear the seal of the Town under the following words: "This is to certify that this is the Official Zoning Map referred to in Section 1.51 (a) of the Zoning By-Law, Town of Winchester, Massachusetts", together with the date of adoption of this by-law.

(b) Changes may be made in district boundaries or other matter portrayed on the Official Zoning Map, in accordance with the provisions of this by-law and Chapter 40A, Section 6, General Laws.

Following approval by the Town Meeting and the Attorney General, the Town Engineer shall promptly revise a compiled Zoning Map to portray such amendment with suitable tabular notation of all amendments reflected on such map. The Town Engineer shall annually during the month of January publish the Compiled Zoning Map. This Compiled Zoning Map shall be prima facie evidence of the Official Zoning Map with all amendments thereto.

(c) The original zoning map, entitled "Official Zoning Map of 1973" and original records of subsequent changes or additions thereto shall be kept by the Town Clerk. In event of a conflict between the Compiled Zoning Map and the original zoning map or original records of subsequent changes or additions, the original records shall take precedence.

1.52 Rules for Interpretation of District Boundaries Where uncertainty exists as to the boundaries of districts as shown on the Official Zoning Map, the following rules shall apply:

(a) Boundaries indicated as approximately following the center lines of streets, highways, or alleys shall be construed to follow such center lines.

(b) Boundaries indicated as approximately following plotted lot lines shall be construed as following such lot lines.

(c) Boundaries indicated as approximately following town lines shall be construed as following such town lines.

(d) Lines shown following railroad lines in fact follow a sideline of the railroad right-of-way.

(e) Boundaries indicated as following shore lines shall be construed to follow the limit of private ownership; boundaries indicated as approximately following the center lines of streams, rivers, canals, lakes, or other bodies of water shall be construed to follow such center lines.

(f) Boundaries indicated as parallel to or extensions of features indicated in subsections 1.52 (a) through 1.52 (e) above shall be so construed. Distances not specifically indicated on the Official Zoning Map shall be determined by the scale of the map, as interpreted by the Zoning Administrator.

(g) Where physical or structural features existing on the ground are at variance with those shown on the Official Zoning Map, or in other circumstances not covered by paragraphs (a) through (f) above, the Zoning Administrator shall interpret the district boundaries.

(h) When a lot in one ownership is situated in part in the Town of Winchester and in part in an adjacent city or town, the regulations and restrictions of this by-law shall be applied to that portion of such lot as lies in the Town of Winchester in the same manner as if the entire lot were situated therein.

SECTION 2 - APPLICATION OF DISTRICT REGULATIONS
Except as hereinafter provided, the regulations of this by-law for each district shall apply uniformly to each class or kind of building, structure or land and,

2.1 No Building, structure or land shall hereafter be used or occupied, and no building or structure or part thereof shall hereafter be erected, constructed, reconstructed, moved, or structurally altered except in conformity with all of the regulations herein specified for the district in which it is located.

2.2 No part of a yard, or other open space, or off-street parking or loading space required about or in connection with any building for the purpose of complying with this by-law, shall be included as part of a yard, open space, or off-street parking or loading space similarly required for any other building.

2.3 No yard or lot existing at the time of passage of this by-law shall be reduced in dimension or area below the requirements set forth herein. Yards or lots created after the effective date of this by-law shall meet the requirements established by this by-law.

2.4 All territory which may hereafter be annexed to the Town shall be considered to be in the RDA (20) District until otherwise classified.

SECTION 3 - NON-CONFORMING LOTS, NON-CONFORMING USES OF LAND, NON-CONFORMING STRUCTURES, NON-CONFORMING USES OF STRUCTURES AND PREMISES AND NON-CONFORMING CHARACTERISTICS OF USE

3.1 Intent

3.11 Within the districts established by this by-law, or amendments that may later be adopted, where exist

- lots,
- buildings and structures,
- uses of land and buildings and structures, and
- characteristics of use

which were lawful before this by-law was passed or amended, but which are or would be prohibited, regulated, or restricted under the terms of this by-law or future amendment, it is the intent of this by-law to permit these non-conformities to continue subject to the provisions of this section. It is further the intent of this by-law that non-conformities shall not be enlarged upon nor used as grounds for adding other structures or uses prohibited elsewhere in the same district, except as specifically provided in this section.

3.12 To avoid undue hardship, nothing in this by-law shall be deemed to require a change in the plans, construction, or designated use of any building for which a building permit was issued prior to the date of enactment of this by-law, provided that actual construction shall begin within six (6) months after the permit is issued and shall be completed within one year after construction was begun. "Actual construction" is hereby defined to include the placing of construction materials in permanent position and fastened in a permanent manner. Where excavation or demolition or removal of an existing building has been substantially begun preparatory to rebuilding, such excavation or demolition or removal shall be deemed to be actual construction, provided that work shall be carried diligently on until completion of the building involved.

3.2 Non-Conforming Lots of Record

Where a lot or lots exist which could not be built upon for residential purposes under the terms of this ordinance by reason of restrictions on lot area or lot width, such lot or lots may be used, subject to the following provisions:

3.21 Notwithstanding other provisions of this by-law, a single-family dwelling and customary accessory buildings may be erected on any single legal building lot of record at the effective date of adoption or amendment of this by-law, provided that such lot is in separate ownership and not of continuous frontage with other lots in the same ownership. This provision shall apply even though such lot fails to meet the district requirements for area or width, or both, provided that yard dimensions and other requirements not involving area or width, or both, shall conform to the regulations for the district in which such lot is located.

3.22 If two or more lots, or combinations of lots and portion of lots, with continuous frontage in single ownership do not meet the requirements for lot width and area as established by this by-law, the land involved shall be considered to be an undivided parcel for the purposes of this by-law and no portion of said parcel shall be used or sold which does not meet lot width and area requirements established by this by-law, nor shall any division of the parcel be made which leaves remaining any lot with width or area below the requirements stated in this by-law except that such lots may be used or sold separately where each lot is occupied by a structure designed for use which is permitted as a principal use in the district.

3.23 Any conforming use or conforming structure on a non-conforming lot may be enlarged, extended, constructed or reconstructed so long as the requirements of the district in which it is located are met.

3.3 Non-Conforming Uses of Land

Where, at the time of passage of this by-law, lawful use of land exists which would not be permitted by the regulations imposed by this by-law, the use may be continued so long as it remains otherwise lawful, provided:

3.31 No such non-conforming use shall be enlarged or increased, nor extended to occupy a greater area of land than was occupied at the effective date of adoption or amendment of this by-law:

3.32 No such non-conforming use shall be moved in whole or in part to any portion of the lot or parcel other than that occupied by such use at the effective date of adoption or amendment of this by-law:

3.33 If any such non-conforming use of land is discontinued for any reason for a period of more than 12 consecutive months (except where governmental action impedes access to the premises), any subsequent use of such land shall conform to the regulations specified by this by-law for the district in which such land is located:

3.34 No structure not conforming to the requirements of this by-law shall be erected in connection with such non-conforming use of land.

3.4 Non-Conforming Structures

Where a lawful structure exists at the effective date of adoption or amendment of this by-law that could not be built under the terms of this by-law by reason of restrictions on area, lot coverage, height, yards, its location on the lot, or other requirements concerning the structure, such structure may be continued so long as it remains otherwise lawful, subject to the following provisions:

3.41 No non-conforming structure may be enlarged or altered in any way which increases its non-conformity.

3.42 If such non-conforming structure or portion thereof is destroyed by fire or other casualty or act of God to an extent of up to 75 percent its replacement cost at the time of destruction as determined by the building inspector, it may be rebuilt. Any such structure so destroyed to an extent of over 75 percent may be rebuilt subject to approval of Board of Appeals upon the following conditions:

a. the reconstruction shall meet as many of the previously unsatisfied requirements of this by-law as said Board may reasonably require;

b. the Board shall give due consideration to the general compatibility that the reconstruction may have upon adjacent property, but need not otherwise consider the requirements of Section 8.5.

3.43 If a non-conforming structure is moved for any reason for any distance whatever, it shall thereafter conform to the regulations in effect for the district in which it is located after it is moved.

3.5 Non-Conforming Uses of Structures or of Structure and Premises in Combination

Lawful uses of structures, or structures and land in combination which existed at the effective date of adoption or amendment of this by-law, that would not be allowed in the district under the terms of this by-law, may be continued so long as it remains otherwise lawful, subject to the following provision:

3.51 A Certificate of Zoning Compliance shall be obtained in accordance with the provisions of Section 8.2 of this By-Law.

3.52 Any structure being lawfully devoted to a use not permitted by this by-law may be altered, repaired or reconstructed for the same use, or for any other use as permitted in sub-section 3.53, provided such construction or reconstruction does not increase the floor area or the lot area covered by the structure:

3.53 No non-conforming uses may be extended throughout any parts of a building that were not arranged or designed for such uses at the time of adoption or amendment of this by-law, and no such uses shall be extended to occupy any land outside such building:

3.54 Any non-conforming use of a structure, or structure and premises, may as a special exception be changed to another non-conforming use provided that the Board of Appeals, either by general rule or by making findings in the specific case, shall find that the proposed use is equally appropriate or more appropriate to the district than the existing non-conforming use. In permitting such change, the Board of Appeals may require appropriate conditions and safeguards in accord with the provision of this by-law:

3.55 Any structure, or structure and land in combination, in or on which a non-conforming use is superseded by a permitted use shall thereafter conform to the regulations for the district, and the non-conforming use may not thereafter be resumed:

3.56 When a non-conforming use of a structure or structure and premises in combination, is discontinued for 12 consecutive months, or

SECTION 5 - SUPPLEMENTARY DISTRICT REGULATIONS

5.1 Accessory Building

No accessory building shall be erected in any required yard, and no separate accessory building shall be erected within fifteen feet of any other building except in accordance with the following regulations:

5.2 Erection of More Than One Principal Structure on a Lot

In any district except single and general residence districts and as may be provided under the provisions of a planned residential unit development more than one structure housing a permitted or permissible principal use may be erected on a single lot, provided that yard and other requirements of this by-law shall be met for each structure as though it were on an individual lot.

6.2 Supplementary Regulations

6.21 In addition to minimum lot area requirements for certain districts, density of land use is further regulated as follows:

a. In the Apartment District (RB-20), Business Districts (BL-0.50), (GBD 1.0) and (CBD 2.0) Light Industrial District (IL-1.0), Conservancy-Institutional District (SCI-0.5), the Floor Area Ratio shall not exceed maximum values for each District. The Floor Area Ratio is computed by dividing the total floor area, based on the outside dimensions at each story, of all buildings on the lot by the total area of the lot. The maximum Floor Area Ratio for these districts is as follows:

|--|---------|
| Apartment District (RB-20) | - 2.0 * |
| Local Business District | - 0.50 |
| General Business District GBD | - 1.0 |
| Center Business District CBD | - 2.0 |
| Light Industrial District (IL) | - 1.0 |
| Conservancy-Institutional District (SCI) | - 0.5 |

* If required off-street parking is provided within a garage on the site, maximum Floor Area Ratio may be increased to 2.5.

b. In the Apartment District (RA-120) there shall be provided 3,000 square feet of lot area per dwelling unit containing one room used for sleeping; 3,500 square feet of lot area per unit with two such rooms; 4,000 square feet of lot area per unit with three or more such rooms.

c. In the Apartment District (RB-20), each lot shall contain not less than following square footage of lot area per dwelling unit:

| Lot Area | Lot Area Per Dwelling Unit |
|---------------------------|----------------------------|
| 20,000 - 24,999 sq. ft. | 600 sq. ft. |
| 25,000 - 39,999 sq. ft. | 575 sq. ft. |
| 40,000 - 54,999 sq. ft. | 550 sq. ft. |
| 55,000 - and over sq. ft. | 525 sq. ft. |

The lot area required in the RB-20 district for any new building and the lot area required in the RB-20 district in determining lot area per dwelling unit for any new building shall not include any part of a lot that is required by any other conforming or non-conforming building or use to comply with the requirements of this by-law, or was required by the applicable dimensional requirements prior to the effective date the land was placed in the RB-20 district.

d. In the Planned Residential District the maximum density of the total development shall be determined on the basis of 6 dwelling units and 12 bedrooms per acre.

e. Maximum density of the Cluster Residential Development in the residential Districts A & B shall be computed as follows:
1. In the RDA, divide the gross lot area by 25,000 Sq. Ft.
2. In the RDB, divide the gross lot area by 12,500 Sq. Ft.

f. Existing public and non-profit institutional buildings existing at the time of adoption of this by-law may be allowed to exceed the maximum building height on not more than three sides of the building where:

(1) There are substantial finished grade differentials between the side of the building with the highest average finished grade (where the maximum building height can not be exceeded) and one or more of the sides of the building with a lower average finished grade, and -

(2) The Board of Appeals shall find in its review under Section 8.7 that no reasonable alternate method of enlarging the structure is available and that adequate provision has been taken to eliminate any adverse impact on surrounding properties through the provision, on those sides where the maximum height will be exceeded, of increased yard areas.

6.22 The measurement of lot width shall be shown on a plan approved and endorsed by the Planning Board.

6.23 Lots having one half or more frontage on a circular turnaround or curve of less than 100 feet radius, may be reduced in frontage below the requirements of this section to a minimum of 50 feet.

6.24 In BL and IL districts in particular instances, the Board of Appeals may grant a special exception, permitting a principal building to be erected on a lot having less area or frontage, or both, than the minimum requirements specified in the Table of Dimensional Requirements, if at the time of the adoption of said minimum

5.3 Structures to Have Access

Every building hereafter erected or moved shall be on a lot having required street frontage.

5.4 Parking, Storage or Use of Major Recreational Equipment

No major recreational equipment shall, except as hereinafter provided, be parked or stored on any lot in residential and SCI districts except in an enclosed building or in the rear yard, provided however, that such equipment may be parked anywhere on residential premises for not to exceed 24 hours during loading or unloading. For purposes of these regulations, major recreational equipment is defined as including boats and boat trailers, travel trailers, pick-up campers or coaches (designed to be mounted on automotive vehicles), motorized dwellings, tent trailers, and the like, and cases or boxes used for transporting recreational equipment, whether occupied by such equipment or not. No such equipment shall be used for living, sleeping, or housekeeping purposes when parked or stored. Where, by reason of unique conditions, the strict application of these regulations would result in peculiar and exceptional practical difficulties, the Board of Appeals may issue a permit to allow the parking or storage of major recreational equipment within a front or side yard.

5.5 Parking and Storage of Certain Vehicles

Unregistered motor vehicles or trailers of any kind or type shall not be parked or stored on any residentially zoned property other than in completely enclosed buildings.

requirements such lot was lawfully laid out and recorded by plan or deed and did not join other land of the same owner available for use in connection with such lot, provided that the Board determines that such exception can be granted without substantial derogation from the intent and purpose of this by-law. In SCI districts in particular instances the Board of Appeals may grant a special exception permitting buildings owned and occupied at the time of the effective date of adoption or amendments of this by-law for a public, charitable or other purpose lawful in such district to be altered, repaired, rebuilt, or added to in a manner failing to conform to the dimensional requirements of Section 6.1 or the density regulations set forth in Section 6.21 (a), or permitting uses accessory to such buildings which fail to conform to the area limitations of Section 4.2, subject however to such conditions or limitations as the Board in its decision may impose as in its judgement are reasonably required to minimize any departures from the general purpose and intent of such requirements, regulations or limitations.

6.25 In residence districts, the Board of Appeals may grant a special exception, permitting alterations to existing structures which encroach on the side or rear yard requirements of the district, providing that:

a. The enforcement thereof would involve practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and the granting of relief will not result in menace to the public safety, health or welfare of the neighborhood.

b. The intended use of the alteration is permitted in the district.

c. The yard requirement is not reduced by more than 15 percent.

6.26 Cluster Residential Housing - Special Permit

In order to permit maximum flexibility for developing land for single family homes, group or town houses of two and one-half stories or less; open space; private recreational facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the Cluster Residential Housing and their guests; and related off-street parking and landscaping, tracts of land consisting of 20 Acres or more in the RDA-20 district and 10 Acres or more in the RDB-10 district may be developed as Cluster Residential Housing provided the number of dwelling units shall approximate the number permitted in the district, and maximum density shall be determined as provided in paragraph (c) of section 6.21.

To afford the Town of Winchester ample assurance that such developments will not tend to degrade the amenities of the neighborhoods in which they occur, or of the Town as a whole, and to insure that objectionable congestion of traffic is not created, Cluster Residential Housing may only be constructed under a special permit granted by the Board of Appeals as hereinafter defined and limited.

6.261 Procedure

The owner or owners of a parcel of land in the RDA-20 or RDB-10 district which is of sufficient size to allow cluster residential housing, as defined in 6.26, shall submit to the Board of Appeals an application for a special permit, together with plans and a filing fee, in accordance with the provisions for Site Plan Review in Subsection 8.7 of this by-law and in accordance with the additional provisions of this section 6.26.

6.262 Standards for Reviewing and Approving Cluster Residential Housing

The Planning Board shall review all Cluster Residential Housing applications submitted to it by the Board of Appeals. The Planning Board shall report its recommendations for approval or disapproval, together with reasons therefor and any additional requirements, to the Board of Appeals within 30 days of receipt of the application and plan. Reasonable requirements may be recommended to the Board of Appeals by the Planning Board for the protection of adjoining residential property.

The Planning Board shall recommend approval of the Cluster Residential Housing application and plan only if it finds the Cluster Residential Housing satisfies all of the following standards.

(a) Uses

The permitted uses in the Cluster Residential Housing may include single-family homes, and town houses, of two and one half stories or less, open space, private recreational facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the Cluster Residential Housing and their guests, and related off-street parking and landscaping.

(b) General Standards

The Cluster Residential Housing shall provide for an effective and unified treatment of the development possibilities on the project site making appropriate provision for the preservation of scenic features and amenities of the site and the surrounding areas.

The Cluster Residential Housing shall be planned and developed to harmonize with any existing or proposed development in the area surrounding the project site.

More than one building is permitted on tracts of lots held by one owner or in common ownership.

The uniqueness of each proposal for a Cluster Residential Housing requires that the specifications for the width and surfaces of streets, ways for public utilities, for curbs, gutters, sidewalks, street lights, storm water drainage, water supply and distribution, sanitary sewers and sewage collection and treatment shall be subject to modification from the specifications established in the Rules and Regulations Governing the Subdivision of Land in the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts and as amended from time to time. The Planning Board may recommend that the specifications otherwise applicable for a particular public facility may be waived or modified (provided that such modification shall not apply to the materials of said construction and shall not produce construction of inferior quality to that required in the Rules and Regulations Governing Subdivision) when such waiver or modification is not inconsistent with generally approved design standards.

The Planning Board shall recommend the installation or the furnishing of a performance guarantee in lieu thereof, of all or any of the following improvements it may deem to be necessary or appropriate: street grading, pavement, gutters, curbs, sidewalks, street lighting, shade trees, landscaping, surveyor's monuments, water mains, culverts, bridges, storm sewers, sanitary sewers or other means of sewage disposal, drainage facilities or structures and other improvements as the Planning Board may require or deem necessary in the public interest. The Planning Board may recommend phases for the completion of improvements in sections of the Planned Residential Development and recommend minimum improvement completion requirements necessary for the issuance of certificates of Zoning Compliance in any section.

(c) Design Standards

All buildings in the layout and design shall be an integral part of the development and have convenient access to and from adjacent uses and roadways.

Individual buildings shall be related to reach other in design, masses, materials, placement and connections to provide a visually and physically integrated development. Buildings shall be separated by a minimum of 20 feet or 0.75 percent of the building height times its length whichever is greater.

Treatment of the sides and rear of all buildings within the Cluster Residential Housing shall be comparable in amenities and appearance to the treatment given to street frontages of these same buildings.

All building walls shall be so oriented as to insure adequate light and air exposures to the rooms within.

All buildings shall be arranged so as to avoid undue exposure to concentrated loading or parking facilities wherever possible, and shall be oriented so as to preserve visual and audible privacy between adjacent buildings.

All buildings shall be arranged as to be accessible to emergency vehicles.

All utilities shall be placed underground.

(d) Landscape Design Standards

Landscape treatment for plazas, road, paths, service and parking areas shall be designed as an integral part of a coordinated landscape design for the entire project area.

Primary landscape treatment shall consist of shrubs, ground cover, and trees, and shall be combined with appropriate walks and street surfaces to provide an attractive development pattern. Landscape materials selected should be appropriate to the local growing conditions.

Whenever appropriate, existing trees shall be preserved and integrated into the landscape design plan.

All streets contained within and bordering the project area shall be planted at appropriate intervals with street trees.

Whenever possible the existing terrain shall be preserved and land moving shall be kept to a minimum.

(e) Circulation System Design Standards

There shall be an adequate, safe, and convenient arrangement of pedestrian circulation facilities, roadways, driveways, off-street parking and loading spaces.

Roads, pedestrian walks and open space shall be designed as an integral part of the overall site design. They shall be properly related to existing and proposed buildings, and appropriately landscaped.

There shall be an adequate amount, in a suitable location, of pedestrian walks, malls, and landscaped spaces in order to discourage pedestrian use of vehicular ways and parking and loading spaces; and to separate pedestrian walks, malls and public transportation loading spaces from general vehicular circulation facilities.

Buildings and vehicular circulation open spaces shall be arranged so that pedestrians moving between buildings are not unnecessarily exposed to vehicular traffic.

Landscaped, paved and comfortably graded pedestrian walks shall be provided along the lines of the most intense use, particularly from building entrances to streets, parking areas, and adjacent buildings.

The location and design of pedestrian walks should emphasize desirable views of new and existing development in the area.

The maximum separation of private automobiles and service vehicles shall be provided through the use of separate service lanes.

Materials and design of paving, lighting fixtures, retaining walls, bulkheads, fences, curbs, benches, etc., shall be of good appearance easily maintained and indicative of their function.

(f) Parking and Loading Design Standards

Off-street parking and loading facilities shall conform to the provisions of Section 7 of this by-law. Parking facilities shall be landscaped and screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness and to the monotony of parked vehicles.

Pedestrian connections between parking areas and buildings shall be via special pedestrian walkways and/or elevators.

Parking facilities shall be designed with careful regard to arrangement, topography, landscaping, ease of access, and shall be developed as an integral part of an overall site design.

Any above grade loading facility should be screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness.

(g) Common Open Space

A minimum of 25 percent of a Cluster Residential Housing site area shall be developed as open space, including walkways, plazas, landscaped areas, recreation areas, tennis courts, pools, and fountains. Parking areas and vehicle access facilities shall not be considered in calculating open space. A maximum of 40 percent of the Cluster Residential Housing site area shall be covered by impervious waterproof surface.

(1) Common open space must be suitably improved for its intended use, but common open space containing natural features worthy of preservation may be left unimproved. The buildings, structures and improvements in the common open space must be appropriate to the uses which are authorized for the common open space.

(2) The development schedule must coordinate the improvement of the common open space, and the construction of residential dwellings.

(3) All land shown on that site plan as common open space shall be subject to covenants approved by the Board of Appeals which restrict the common open space to the uses specified on the site plan and which further assure that ownership of the common open space shall not be separate from ownership of the entire tract except that all or part of the common open space may be conveyed to the appropriate agency of the town for public park, recreational, conservation or other public purposes, if such open space is deemed suitable and needed for its intended public purpose by the appropriate town agency. A special permit shall be conditional upon the actual acceptance by the appropriate town agency and of the Town Meeting of the title to the common land in the case of plans providing conveyance to the town of all or part of the open space.

(h) Buffer Zone Requirements

A buffer zone within fifty (50) feet of all external lot lines of a designated Cluster Residential Housing shall be provided except that portion which fronts upon an existing external street or roadway. Said buffer zone shall be kept in its natural state where wooded, and, when its natural vegetation is sparse or nonexistent, the landowner may be required to provide a year-round visual screen as recommended by the Planning Board.

Within said buffer zone, no principal or accessory structure, nor any off-street parking or loading areas or other use shall be permitted. Within said buffer zone, utility easements and streets may be provided if necessary to insure continuity with adjoining properties, subject to the recommendations of the Planning Board.

Said buffer zone area may be utilized for the purpose of computing the Cluster Residential Housing open space requirements of this Ordinance.

The requirements of this paragraph may be modified or eliminated when two planned residential unit developments abut or adjoin one another.

(i) Setbacks

A minimum setback from all existing streets and thoroughfares for all buildings, structures and uses of no less than seventy-five (75) feet or a distance equal to twice the height of any structure or building within the development, whichever is greater, shall be provided.

6.27 Planned Residential District - Special Permit

In order to permit maximum flexibility in employing the latest techniques for developing land for multiple family dwelling units, tracts of land consisting of 20 acres or more within the RDA-20 district and 10 acres or more in the RDB-10 district may be rezoned by the Winchester Town Meeting for a Planned Residential District with maximum densities of 6 dwelling units and 12 bedrooms per acre. To afford the Town of Winchester ample assurance that such developments will not tend to degrade the amenities of the neighborhoods in which they occur, or of the town as a whole, and to insure that objectionable congestion and density of traffic is not created, a Planned Residential Development may only be constructed after rezoning and under a special permit granted by the Board of Appeals as hereinafter defined and limited.

6.271 Procedure

The owner or owners of a parcel of land which has been zoned for a Planned Residential District shall submit to the Board of Appeals an application for a special permit, together with plans and a filing fee, in accordance with the provisions for Site Plan Review in Subsection 8.7 of this by-law and in accordance with the additional provisions of this section 6.27.

6.272 Standards for Reviewing and Approving Planned Residential Developments

The Planning Board shall review all Planned Residential Development applications submitted to it by the Board of Appeals. The Planning Board shall report its recommendations for approval or disapproval, together with reasons therefor and any additional requirements, to the Board of Appeals within 30 days of receipt of the application and plan. Reasonable requirements may be recommended to the Board of Appeals by the Planning Board for the protection of adjoining residential property.

The Planning Board shall recommend approval of the Planned Residential Development application and plan only if it finds the Planned Residential Development satisfies all of the following standards:

(a) Uses

The permitted uses in the Planned Residential Development may include single-family homes, garden apartments and town houses, of three stories (40 feet) or less, open space, private recreational facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the Planned Residential Development and their guests, and related off-street parking and landscaping.

(b) General Standards

The Planned Residential Development shall provide for an effective and unified treatment of the development possibilities on the project site making appropriate provision for the preservation of scenic features and amenities of the site and the surrounding areas.

The Planned Residential Development shall be planned and developed to harmonize with any existing or proposed development in the area surrounding the project site.

More than one building is permitted on tracts of lots held by one owner or in common ownership.

The uniqueness of each proposal for a Planned Residential Development requires that the specifications for the width and surfaces of streets, ways for public utilities, for curbs, gutters, sidewalks, street lights, storm water drainage, water supply and distribution, sanitary sewers and sewage collection and treatment shall be subject to modification from the specifications established in the Rules and Regulations Governing the Subdivision of Land in the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts and as amended from time to time. The Planning Board may recommend that the specifications otherwise applicable for a particular public facility may be waived or modified (provided that such modification shall not apply to the material of said construction and shall not produce construction of inferior quality to that required in the Rules and Regulations Governing Subdivision) when such waiver or modification is not inconsistent with generally approved design standards.

The Planning Board shall recommend the installation or the furnishing of a performance guarantee in lieu thereof, of all or any of the following improvements it may deem to be necessary or appropriate: street grading, pavement, gutters, curbs, sidewalks, street lighting, shade trees, landscaping, surveyor's monuments, water mains, culverts, bridges, storm sewers, sanitary sewers or other means of sewage disposal, drainage facilities or structures and other improvements as the Planning Board may require or deem necessary in the public interest. The Planning Board may recommend phases for the completion of improvements in sections of the Planned Residential Development and recommend minimum improvement completion requirements necessary for the issuance of certificates of Zoning Compliance in any section.

(c) Design Standards

All buildings in the layout and design shall be an integral part of the development and have convenient access to and from adjacent uses and roadways.

Individual buildings shall be related to each other in design, masses, materials, placement and connections to provide a visually and physically integrated development. Buildings shall be separated by a minimum of 20 feet or 0.75 percent of the building height times its length whichever is greater.

Treatment of the sides and rear of all buildings within the Planned Residential Development shall be comparable in amenities and appearance to the treatment given to street frontages of these same buildings.

All building walls shall be so oriented as to insure adequate light and air exposures to the rooms within.

All buildings shall be arranged so as to avoid undue exposure to concentrated loading or parking facilities wherever possible, and shall be oriented so as to preserve visual and audible privacy between adjacent buildings.

All buildings shall be arranged as to be accessible to emergency vehicles.

All utilities shall be placed underground.

(d) Landscape Design Standards

Landscape treatment for plazas, roads, paths, service and parking areas shall be designed as an integral part of a coordinated landscape design for the entire project area.

Primary landscape treatment shall consist of shrubs, ground cover, and trees, and shall be combined with appropriate walks and street surfaces to provide an attractive development pattern. Landscape materials selected should be appropriate to the local growing conditions.

Whenever appropriate, existing trees shall be preserved and integrated into the landscape design plan.

All streets contained within and bordering the project area shall be planted at appropriate intervals with street trees.

Whenever possible the existing terrain shall be preserved and land moving shall be kept to a minimum.

(e) Circulation System Design Standards

There shall be an adequate, safe, and convenient arrangement of pedestrian circulation facilities, driveways, roadways, off-street parking, and loading spaces.

Roads, pedestrian walks and open space shall be designed as an integral part of the overall site design. They shall be properly related to existing and proposed buildings, and appropriately landscaped.

There shall be an adequate amount, in a suitable location, of pedestrian walks, malls, and landscaped spaces in order to discourage pedestrian use of vehicular ways and parking and loading spaces; and to separate pedestrian walks, malls and public transportation loading spaces from general vehicular circulation facilities.

Buildings and vehicular circulation open spaces shall be arranged so that pedestrians moving between buildings are not unnecessarily exposed to vehicular traffic.

Landscaped, paved and comfortably graded pedestrian walks shall be provided along the lines of the most intense use, particularly from building entrances to streets, parking areas, and adjacent buildings.

The location and design of pedestrian walks should emphasize desirable views of new and existing development in the area.

The maximum separation of private automobiles and service vehicles shall be provided through the use of separate service lanes.

Materials and design of paving, lighting fixtures, retaining walls, bulkheads, fences, curbs, benches, etc., shall be of good appearance easily maintained and indicative of their function.

(f) Parking and Loading Design Standards

Off-street parking and loading facilities shall conform to the provisions of Section 7 of this by-law. Parking facilities shall be landscaped and screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness and the monotony of parked vehicles.

Pedestrian connection between parking areas and buildings shall be via special pedestrian walkways and/or elevators.

Parking facilities shall be designed with careful regard to arrangement, topography, landscaping, ease of access, and shall be developed as an integral part of an overall site design.

Any above grade loading facility should be screened from public view to the extent necessary to eliminate unsightliness.

(g) Common Open Space

A minimum of 25 percent of a Planned Residential Development site area shall be developed as open space, including walkways, plazas, landscaped areas, recreation areas, tennis courts, pools, and fountains. Parking areas and vehicle access facilities shall not be considered in calculating open space. A maximum of 40 percent of the Planned Residential Development site area shall be covered by impervious waterproof surface.

(1) Common open space must be suitably improved for its intended use, but common open space containing natural features worthy of preservation may be left unimproved. The buildings, structures and improvements in the common open space must be appropriate to the uses which are authorized for the common open space.

(2) The development schedule must coordinate the improvement of the common open space, and the construction of residential dwellings.

(3) All land shown on that site plan as common open space shall be subject to covenants approved by the Board of Appeals which restrict the common open space to the uses specified on the site plan and which further assure that ownership of the common open space shall not be separate from ownership of the entire tract except that all or part of the common open space may be conveyed to the appropriate agency of the town for public park, recreational, conservation or other public purposes, if such open space is deemed suitable and needed for its intended public purpose by the appropriate town agency. A special permit shall be conditional upon the actual acceptance by the appropriate town agency and of the Town Meeting of the title to the common land in the case of plans providing conveyance to the town of all or part of the open space.

(h) Buffer Zone Requirements

A buffer zone within fifty (50) feet of all external lot lines of a designated Planned Residential Development shall be provided except that portion which fronts upon an existing external street or roadway. Said buffer zone shall be kept in its natural state where wooded, and, when its natural vegetation is sparse or non-existent, the landowner may be required to provide a year-round visual screen as recommended by the Planning Board.

Within said buffer zone, no principal or accessory structure, nor any off-street parking or loading areas or other use shall be permitted. Within said buffer zone, utility easements and streets may be provided if necessary to insure continuity with adjoining properties, subject to the recommendations of the Planning Board.

Said buffer zone area may be utilized for the purpose of computing the planned residential development open space requirements of this Ordinance.

The requirements of this paragraph may be modified or eliminated when two planned residential unit developments abut or adjoin one another.

(i) Setbacks

A minimum setback from all external lot lines of a planned residential development from all existing streets and thoroughfares for all buildings, structures and uses of no less than seventy-five (75) feet or a distance equal to twice the height of any structure or building within the development, whichever is greater, shall be provided.

SECTION 7 - OFF-STREET PARKING AND LOADING REQUIREMENTS AND AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE REGULATIONS

7.00 Intent

It is the intent of this Section of the by-law that any use of land involving the arrival, departure, storage, or entry upon the land of motor vehicles be so designed and operated as to reduce hazard to pedestrians upon the public sidewalks, to protect the use of adjoining property from nuisance caused by the noise, fumes, and glare of headlights which may result from the operation of cars parked off the street and at the same time to reduce congestion in the streets and contribute to traffic safety by assuring adequate places for the standing and storing off the street of motor vehicles associated with the use of a lot of land.

7.10 General Regulations Applying to Required Off-Street Parking Facilities

(a) Structures and land uses in existence or for which building permits have been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law shall not be subject to the requirements of Section 7 so long as the kind or extent of use is not changed so that the changed or enlarged use would require an increase of more than 15 per cent in the parking facilities required in this Section, provided that any parking facilities now serving such structures or uses shall not in the future be reduced below such requirements.

(b) Whenever there is an alteration of a structure, addition of a new structure, or a change or extension of use which increases the parking requirements by 15 per cent or more according to the standards of Section 7, the total parking required for the entire structure or use shall be provided in accordance with the requirements of this section.

(c) No parking area shall be used for any use that interferes with its availability for the parking need it is required to serve.

(d) All required parking facilities shall be provided and maintained so long as the use exists which the facilities were designed to serve. Off-street parking facilities shall not be reduced in total extent after their provision, except when such reduction is in conformity with the requirements of Section 7. Reasonable precautions shall be taken by the owner or sponsor of particular uses to assure the availability of required facilities to the employees or other persons whom the facilities are designed to serve. Such facilities shall be designed and used in such a manner as at no time to constitute a nuisance, or a hazard, or unreasonable impediment to traffic.

(e) Any privately owned off-street parking areas now serving structures or uses within the Center Business District (CBD-2.0) which are in existence or for which building permits have been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law shall be continued and shall not, in the future, be reduced below the off-street requirements of the General Business District (GBD-1.0) except through application to the Board of Appeals as described below. The Board of Appeals may allow a reduction or discontinuance of existing privately owned off-street parking in the Center Business District (CBD-2.0) if it finds that sufficient and accessible off-street municipal parking facilities have been provided within 300 feet (walking distance) of the structure or use being served. "Sufficient" shall be deemed to mean that the off-street municipal parking facility or facilities contain sufficient parking spaces to serve all existing uses, based on the standards of the General Business District (GBD-1.0), within 300 feet of the parking facility or facilities.

(f) Where a parking facility is a principal use of any lot, it shall not be opened to use until the Zoning Administrator has issued a certificate of compliance to the effect that the lot conforms to the provisions of Section 7.13. Such certificate may be revoked by the Zoning Administrator upon violation of any of the conditions set forth in Section 7.13.

7.11 Off-Street Parking Space Regulations

(a) Off-street parking facilities shall be provided for each type of land use, in accordance with the following Table of Off-Street Parking Requirements, and subject to the further provisions of Section 7.

Table of Off-Street Parking Space Requirements

| District | General Use Category | | | | | | | |

Note a. 1.5 spaces for each dwelling unit in group, garden or mid-rise apartment houses designed to serve families. 0.75 spaces for each dwelling unit in group, garden or mid-rise apartment houses restricted by law to serve elderly citizens.

Note b. Bowling alleys shall provide four parking spaces for each alley and tennis courts shall provide two spaces for each court.

Note c. Hospitals shall provide one and one-half parking spaces for each patient bed. Sanitarium, nursing, rest or convalescent home primarily providing long-term custodial care for patients shall provide one parking space for three patient beds.

Note d. In order to encourage the most efficient use of land the municipality will accept the responsibility for the off-street parking in the C.B.D. district.

(1) Where the computation of required parking space results in a fractional number, only the fraction of one-half or more shall be counted as one.

(2) Two or more uses may provide for required parking in a common parking lot if the total space provided is not less than the sum of the spaces required for each use individually.

The number of spaces required in a common parking facility may be reduced below this total by a special exception under Section 9 of this by-law if it can be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Board of Appeals that the hours or days or peak parking need for the uses are so different that a lower total will provide adequately for all uses served by the facility.

(3) Where part of a lot is or has been acquired by the Town to be used by the Town for public parking or for facilities accessory to public parking, the parking requirements on the remaining portion of the lot in private ownership shall be reduced by the number of spaces that could have been provided on the part of the lot so acquired by the Town, calculated on the basis of one space per 400 square feet of lot area so acquired.

(b) Residence Uses shall include Uses 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, as listed in Section 4.4.

(c) Places of Public Assembly shall include Uses 9, 10, 13, 23 and 24, as listed in Section 4.4. Where Places of Public Assembly are provided with benches rather than fixed individual seats, each two lineal feet of bench shall equal one seat, and where no fixed seats are used, each 20 square feet of public floor area shall equal one seat.

(d) Institutions shall include Uses 6, 7, 8, 11, 15 and 16, as listed in Section 4.4.

(e) Retail and Office Uses of land and structures shall include Uses 19, 21, 22, 25, 26, 28, 30, 31, 34, 36, 41, and 42, as listed in Section 4.4. Where a principal use on a lot is an open-air use not enclosed in a structure, the area of the lot devoted to such use shall be considered to be floor space for purposes of calculating parking requirements. Where the area devoted to such use is not clearly determinable, the Zoning Administrator shall determine the area to be considered equivalent to floor space.

(f) Medical and Dental Uses of land and structures shall include Use 32 as listed in Section 4.4.

(g) Industrial Uses of land or structures shall include Uses 27, 29, 33 and 39, as listed in Section 4.4. Where a principal use on a lot is an open-air use not enclosed in a structure, the area of the lot devoted to such use shall be considered to be floor space for purposes of calculating parking requirements. Where the area devoted to such use is not obviously defined, the Zoning Administrator shall determine the area to be considered equivalent to floor space.

(h) Warehouse and Other Uses of land or structures shall include Uses 18, 37, 38 and 40, as listed in Section 4.4. Where a principal use on a lot is an open-air use not enclosed in a structure, the area of the lot devoted to such use shall be considered to be floor space for purposes of calculating parking requirements. Where the area devoted to such use is not obviously defined, the Zoning Administrator shall determine the area to be considered equivalent to floor space.

(i) Where any land, structure or land and structure in combination is in more than one use, parking spaces shall be provided for the entire lot in accordance with the requirements of the use which requires the maximum number of spaces, except that the number of spaces may be reduced below that maximum requirement by a special permit under Section 8 of this by-law if it can be demonstrated to the Board of Appeals that:

(1) At least 15 percent of the area is in a use with a requirement less than the maximum,

(2) A total number of parking spaces is provided so that the area of each use shall be provided with parking spaces as required for that use,

(3) It is unlikely that the uses requiring the lesser number of spaces will be changed to one requiring a greater number.

7.12 Location: Required Off-Street Parking Facilities

Required off-street parking facilities shall be provided on the same lot. Where the requirements of this section cannot be met on the same lot, the Board of Appeals by Special Permit under Section 8.5 may authorize, within the same district, required parking on any lot in the same ownership within 300 feet of the principal use served, as measured along street lines, subject to such bond or other assurance of permanence and of common ownership, as it may deem adequate.

7.13 Design of All Off-Street Parking Facilities

(a) Parking facilities shall be occupied only by passenger cars and commercial vehicles not exceeding seven and one half feet in width and 18 feet in length, unless the special standards provided in paragraph (h) of this Section 7.13 are met.

(b) The minimum dimensions of stalls and aisles shall be as follows:

(1) Stall width shall be at least nine feet:

(2) Stall depth shall be at least 19 feet for all angle parking and 22 feet for parallel parking. Such dimension may include more than two feet of any landscape setback area adjacent to the front and rear of a stall and used for bumper overhang.

(3) Minimum width of aisles providing access to stalls for one-way traffic only, varying with the angle of parking, shall be

| Angle of Parking | Minimum Aisle Width |
|------------------|---------------------|
| Parallel | 12 feet |
| 30 degrees | 11 feet |
| 45 degrees | 13 feet |
| 60 degrees | 18 feet |
| 90 degrees | 20 feet |

(4) Minimum width of aisles providing access to stalls for two-way traffic shall be 24 feet, except that aisles providing access primarily for overnight parking may be a minimum of 22 feet.

(c) Parking facilities shall be designed so that each motor vehicle may proceed to and from the parking space provided for it without requiring the moving of any other motor vehicle. The Board of Appeals, however, may be special exception modify this requirement, and the dimensional requirements of paragraph (b) of this Section 7.13 where a parking facility is under full-time attendant supervision.

(d) The width of entrance and exit drives, except as permitted in paragraph (k), shall be:

(1) A minimum of 12 feet for one-way use only;

(2) A minimum of 20 feet for two-way use, except that driveways providing access primarily for overnight parking, with incidental daytime use, may be a minimum of 12 feet wide and

(3) A maximum of 20 feet at the street lot line in residence districts, and 30 feet in business and industrial districts

(e) Setbacks for parking areas shall be as follows:

(1) In all districts, except as permitted in paragraph (k), parking stalls in parking lots shall be set back from the street lot line to whatever extent may be necessary in the specific situation, as determined by the Zoning Administrator, to avoid the probability of cars backing or otherwise maneuvering on the sidewalk upon entering or leaving the stalls. In no case shall parking lots be designed to require or encourage cars to back into a public or private way in order to leave the lot; except for parking stalls the sole access to which is an alley adjacent to rear lot lines and so arranged that there is at least 20 feet of clear backing between the rear line of the parking stall and the opposite and more distant line of the alley.

(2) In all residential districts, the surfaced area of a parking lot shall be set back:

(i) from the front lot line, except where an access driveway crosses the street lot line, the distance specified for building setback under Section 6.1;

(ii) from the side lot line 1/3 the distance specified for minimum side yard set back of the district under 6.1 except in the RA district, where the minimum setback shall be 20 feet.

(iii) from the side and rear lot lines in the rear yard, a minimum of five feet. Such setback shall be seven feet where two feet of setback area is included in a minimum stall depth as provided in subparagraph (b) (2).

(3) In all residential districts, the setback areas shall be planted and maintained.

(4) In all districts, barriers shall be provided to prevent motor vehicles from being parked within required setback areas, or beyond the boundaries of the lot where no setback is required.

(f) Abutting properties in residential districts shall be protected from lights, as follows:

(1) All illumination on parking lots must be shielded so as not to shine directly upon abutting properties in residential districts.

(2) Properties in residential districts, other than the use served by the parking lot, which abut the parking lot shall be protected from headlight glare by either:

(i) A strip at least four feet wide, densely planted with shrubs or trees which are at least four feet high at the time of planting and which are of a type that may be expected to form a year-round dense screen at least six feet high within three years, or

(ii) A wall, barrier, or fence of uniform appearance at least five feet high, but not more than six feet above finished grade, or above the roof level, if on a roof.

(3) Such screening shall be maintained in good condition at all times. Such screening or barrier may be interrupted by normal entrance and exits, and shall have no signs hung or attached thereto other than those permitted in the district.

(g) No stall shall be located within 10 feet of that part of a building having windows of habitable rooms at the basement or first story level, except as permitted in paragraph (k).

(h) The regulations for the parking of trucks, buses, or other commercial vehicles exceeding seven and one half feet by 18 feet in size shall be as follows:

(1) Stalls to provide parking for commercial vehicles exceeding seven and one-half feet by 18 feet in size shall be located at least 100 feet from the nearest dwelling unit in a residence district

(2) Stalls for such vehicles shall be specifically identified upon the plan, and shall be of such dimensions as to accommodate the specified type of vehicle. Such vehicles shall be permitted to park only in the stalls so identified and approved.

(3) Whenever such lot is adjacent to residential districts it shall be screened from abutting property as provided in paragraph (f) above.

(i) Drainage, surfacing and maintenance of parking lots shall be as follows:

(1) The parking lot shall be marked so as to indicate clearly the space to be occupied by each motor vehicle, in accordance with the dimensions specified in paragraph (b) of this Section 7.13. Such markings shall be maintained so as to be plainly visible.

(2) The area of the lot not planted and so maintained, including driveways, shall be graded, surfaced with asphalt or other suitable material, and drained to the satisfaction of the Zoning Administrator, to the extent necessary to prevent nuisance of dust, erosion, or excessive water flow across public ways.

(3) Lots shall be kept clean and free from rubbish and debris.

(j) Where parking lots are increased in capacity after the effective date of this by-law, the expanded portion thereof shall be designed in accordance with the regulations of this Section 7.13.

(k) Parking lots for three vehicles or less shall conform to the regulations of this Section 7.13, with the exception of paragraphs 7.13 (d) 1 and 2, (e) 1, and (g).

(l) Under a special exception after a hearing, the Board of Appeals may permit in lieu of the dimensional requirements of this Section 7.13, where new parking facilities are being installed to serve structures and land uses in existence or for which building permits had been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law, the substitution of other dimensional requirements, provided such substitution is necessary to permit the installation of some or all of the off-street parking spaces that would be required for a similar new building.

(m) At least 2 per cent of the interior of a parking lot with 21 or more parking spaces shall be planted and continuously maintained. Planting along the perimeter of a parking area, whether for required screening or general beautification, shall not be considered as part of the 2 per cent interior planting. The planting shall be distributed throughout the parking area and shall include trees as well as other plant material. Existing trees shall be preserved where possible. No planting bed shall have a width of less than 3 feet.

7.20 Off-Street Loading Regulations

(a) Structures and land uses in existence or for which building permits have been issued at the date of adoption of this by-law shall not be subject to the requirements stated below, provided that any loading facilities now serving such structures or uses shall not in the future be reduced below these requirements.

(b) Where a structure existing on the effective date of this by-law is altered or extended in such a way as to increase the gross floor area by 5,000 square feet or more, only this additional gross floor area shall be counted in computation of the off-street loading requirements. Alterations or extensions aggregating less than 5,000 square feet subsequent to the effective date of this by-law do not require such provisions of loading space.

(c) Where retail, or other stores are designed or constructed as a group or as a unified building, the aggregate of individual stores shall be treated as one building for the purpose of calculating off-street loading facilities.

(d) Where mixed uses occur, off-street loading facilities shall be the sum of the requirements for the several individual uses computed separately, except that such facilities may be less than said sum by special exception from the Board of Appeals when it can be demonstrated that such individual uses are not in operation at the same time.

(e) Off-street loading facilities shall be provided in accordance with the following requirements for each type of land use except Uses 1 to 4 inclusive, as listed in Section 4.

Number of Loading Bays Required for New Structures By Gross Floor Area of Structures (in thousands of square feet)

| Uses, as Listed in Section 4 | 2-15 | 15-50 | 50-100 | 100-150 | 150-300 | For each Add 150 Over 300 |

(2) There shall be appropriate means of access to a street or alley as well as adequate maneuvering space.

(3) The maximum width of driveways and sidewalk openings measured at the street lot line shall be 28 feet; the minimum width shall be 12 feet.

(4) Loading spaces may be enclosed in a structure and must be so enclosed if located within 50 feet of a residence district where the use involves regular night operation.

(5) All accessory driveways and entranceways shall be graded, surfaced, drained, to the satisfaction of the Zoning Administrator, to the extent necessary to prevent nuisances of dust, erosion, or excessive water flow across public ways.

(6) Such facilities shall be designed and used in such a manner as at no time to constitute a nuisance, or a hazard or unreasonable impediment to traffic.

(b) All required loading facilities shall be provided and maintained in accordance with the following requirements:

(1) They shall be provided and maintained so long as the use exists which the facilities were designed to serve.

(2) They shall not be reduced in total extent after their provision, except when such reduction is in conformity with the requirements of this Section 7.

(3) Reasonable precautions shall be taken by the owner or sponsor of particular uses to assure the availability of required facilities to the delivery and pick-up vehicles that they are designed to serve.

(f) All illumination on outdoor automobile sales lots shall be shielded so as not to shine directly upon any property in a residence district.

(g) No repair work of any kind shall be performed.

SECTION 8 — ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT

8.1 The Board of Selectmen shall appoint an administrative official, hereinafter referred to as the "Zoning Administrator," who shall be responsible for the administration and enforcement of this By-Law. He may be provided with the assistance of such other persons as the Board of Selectmen determine to be required.

8.11 If the administrative official shall find that any of the provisions of this ordinance are being violated, he shall notify in writing the person responsible for such violations, indicating the nature of the violation and ordering the action necessary to correct it. He shall order discontinuance of illegal use of land, buildings, or structures; removal of illegal buildings or structures or of illegal additions, alterations, or structural changes; discontinuance of any illegal work being done; or shall take any other action authorized by this ordinance to ensure compliance with or to prevent violation of its provisions.

8.12 The Board of Selectmen shall establish a schedule of fees, charges and expenses and a collection procedure for certificates of zoning compliance, applications for site plan review, appeals and other matters pertaining to this by-law. The schedule of fees shall be established to reflect the cost of the services required, and it shall be the responsibility of the Zoning Administrator to recommend changes in fees from time to time to reflect changes in these costs.

8.21 It shall be unlawful to use or occupy or permit the use or occupancy of any building or premises, or both, or part thereof hereafter created, erected, changed, converted, or wholly or partly altered or enlarged in its use or structure until a Certificate of Zoning Compliance shall have been issued therefor by the Zoning Administrator stating that the proposed use of the building or land conforms to the requirements of this by-law.

8.22 No non-conforming use as defined by Section 4.4 Table of Use Regulations shall be maintained, renewed, changed or extended until a Certificate of Non-Conformance shall have been issued by the Zoning Administrator. The Certificate of Non-Conformance shall state specifically wherein the non-conforming use differs from the provisions of this by-law and indicate that the non-conforming use was in fact a legal use prior to the enactment or amendment of this by-law, except that upon enactment or amendment of this by-law, owners or occupants of non-conforming uses shall have six months to apply for Certificates of Non-Conformance. Failure to make such application within six months shall be presumptive evidence that the property was in conforming use at the time of enactment or amendment of this by-law. Every owner or occupant of a non-conforming use shall be notified on appropriately advised by the Zoning Administrator within three months of the effective date of this By-Law, or as promptly thereafter as is practicable; and the six-month time periods specified hereinabove shall not commence until such notification has been made.

8.24 A temporary certificate of zoning compliance may be issued by the Zoning Administrator for a period not exceeding six months during alterations or partial occupancy of a building pending its completion, provided that such temporary certificate may include such conditions and safeguards as will protect the safety of the occupants and the public.

8.25 The Zoning Administrator shall maintain a record of all certificates of zoning compliance, and a copy shall be furnished upon request to any person.

8.26 Failure to obtain a certificate of zoning compliance shall be a violation of this by-law and punishable under Section 8.9 of this by-law.

8.27 Certificates of zoning compliance issued on the basis of plans and applications approved by the Zoning Administrator authorize only the use and arrangement set forth in such approved plans and applications, and no other use or arrangement. Use or arrangement at variance with that authorized shall be deemed violation of this by-law, and punishable as provided by Section 8.9 hereof.

8.28 Application for certificate of zoning compliance shall be acted upon by the Zoning Administrator within a period of 30 calendar days and the applicant advised thereupon as to the issuance or denial of the certificate.

8.3 Board of Appeals; Appointment

An appeal may be taken to the Board of Appeals by any officer or board of the Town, or by any person aggrieved by any order or decision of the Zoning Administrator. Such appeal may be taken within thirty days after the order or decision appealed from has been rendered.

8.4 Administrative Review by Board of Appeals

The Board of Appeals shall hear and decide appeals where it is alleged that the applicant is aggrieved by any order, requirement, decision or determination made by the Zoning Administrator in the enforcement of this by-law or by the applicant's inability to obtain a permit pursuant to Section 13 of the Zoning Enabling Act.

8.5 Special Exceptions by Board of Appeals; Conditions; Procedures

The Board of Appeals shall hear and decide only such special exceptions as are specifically authorized by the terms of this by-law. The Board may grant special exceptions only where such conditions and safeguards as required by this by-law have been made, and only after a determination that such grant would promote the public health, safety, welfare, comfort or convenience of the community. A special exception shall not be granted by the Board of Appeals unless and until:

8.51 A written application for a special exception is submitted indicating the specific section of this by-law under which the special exception is sought and stating the grounds on which it is requested;

8.52 The Board of Appeals has made written findings certifying compliance with the specific provisions of this by-law governing the exception and that satisfactory provision and arrangement has been made covering the following where applicable:

(a) Ingress and egress to property and proposed structures thereon with particular reference to automotive and pedestrian safety and convenience, traffic flow and control and access in case of fire or catastrophe;

(b) Off-Street parking and loading areas where required with particular attention to the items in paragraph (a) and the economic, noise, glare, or odor effects of the special exception on adjoining properties and properties generally in the district;

8.6 Variances; Conditions Governing Applications; Procedures

The Board of Appeals may grant variances as authorized by Section 15 Continued on next Page

A variance from the terms or any law shall not be granted by the Board of Appeals to allow a use not permissible under the terms of this by-law in the district involved, or to allow any use expressly or by implication prohibited by the terms of this by-law in said district. The non-conforming use of other lands, structures or buildings in the same district nor non-conforming uses of lands, structures or buildings in other districts shall not be considered as grounds for a variance.

8.7 Site Plan Review; Findings; Procedures

The Board of Appeals shall review preliminary site plans for developments prior to approval of applications for special permits in certain cases specified in Section 4 (designated Yes in the Table of Use Regulations); to make findings and determinations in regard to such cases in conformity with sub-section 8.52 of this by-law. In such cases, a special permit shall be issued only if the Board of Appeals makes a finding and determination that the proposed placement of buildings, provisions for waste disposal, surface drainage, parking areas, driveways, and the location of intersections of driveways and streets will constitute a suitable development and will not result in substantial detriment to the neighborhood.

No building, other than a single-family dwelling, shall be erected or externally enlarged, and no area for roadways, parking, loading or open space shall be established or changed on land developed under the provisions of this section except in conformity with a preliminary site plan bearing the endorsement of approval of the Board of Appeals. No certificate of zoning compliance shall be issued for any such building or buildings, unless the same conforms in all respects to such site plan and unless all facilities included in the site plan have been in accordance therein.

8.71 A person applying for site plan review under Section 8.7 or applying for a special permit in certain cases specified in Section 4 (designated SP in the Table of Use Regulations) shall file with the Board of Appeals ten copies each of an application and a preliminary site plan, and a filing fee. Such application and site plan shall include the elements on which the Board of Appeals is to make a finding and determination, as provided in Section 8.52, and shall also include information as to the nature and extent of the proposed use of buildings, and such further information in respect to such elements and use as required in Section 6, if applicable, and as the Board of Appeals or the Planning Board shall reasonably require by rule or regulation. In subsequent applications concerning the same subject matter, the Board may waive the filing of plans and documents to the extent they duplicate those previously filed.

8.72 The Board of Appeals shall within three days (Saturdays, Sundays and holidays excluded) of receipt of them transmit to the Conservation Commission and Planning Board two copies of the above application and site plan. The Planning Board and Conservation Commission shall consider the same and submit a final report thereon with recommendations to the Board of Appeals. The Conservation Commission shall review the application with particular reference to the provisions of the Wetlands Protection Act - Chapter 131 - Section 40 and shall recommend as to the advisability of granting the special permit and as to any restrictions which should be imposed upon the development as a condition of such permit. The Board of Appeals shall not make a finding and determination upon an application until it has received the final report of the Planning Board and/or Conservation Commission thereon or until thirty days shall have elapsed since the transmittal of said copies of the application and site plan to the Planning Board and Conservation Commission without such report being submitted. The period within which final action shall be taken may be extended for a definite period, but not more than ninety days by mutual consent of the Board of Appeals and the applicant.

8.73 The Board of Appeals shall hold a public hearing, and, except as hereinafter provided, shall take final action within sixty days after the date of the filing of such application with said Board of Appeals. Such final action shall consist of either:

(a) A finding and determination that the proposed construction, reconstruction, substantial exterior alteration, or addition will constitute a suitable development and will not result in substantial detriment to the neighborhood; or

(b) A written denial of the application for such finding and determination, stating the reasons for such denial, which reasons shall include a statement of the respect in which any elements in and particular features of the proposal are deemed by the Board to be unsuitable or detrimental to the neighborhood.

(c) A finding and determination may be made subject to such reasonable conditions, modifications and restrictions set forth therein as the Board may deem necessary to ensure that the proposed construction, reconstruction, substantial exterior alteration, or addition will constitute a suitable development and will not result in substantial detriment to the neighborhood.

(d) In the event that the Board of Appeals approves a special permit under these provisions, any construction, reconstruction, substantial exterior alteration, or addition shall be carried on only in conformity with any conditions, modifications and restrictions subject to which the Board shall have made its findings and determination, and only in conformity with the application and site plan on the basis of which the finding and determination are made.

8.8 All questions of interpretation and enforcement shall be first presented to the Zoning Administrator. Such questions shall be presented to the Board of Appeals only on appeal from the decisions of the Zoning Administrator. Said decision shall be forthcoming from the Zoning Administrator within a period of 30 calendar days after their submission.

A Squad Loses To Burlington 19-13

The Winchester "A" squad of Pop Warner football traveled to Burlington last Sunday where they ran into a stubborn Red Devil squad.

Though the Wee Sachems lost 19 to 13, they showed poise by scoring two second half touchdowns.

The first half was disaster for the Sachems as they fumbled four times giving Burlington good field position on the defensive side. The Sachems were baffled by the strong runners from Burlington, who scored two touchdowns in the first quarter. The third and final score for Burlington came on an interception by the middle line backer who jaunted in for the score. The score at the end of the first half was 19 to 0 in favor of Burlington.

The second half proved to be a different game as the Sachems, led by co-captain Sam Bellino and Don Allard, scored two touchdowns on drives off 50 and 65 yards.

The first score came on a blast with Dave Doucette barreling over the score. Don Allard then threw a sharp pass to Sam Bellino for the extra point. The second score came on a 35 yard pass from Don Allard Peter Mascoli who made a spectacular catch. The extra point failed leaving the final score Burlington 19 and Winchester 13.

Standouts for the Sachems were Don

Allard, Sam Bellino, Dave Doucette, Jim Peluso and Larry Bellino who almost single handedly stopped the Burlington offense in the second half.

The Sachems travel to Wakefield next Sunday. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

'B' Team Wins Opener By 12-0

The Winchester "B" team of Pop Warner football won their season opener by beating Burlington 12 to 0. The first half showed a defensive game with both teams battling between the 40's. In the second half, the Sachems proved to Burlington who was the stronger. Starting on their own 15-yard line the Sachems, marched up the field with strong running from Dave Downing, Calvin Hill and Billy Rogers.

John Barcus then raced into the end zone for the score. The extra point failed.

Burlington received the kick-off but got nowhere due to the strong play of Dave Deshler and Steve Mangano. Burlington then had to kick and put Winchester in good field position. Once again the Sachems pounded their way down to the Burlington goal line where Dave Downing bowled his way over the goal line. The extra point failed.

Over all it was a good showing by the junior Wee Sachems. They now will prepare for a tough Wakefield squad next Sunday at Wakefield High School at 12:30 p.m.

Tennis Tournament Begins Saturday

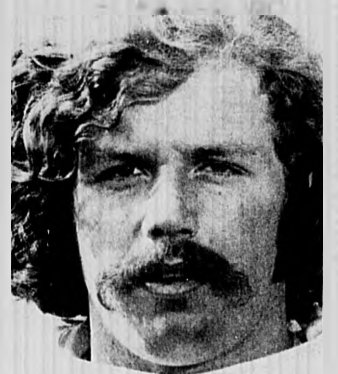

The annual Winchester Town Tennis Tournament will play its initial rounds this coming weekend at the Packer Courts on Palmer st. under the sponsorship of the Winchester Tennis Association.

Donald S. Ellis, 9 Madison ave., and James R. Stewart Jr., 7 Winslow rd., are the co-chairmen for the five events: men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles, with the finals scheduled for Sept. 23.

Ellis and Stewart said all participants should be at the courts at the beginning times scheduled for the first and all succeeding rounds. They point out there is a 15-minute default rule set out in the application blanks that will be adhered to for fairness and to maintain the steady action.

The committee held a draw for first round matches and committee members have been assigned tours of duty at the manning board to take care of all contingencies regarding the five events.

Especially selected younger players have been assigned duties as ballboys and ballgirls for the final matches.

VARSITY FOOTBALL - Ben Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dolan of Winchester is among 90 players participating in the University of Rhode Island varsity football practice. A 6'1", 217-pound sophomore tight end, he is in double practice sessions prior to games against Cornell University and Northeastern University.

By Martha Hamilton

A full round of activities over the Labor Day weekend brought the Winchester Boat Club's season to an official end.

The first Bantam regatta for juniors began the three-day celebration with morning races on both Saturday and Sunday for the 22 participants. Boat assignments, as well as matching of skipper and crew, were drawn by lot each day. Individual point scores were tabulated from the three races with trophies awarded to the winners as follows:

1. Tom Girard; 2. Kathy Buckley; 3. Jack McInnis; 4. John Hamilton.

The regatta committee, Prep Keyes and Arthur Gast, hope to repeat the well-received event.

Twenty skippers entered the traditional Labor Day turnabout regatta to try for the Dillon Cup. The three-race event was won by Charles Quigley of Arlington. Second place was won by George Dillon, turnabout fleet captain; while Jim Girard finished third.

The Snipe regatta planned by Norm Towle included fun and handicap races for the 16 boats entered. First place went to Louis Law and his wife, Margaret; second place to Jack McInnis and his sister, Kathleen; with third place awarded to Eric Freeman and his brother, Chris.

Labor Day festivities planned by vice-commander Ralph Swanson began with children's land games, proceeded to model boat and swim races, and concluded with a lobster bake followed by a family movie.

Please check The Star next week for the results of the Team-of-Four Championship with the Winchester Star Challenge Bowl the gleaming prize for member teams.

Team play, the format used in international competition, is a different challenge for the duplicate player. On any one hand, your teammates will play your opponents' teammates, but with the hands in the opposite direction; in short, you play one team on each hand, not the field.

★ Workshop

of the work coming out of the summer workshop covering reading, English, mathematics, science, social studies, physical education and history. Committee member Stephen Parkhurst, referring to Gleason's 65-70 percent use estimate, asked, "What about the other 30 percent?"

Gleason responded by pointing out that "only 40 percent of the curricula is specified." Goals are set up, he explained, but if teachers and students can reach goals without the materials, that's good. Teachers can use other methods, he said.

"In some areas we are not as specific as we hope to be eventually," Gleason said, "but in my experience I have found that people in Winchester follow curricula more than in other schools."

In the social studies department, Gleason pointed out that beginning this year all ninth grade students will have the opportunity to take ancient history, which has not been the situation in previous years. He told the group new people have been added in fine arts with the addition of new electives in music and art. Committee member Richard Pharo asked if the scope and sequence charts "stifle teachers' creativity."

"No, because we are trying to provide wide variety of approaches," Gleason replied. He explained, "People have differences so we try to encourage use of these differences both in the learning and teaching approaches to goals. Though we're still limited in our options, there's a wide variety in Winchester," Gleason noted.

Celebrations

School committee chairman Harriet Dieterich and vice-chairman Mary Mears reported on progress of a sub-committee studying Winchester's approach to celebrating Christmas in the town's schools. Mrs. Dieterich said the committee agreed it "is good to have performing programs but they should be done as a result of programs of study." In other words, she said, "they should be tied to other Christmas and should include variety such as showing different social and religious backgrounds."

Mrs. Mears addressed what she called a misconception that Christmas programs "take a lot of time away from regular classwork." Mrs. Mears, in her talking with music specialists, found this is not the case. Mrs. Mears told committee members the sub-committee agreed that programs should attempt to please everyone and not be offensive to any group. She asked committee associates to offer their thoughts before the next meeting, Sept. 24.

Grade 3-4 Bulges

Henry Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, reported a critical situation in the third and fourth grades at the Muraco and Wyman Schools due to over-enrollment and asked the committee to approve hiring a half-time teacher at the Muraco School and a full-time teaching assistant at Wyman School.

After justifying the need and showing that transfer of teachers or children would not rectify the situation, the committee gave authority, "to be ratified at a subsequent meeting."

Perry reported that school started this year without an elementary art specialist. Though interviews of candidates has been taking place, a decision has not as yet been made. The committee gave Perry and MacDonald authority to hire a teacher before the next meeting, at which time such action would be ratified. Perry noted the school budget allows for the hiring of the art teacher and the two teachers needed for the third and fourth grade bulges.

Station Wagon

Concerning the justification of purchasing a new station wagon to be used by school maintenance personnel, the committee decided to take another look at present use of maintenance vehicles, scheduling, and the question of whether a truck might be more practical.

In view of this decision, the bid estimate from Bonnell Motors for a new station wagon for $3,860, with a trade-in of $300 (the latter being too little in the eyes of the school administration) was put aside for further study.

The committee awarded the driver education program contract to Middlesex Auto School, 885 Main St., as low bidder at $47 rate per pupil. Middlesex was formerly employed to teach driver education in Winchester until outbid due to costs by Crescent Auto School of Stoneham. Supt. MacDonald reported that Crescent's performance has been satisfactory. The vote by the School Committee appeared to be based on costs though safety, reported to be equal by both firms, was brought into the discussion.

McCall Parking

MacDonald reported on parking problems in the vicinity of the new McCall Junior High, the new Lincoln School and the nearby grounds holding portable classrooms. In the interest of safety to younger children now in the area, and also snow removal, McCall Principal Joseph Forte is taking steps to restrict parking on school grounds and adjacent streets to school personnel and bona fide visitors.

After discussion of enforcement and possible "ruffled feathers," the committee voted unanimously to support Forte and his efforts.

was recognized by the school committee as bargaining agent.

Faced with a possible collapse of the program without teachers, the administration immediately turned to alternative staffing from outside sources in an effort to save the new program for the 175 students to which the district had made a commitment. This was followed by an emergency meeting of the district school committee on the night of Sept. 5, and, according to Donahoe, meetings are continuing.

Donahoe, who is all for the extended day program, feels that the district school committee should adopt a "fair share plan," meaning that towns pay according to the number of students who participate.

"If Winchester does not send students," the way it stands now, "they still pay the freight." Donahoe says he told the district school committee that if this situation is not changed he "would take them to court." Three students from Winchester have applied for the afternoon program, Donahoe said.

In his report to the Winchester School Committee, Donahoe said this is the first year that Winchester has filled its quota and in fact "there are four on the waiting list."

Donahoe spoke of some of his disappointments and pleasures since joining the committee. Disappointments have included the observation that members of the district school committee either seldom turn up at meetings or appear "to have political aspirations" which get in the way of the decision making. He alluded to the political situation as "centering around Wakefield", one of the towns in the region.

Donahoe said he was displeased when a one-year contract was awarded to the Flore Bus Company in Saugus rather than a three-year contract to the Mass Bus Company for three years, which Donahoe says will end up costing taxpayers more over a three year period.

He told the Winchester School Committee that when he joined the district school committee he discovered that bid awards were advertised in Chelsea, Wakefield, Malden and Boston papers but not in Winchester. Because he was vocal in his objections, this situation has now been changed.

On the positive side he said the district school committee has approved and begun a shop safety program and has plans to revise the date processing department.

The school also has a new "house project" calling for 10 students to build a house in Stoneham. "The foundation has been poured" and students are going to do all the interior work including plumbing. The house should be completed in June, he noted.

Building Permits

Seven building permits were issued by the Building Department of the Town of Winchester for the week ending Sept. 7, as follows:

Addition: 7 Penn Rd.
Alterations: 188 Cambridge St.
Demolition: 274 Cross St.
Reshingling: 700 Washington St., 8 West Chardon Rd.
Sign: 167 Washington St.
Swimming Pool: 4 Westgate Rd.

Appointed

On the recommendation of Fire Chief I. Francis Amico, selectmen recently approved the appointment of Michael A. Beaton, 18, to the Winchester Auxiliary Fire Department. A graduate of Winchester High School, he lives at 69 Cambridge St.

BURGLAR-PROOF SLIDING DOORS

Burglaries always increase during vacation periods when the homeowner is away. One of the favorite access is via the sliding glass door. Today's standard hardware for locking sliding doors is pretty flimsy and even an amateur will have no trouble in gaining entrance. But here's how you can outwit the culprit.

Cut a length of dowel (or broom handle) the right length and lay it in the track between the door and the opposite jamb. No way that sliding door can be slid without removing this wedge.

The groove at the top is twice as deep as the one on the bottom for easy removal. Fill this by cutting a piece of wood slightly less thick than the depth of the lower groove. Screw it into the upper groove, over the door when it's in locked position. Now the door can't be lifted out unless it is opened all the way.

ASSEMBLERS

P.C. BOARDS

A lot of companies are advertising for assemblers. So are we. But before you answer an ad or accept a job ask yourself a few questions.

Is the pay and advancement good?
Is it near home? (No 128 travel, etc.)
Are the benefits really good? (Blue Cross, etc.)
Is the company solid and growing, so the work is steady?

Is it a friendly GOOD clean air conditioned place to work with small groups on a variety of products?
With us these answers are all Yes and we believe these Yes answers are the important ones for you.

If you agree let's get together and talk about the few openings we now have.
Both of us may be glad you did. Experience in assembly on bonding preferred but we have a couple of trained openings also.

National Plan Provides School Lunches For All

The Winchester Public Schools has announced a free and reduced price, under the National School Lunch program for children who are unable to pay the full price for meals served in schools.

Local school officials have adopted family size-income criteria for use in determining eligibility. (See box accompanying article.)

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown are eligible for meals free or at reduced prices. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home with a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility only. Applications may be submitted anytime during the school year. In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced price meals regardless of your family income. If you have such children living with you and wish to

Sachem Teams Grid For Year

By John F. Parrell

With school classes in full swing, athletically inclined students are busily engaged in preparing for a full schedule of athletic events at Winchester High School. Football, soccer and cross country teams will take care of the interest of the boys, while the girls will be involved with field hockey and swimming.

Football

Coach Manny Marshall and his assistants have been working with a squad of close to 90 boys for nearly three weeks. There have been two scrimmages, one with Somerville last Wednesday, and another with Chelmsford on Saturday afternoon. The final pre-season encounter will be with Wayland next Saturday morning.

This will be a full practice game, with a similar workout for sophomores to be held on the side field. Spectators are welcome to see the action and get an idea of how the team shapes up for the rugged Middlesex League schedule, which opens with a trip to Melrose on the afternoon of Sept. 22.

The Winchester 11 has progressed well, but there is still much work to be done to perfect the new offensive and defensive maneuvers. To date the offense has developed somewhat slower than the defense because it involves a necessity for coordination of the blocking and the running.

Tim Porter, rangy end and basketball player of last year, has been shifted to the backfield in order to provide more weight and blocking in that department. Mike Heffernan is at the signal calling berth for the third year, and running backs tri-captain Rudy Fiore and Tony Palumbo have been doing the bulk of the ball carrying.

The Somerville scrimmage found the Sachems having much the better of the affair. Although each team tallied only once while on the attack, the Marshall clan showed more consistency with their ground game. Somerville tallied on a long desperation pass. The visitors were very ragged on defense, and if penalties had been assessed as called they would have come to a total of well over 200 yards for the free swinging gridgers from Dilboy Field.

Winchester's defensive alignment was very effective and stopped the Somerville running attack cold. They also nailed the passer on several occasions. As things appear at this writing the Sachems will be very tough to score against. Their eventual record will probably depend on just how well the attack develops, but it seems that their nine opponents will find the Sachem goal line difficult to cross.

Early workouts found few injuries other than early season aches and pains. However, virus attacks and aggravated injuries began to appear last week. The coaches are hoping that these will clear up in time for the opener a week from Saturday.

There have been few surprises in the starting offensive and defensive alignments, but some newcomers have flashed signs of real future ability. The workout with Wayland should go a long way in determining the final squad status of these new players. Chelmsford found the Winchester running game hard to stop, but they eventually found the solution by packing their forward line on defense. Heffernan took to the air with short passes, but all too many of them were incomplete due to lack of sure handed receivers. The workout was beneficial to both teams, with the locals holding an edge in the scoring.

Cross Country

Coach Joe Cantillon has been working with a small but interested squad of cross country runners. This sport has had several lean seasons in recent years, but the new mentor, himself an ardent devotee of the sport, hopes to raise the team from the doldrums. The first two meets will be at home as Wakefield comes here a week from tomorrow and Burlington will run here on Tues., Sept. 25.

Girls Swimming

Coach Vin Palumbo and his assistant, Joe Grant, have carded the first workout for the girls' swimming team for Sunday morning at 10 at the Arlington Boys' Club pool. An attractive schedule of interscholastic competition has been arranged. The schedule includes the following meets:

Oct. 10 at Cambridge Latin
Oct. 17 at Brookline
Oct. 19 at Lynn, 3:15
Oct. 24 at Medford
Oct. 26 at Newton North
Oct. 28 Lexington at Arlington Boys' Club, 10 a.m.

Nov. 2 at Belmont

All meets start at 3:30 except as noted.

Girls' Field Hockey

The aspirants for the field hockey team are working out under Coach Bette Crowley and will open their season on Sept. 27. They will go to Stoneham to collide with the Spartannes.

Skull Session

Dust Still Stirring On Chapin Street

A long-swinging dispute between two land holders on dusty Chapin street off Swanton street appeared this week to be about to blow again.

Deanna J. Mele of 149 Swanton st. appeared before the Board of Selectmen to seek a solution to what she considers a grave problem, one injurious to her mother's health; the parking of vehicles on Chapin street, a private way.

Miss Mele has been seeking a solution to cars and trucks parking there from various town boards without success. Her mother's house is next to Ronzio's Garage, a trucking and repair facility.

Miss Mele says Ronzio's vehicles illegally park there and Arthur E. Dunbar, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, this week confirmed Miss Mele's complaint that on Aug. 23 there was a car parked there.

The Mele house is at the corner and Miss Mele says she owns up to the middle of the street and Ronzio's cars park on her property. Dunbar said he went to the police station Aug. 23 and was told "as long as the plate on the car is validated the car can be on the street."

Miss Mele says the car had no plates on it at one point and when a police officer at her request investigated Ronzio admitted ownership of the car and placed a repair plate on the car. Dunbar says the car was left there all night and removed in the morning.

Nicholas Ronzio told The Star he has been in and out of court with the Meles three times and each time "the court has thrown her out." He says no one owns the street, the police have no jurisdiction and the fire and police chiefs "have been here and see nothing wrong whatsoever."

He said his land, which the Meles sold to him, is zoned heavy industrial and "I do nothing against the law. If I want to park my car there, I can. I bother nobody. I have no words with them."

Miss Mele told the selectmen the state has a statute that says no land or building can be used that would be injurious to the health and safety of the public.

Selectman Lawrence T. Smith wondered if the matter should go to the Board of Appeal, which originally approved the permit allowing Ronzio to locate on Chapin street.

Selectman William G.B. Chapman Jr. commented: "It is most difficult to adjudicate. What is the health and safety? Who is the general public?" Miss Mele showed The Star a copy of a letter she recently received from Board of Appeal chairman Frederick D. Herberich in regard to the matter:

"We did not respond to your earlier letter because the Board of Appeal has absolutely no authority whatever, either under the Winchester zoning by-law or zoning enabling

Gym Use: 'Do What You Want'

Bring your sneakers to the new Winchester High School on Saturday at 9 a.m. and do whatever you want to.

That's when the School Committee's program to open the schools for community use begins.

The gymnasium will be open from 9 in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening on Saturdays and from one o'clock in the afternoon until 7 o'clock in the evening on Sundays.

The gymnasium will also be open every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening, from 6:30 until 9:30. Evening gym programs are for persons 18 years of age and older. Saturday and Sunday sessions are for anyone over 15 years of age.

That is the schedule for the fall, in effect until Dec. 1.

According to Francis Lane, who is heading the School Committee's program opening the schools to community use, how the gymnasium will be used will depend on participants.

At the outset all you need do is come. There will be set-ups for basketball, volleyball, badminton, weight lifting, handball and free exercise. You can do whatever you want.

"The only exception to this is in the evenings," he said from 6:30 to 6:50 has been set aside for joggers only. "So if you want to jog after supper, be at the gym at 6:30."

Lane wants to remind those who have an interest in using the gym that membership cards must be obtained. They can be picked up at the gym after proof of residency is shown. "This card must be shown each time that the gym is used."

"There will be a token fee of 50 cents daily for adults and 25 cents daily for youths. This money will help to cover some of the operating expenses."

For the fall session, the gym will be to completely open to individuals; there will be no leagues formed or times scheduled for group use. "If there is an interest in forming basketball leagues, running handball championships, etc., this can be done during the winter session."

There will be no shower room facilities, lockers or towels available. Only the gym itself will be open. The entrance to the gym will be from the back doors near the new playing fields. Lane said only these doors may be used and no section of the new high school other than the gym may be entered.

Teens Share Feelings On Alcoholic Parents

By Pauline Dishmon

Terry (the name is anonymous but the situation is true) is a local teenager whose father is an alcoholic.

The parent is able to hold down his daily job but comes home late every night inebriated and full of anger, sometimes acting violently toward his several children. Terry is tired of living this way, ashamed that friends know of the parent's drinking problem and that the police have been called on several occasions, but still manages to stand tall and straight remembering times when the parent didn't drink.

Do you have a parent or close friend who is an alcoholic? Are you married to an alcoholic?

If the answer is yes, you are not alone. There are others in Winchester in a similar situation. Some go about their daily business quietly, hoping for a miracle. Others take steps to learn about alcoholism and how to deal with it.

There are two groups in Winchester to help family members and friends of alcoholics. Al-Anon is an organization for adults, generally spouses of alcoholics, who meet Friday nights at 8:30 at the parish of the Epiphany Church. According to a member of the group there are from 20 to 45 Winchester residents and others who attend these frequently or regularly.

Alateen is a group for teenagers, usually children of an alcoholic, who meet Monday evenings at 7:30 in the Forum Room of the First Congregational Church. Alateens seek to exchange experiences and gain an understanding of themselves and the alcoholic with whom they live or associate.

The first meeting of the local Alateen group was held Monday with five teenagers and three Al-Anon members present. Future meetings will be led by the youths themselves, but to help them get started, Al-Anon members conducted the first session similar to an Al-Anon meeting. One of the adults opened the meeting with the prayer of serenity asking:

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change; the courage to change the things I can; and the wisdom to know the difference."

After the youths introduced themselves by giving their first names only, the Al-Anon leader began talking about alcohol and the victims of the disease. "It is like no other disease because it affects emotionally not only the victim, but all who are in contact with him or her, and can progress over a long period of time before the patient seeks help."

The leader spoke of alcoholism as affecting the mental, physical and spiritual (loss of values) state of the alcoholic and likened it to other diseases. "If a person discovers he has diabetes, his family must accept this fact and deal with it, she noted, pointing out that "members of the family must seek help even if the one with the disease does not seek help. This is when things begin to change," she added.

"Often the alcoholic will blame other family members for his or her problem," the leader said, "but this is a self-inflicted disease for which there is help. Nothing gets a drinker drunk but booze," she noted.

Another of the Al-Anon members told the youths that even though there is still heavy drinking in her home, during the past few months she has seen a change. "Al-Anon has helped me begin to change my life," she said. Though Alateen is new to Winchester, it is not new to two of the teenagers present at the recent initial meeting. They have been attending Alateen sessions in a nearby town and decided they wanted to begin one locally. The parent of one has been sober for more than two years while the parent of the other is still drinking and is unaware that his child is seeking outside help.

One recalls the first Alateen meeting she attended. "I stood outside the place for 20 minutes. I wanted to go in and yet couldn't do it. Finally someone came out and invited us in." Inside, she explained, she found other kids with the same problem. "It gave me a feeling that I was with kids who understood."

As the discussion moved along one of the teens said she didn't know "what she was doing wrong" to "make her parent drink."

"You aren't doing anything wrong, the Al-Anon leader responded. "There's no reason why you can't hold your head high. Remember you're only responsible for yourself."

Talk evolved around a possible advantage for a child to have drinking parents who allowed them to say out loud. Those present who spoke to the question said they would rather have a sober parent who kept them in every night than to feel "he doesn't give a damn whether I come home or not."

The teens in attendance appeared to feel comfortable. Some spoke a lot, others said a little, and one said nothing. Both Alateen and Al-Anon meetings allow those who participate to be themselves believing "one's serenity is the most important goal."

The youths discussed the violent parent feelings when the police arrive to take a parent to jail, and attitudes of peers toward them because of having a drinking parent.

The Al-Anon leader told the youths about some of the Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon slogans which provided strength to members in times of stress. "Live and let live" is a phrase one can latch onto to practice detachment. "It's difficult to do," said one of the adults, "but you must remember this is not your problem."

Other slogans include "Easy does it," "Let go and let God," "First things first," "Take each day as it comes," "Every moment is fresh," and from the Bible "this too will pass." As time goes on, the youths may want

All Gas Stations Close, Then Open

About half of Winchester's filling stations reopened early yesterday morning following an order from the court restraining station owners from continuing their statewide strike.

The attitude in Winchester appeared to be wait and see what the other fellow does. Later in the morning most of the stations had reopened.

Station owners expressed considerable anger over the court injunction which had been obtained by Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn. "Something has to be done," was the comment of several owners.

Some station owners said they are losing money by remaining open. Shell station on Main street said it's losing $200 to $300 a week. Owners were split over the effectiveness of the short-lived strike. One said, "I think some good came of it," another, "I don't think the protest will get off the ground."

Richard Puleo of the Exxon Station at the corner of Main and Park st. feels the court order unfair. Small stations have been "caught in the squeeze between government and the big oil companies," he said. He explains the government made us roll back to the January price and the oil companies charge us a penny extra "so we've lost two cents." He said "we can't afford to keep this up," charging his station is losing about $600 a month. The one day strike, he feels, has at least caused some "public awareness."

All Winchester gasoline stations closed Tuesday, joining the statewide three-day service station strike against the failure of the Federal Emergency Court of Appeals to lift Nixon administration gasoline price ceilings.

All but two of Winchester's gasoline stations closed early Tuesday morning. Later in the morning the Old Colony and Turner Sunoco stations on Main street shut down after workers from the closed stations staged protests at Old Colony and Sunoco.

The workers blocked the entrances to the stations in an attempt to prevent customers from reaching the pumps. Words were exchanged and police called to keep the workers clear of the station entrances.

Cars were lined up on both sides of Main street—Sunoco and Old Colony face each other—as customers waited to enter. Through traffic on Main street moved slowly and was blocked for a time.

Police attempted to break up the long waiting lines blocking traffic by threatening to give tickets. But as one customer said, "These guys (police) must be out of their minds if they think I won't take a $2 citation. I've got to get to work and I need gas to do it."

Before Old Colony and Sunoco did close, police were handing out traffic tickets to drivers of cars idling on Main street.

According to George Cross, manager of Old Colony, the picketing dealers used abusive language, sat on cars and tossed a beer bottle at Harold Turner.

Those same dealers, Cross said, may not realize it but "they were blocking their own customers."

Cross said one dealer asked him, "Why aren't you closed?" "I can't," he responded, explaining that he is only a station manager and has no authority to close. That decision must come from the main Old Colony office, he said. The closed dealers felt those remaining open would hurt their efforts.

When the commotion caused by the other dealers did not desist, Cross called the police "to protect station personnel and customers." With police on hand, Cross said he pumped $650 worth of gas in three hours. He closed when permission came from the main office.

He said because of a similar disturbance in Marlborough, the Old Colony station there also closed. Since his closing he has been sending customers to the Burlington and Reading stations, which were scheduled to close on Wednesday.

Cross and Turner say they don't know what is the right way to deal with the gasoline problem, but both feel the strike was not the way to solve it. Turner, who said he found most of the Tuesday morning customers appeared to know nothing about the strike and were worried about going to work, said he would go along with the strike for three days.

Many dealers who closed after the Monday night decision doubted the action would do much good. Elliott Eason of Keenan's Citgo Service Station on Swanton st. said he felt "it should be worked out at higher levels in Washington."

Ken Binding of Ken's Mobil Service Station at 641 Main st. said he will remain closed to gas customers "until we can go up on our price."

He said most of his customers "agree with us" and many said "they are going to call their congressmen" in support of the action. Nick Tierno of the Theatre Mobil station at 643 Main st. found that most of his customers "don't seem to understand." He said when

Town To Be Air Sprayed

An airplane hired by the state Department of Public Health will be spraying Winchester and surrounding communities this week in an effort to control encephalitis.

What day the town will be sprayed depends on weather conditions, according to Dr. Lawrence J. Quigley Jr., Chairman of the Board of Health. The local Board of Health last week granted the state permission to spray the town.

The spraying program is aimed at killing mosquitoes thought to have infected sparrows and pheasants in eastern Massachusetts communities. Lexington had a case of an infected pheasant, Dr. Quigley said.

A sudden frost, he said, will eliminate the need for any further spraying. The chemical used is malathion. It is not considered dangerous to human, Varktes K. Karaian of the health board said.

Railed

Car of Margaret E. Morgan of Westland ave. went through the fence on Main st. across from the Dairy Barn Saturday morning, rolled down steep embankment and along the tracks for several hundred feet. The gas pedal was stuck. Driver was not injured. From left: Lt. Andrew Crawford, Chief Edward F. Bowler, Sgt. Donald Piggott.

Dog Owners, Beware! Follow Leash Law

By Kay Cardin

It's that time again. Schools are open and dogs are following children to school. Winchester's leash law does not permit dogs to roam between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Remember many towns now have a 24-hour leash law. Dog owners, let's not spoil a good thing by abusing the present law. Most especially, do not allow dogs to accompany children to school.

Dog Officer Dominic Molea reports he has received several calls about dogs in various school yards since opening day. No longer will Molea pick up the animal and return it to owners' doors. Residents will be called to retrieve dogs themselves, under penalty of the law.

For the sake of children, pets and owners, dogs should be carefully restrained, particularly during the hours when children are going back and forth to school. One beloved family pet has already been killed since school started. She followed the children; a child threw a ball, and as the dog dashed into the street to retrieve it, she was killed by a car. "Heather" lived in Woburn, but it could well happen in Winchester.

Lombard Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lombard Jr. (Barbara Doane) of Woburn are parents of their third child, second daughter, born Sept. 9 at Winchester Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lawn of 135 High St. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lombard of Woburn.

Wolfe Brothers In U-Mass Win

Sophomore Bob Wolfe and his older brother Bill were prominent in the victory of the University of Massachusetts over Villanova recently. The final score was 21-20, and the win came on some heroics by the former Winchester High players.

Bob, who has been splitting a running back spot with Jerry Mondalto, found himself playing the whole game when the latter was injured on the second play. He carried 19 times for 32 yards and caught two passes for a total of 31 yards.

With Villanova in front by 20-12 and two minutes left to play, the Massachusetts team was faced with a fourth and 15 situation. An observer in the press box suggested a play to head coach Dick MacPherson which called for Bob to run in a delayed pass pattern. He took the heave at the five yard line for a 22-yard gain and a first down.

Bob carried twice, but the Villanova line was unyielding. Then quarterback Fred Kellher threw to Bill Wolfe in the end zone to make the score Villanova 20, University of Massachusetts 19. The try for the vital extra points was made on an identical play, and once again Bill snagged it to send Villanova down to defeat.

Yes, it surely was a big day for the Wolfe family, since Bill had six completions for 76 yards to add to Bob's contributions for a grand total of 139 yards, but the big moment came on the game winning touchdown and points.

The fourth annual horse show, sponsored by the Greek Orthodox Community of Woburn, will be held Sunday at the Middlesex County 4-H grounds in Westford beginning at 9 a.m. rain or shine.

NOW

The NOW is in Winchester. N.O.W. stands for Negotiable Order to Withdraw. A check is a negotiable order to withdraw, too, and in most respects, a NOW is like a personal check. It even looks like one.

There's only one major difference: A NOW withdraws from a savings account; a check withdraws from a checking account. We feel the money you keep in your savings account should be just as accessible to you, when and where you want it, as the money you're used to keeping in a checking account. After all, it is your money. So we're making the NOW available to do just that. In the process, you get our full savings account interest rate on your money, compounded as usual, until the minute you want to use it.

It's as simple as that. You use a NOW just like a check; you get savings account interest.

However, we don't recommend a NOW account for everyone. We don't recommend a NOW account for the person who has a lot of activity on his account, or who doesn't have a good-size balance in his account. It just wouldn't be profitable for that person to have a NOW account.

But, if for example, one keeps a monthly average balance of $1,000 in his account, he could write over 25 drafts a month and still "make money;" the interest earned would more than offset the 15¢ charge per draft.

The NOW Savings Account is a no-passbook account. To initiate, you simply sign signature cards and make an opening deposit. You will be provided with an interim supply of NOW's that you may use until you receive your fully imprinted order. The imprinting of Name and Address involves a minimal charge. NOW's are available in three styles... wallet, end-stub, desk style, and you may have your choice of colors. A minimum balance of $10. is required at all times. There is a normal charge for a stop payment order or any NOW returned for insufficient or uncollected funds. The Depositor is charged 15¢ for each NOW processed, and will receive monthly activity statements of account. Interest is compounded and credited exactly as our regular savings accounts at the full savings account rate.

Hospital Gets Accreditation Certificate

Winchester Hospital's pathology laboratory, under the direction of George W. Evans, MD, has been awarded a certificate of accreditation by the College of American Pathologists, a medical specialty organization of more than 5,000 pathologists.

According to W. J. Reals, MD, president of the College, Winchester Hospital, in receiving its second two-year certification, has successfully met the college's standards of laboratory performance and the criteria of an intensive on-site inspection by an examiner of the college.

"This accreditation reflects credit on the hospital and assures patients and physicians of the accuracy and precision of the laboratory's services," Reals emphasized.

The inspection and accreditation program of the Chicago-based college is recognized as one of the most outstanding medical peer evaluation systems in the world. Its goal is to promote the best possible laboratory performance through a program which examines and evaluates all phases of a laboratory's operation.

Republican Women Give Civil War Book To Library

The Women's Republican Club of Winchester has purchased a two-volume set of "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years" by Carl Sandburg as a gift to the Winchester High School Library.

Reported to be "high on the wanted list," the books are expected to be especially useful in the social studies department and for use by students doing research for the annual Edgar Rich contest, according to the high school librarian.

With the book presentation, the Women's Republican Club of Winchester has joined many other women's Republican groups throughout the nation in supporting the Mamie Eisenhower Library Project. The idea originated in California to honor Mrs. Eisenhower.

A national committee was established to offer a list of books reflecting Republican philosophy and beliefs as well as presenting outstanding Republican personalities. In the past year and a half approximately 1,000 books have been donated by Republican women's clubs throughout the United States.

'Noah's Ark' In Rehearsals

More than 70 young would-be actors and actresses crowded the Winchester Public Library meeting room two days last week to sign up for Winchester's revived Children's Theatre.

Under the direction of Carlene Samoiloff, who with Mary Witham and Marjory Todd was responsible for a series of children's productions between 1956 and 1965, the group plans to present their new production of "Noah's Ark" on Dec. 14-15 at the McCall Junior High School.

A non-profit making organization, the Children's Theatre is run under the auspices of the Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., organized in 1956. Its aim is to bring an experience of live children's theatre to Winchester. Tuition funds will be used to train the staff and pay for scenery units for the new McCall Junior High School stage.

Rehearsals for five to seven-year-olds for acting, dance, music and painting will be conducted on Tuesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the new Lincoln School lobby, up from Main st. Eight to 13-year-olds will meet at the same place from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Young people taking part in the Children's Theatre with Mrs. Samoiloff, called "Mrs.

Sam," have traditionally generated enthusiasm for their training in acting, dance, music, and painting. The course for the season, not town-subsidized, will involve 12 weeks of training once a week for the first six weeks and twice a week for the last six weeks.

Besides Mrs. Samoiloff, who serves as president of the Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., other officers are Ralph Hatch, treasurer, and Dorothy MacDonald, executive secretary.

Members of the board of directors are Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, music and singing; Dr. Lawrence Quigley; Leo Beranek; Lavinia Wadsworth; Jeanne T. Newlin, curator of Harvard Theatre collection; Susan Cooper Grant; and Mrs. Samoiloff, acting.

Those who wish to act as sponsors for the theatre group should contact Ralph Hatch of 2 Meadowcroft rd.

Sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wadsworth, Eleanor Rich, Mrs. Richard Kadesch, Nicholas Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Grant, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. McLaughlin, C. F. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Deluca, Mr. and Mrs. John Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bassler, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Preston.

Station Debris

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As it is blatantly obvious that the Winchester railroad station has missed its second annual spring cleanup, I wonder if the parties concerned with its affairs (Richard Murphy, B & M and the Board of Selectmen) might not wish to put a little effort into attempting a fall cleanup.

How much longer do the commuters of the B&M have to walk over broken glass of varying hues, loose sand and debris entering and leaving this station?

The more I use the train the more convinced I am that the majority of people shouting for more people to use public transportation, cannot use it themselves; otherwise conditions at the stations would be more inviting and safer.

In fact, I wonder how many readers of The Star use this particular station daily and have never complained to those responsible, but have only muttered to themselves about the debris as they walk over it.

Rezoning Opposition

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing to express my personal dismay and that of my neighbors after reviewing the new zoning by-law as published in The Star. We live in a section of town containing approximately 25 homes currently zoned for 15,000 square foot lots.

Two years ago, prior to the last round of zoning hearings, a petition signed by nearly all of these homeowners was presented to the Planning Board at a regular meeting requesting that the 15,000 square foot requirement for our area be retained. The Planning Board proposal at that time called for reducing lot requirements to 10,000 square feet.

The reason for asking this change centered on the fact that there is a 3.5 acre undeveloped tract of land in the center of this area. While we did not assert that any great harm would befall us as a result of the Planning Board proposal, we did believe that the open character of our neighborhood would be altered with smaller lots.

The chairman of the Planning Board replied that while the board understood the nature of our request, they could not acquiesce as the basic plan had already been printed and the consultants were not available at that time to draw up new specifications for a 15,000 foot zone consistent with the new 10 and 20 thousand foot requirements.

Two years have passed since these events occurred, erasing the Planning Board's objections to our request, yet the so-called new plan is exactly the same, imposing 10,000 square foot zoning on our area, a 33 percent decrease in lot size.

One might conclude that we should again approach the Planning Board with our request. However, given the late date as the published plan has just become available, I am certain our reception would be the same, especially as the absence of wholesale map changes should ensure passage at the special town meeting.

Consequently, we will most certainly be rezoned. But I would like the readers of this letter to dwell for a moment on the totally unresponsive attitude of a town board in the face of a unanimous request by a segment of the town's citizens. It would be one thing if the continuance of the old zoning had a meaningful negative impact but who would be harmed?

Forgive me for answering my own question but I must also say that the owner of the open land had met with the Planning Board in the fall of 1970 complete with immediate plans to build on 10,000 square foot lots. Since defeat of the first plan, no construction has been started. Please again forgive me, this time for my suspicious nature.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Once again the question of rezoning land in the Rangleley road area to permit apartment houses is before the town. I say once again because for more than a decade an individual who purchased residentially zoned land in a residential area has been trying to have the town appreciate the value of that land by changing its zoning.

Why allow apartments in that area? Broaden the tax base? Any benefit from increased taxes is at least offset by increased services required. Help the downtown businessman? The simple reason for the decline of Winchester Center is the failure of Winchester residents to shop there. What makes anyone think the residents of the apartment house will do differently? A logical place for an apartment house? The plain fact of the matter is that this land is located in a residential area, an area that has been used residentially for over 100 years.

The drawbacks to rezoning this area are compelling. Allowing apartment houses there would encroach a long-existing residential area and destroy its rather distinct—for Winchester—geographic and ecologic integrity. It would ignore natural boundaries and extend the commercial area into prime residential area.

Further, with the limited access to Waterfield road, rezoning would add to the congestion and parking problems that anyone who has been downtown on a Saturday knows the streets of the center already face (and let those who think that rezoning this land will help the Winchester businessman think twice about that). In short, rezoning the Rangleley parcel for apartments does not even make sense from a town planning point of view.

Let us not go down the primrose path of allowing apartment houses in someone else's neighborhood. There are enough examples in Massachusetts of the effects of ill-conceived apartment house development. But let us instead recognize the attributes that have made Winchester a desirable place to live and let us preserve them.

Catherine S. Alexander
12 Ravine rd.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The special town meeting on Oct. 18 will be of great importance to the community. Winchester needs a new comprehensive zoning by-law and to a major degree that law will determine what kind of town Winchester will be in the next decade or two.

One of the more controversial items concerns zoning for apartment houses. It is felt by many that such high density housing in the center of town would both revitalize the shopping district and broaden the tax base. Several towns in Massachusetts which have preceded us in this experiment have found it to work out to their disadvantage and are now attempting to halt further apartment construction.

Whatever the merits of more apartment construction in Winchester, the subject needs to be analyzed in far greater detail than it has been so far, the rezoning of land for apartments is premature.

Especially unwarranted at this time is the rezoning of land from residential to apartment usage. Apartment developments bring a high rate of return on real estate investment compared to single family dwellings and such rezoning is strong encouragement for the speculative purchase of other residentially zoned land by commercial real estate developers.

Item 3 in the warrant for the special town meeting proposes the rezoning of an important parcel of land in the Rangleley road area from single family dwelling use to a mid-rise apartment zone (80 foot height).

This is the only significant piece of property being proposed for rezoning from residential to commercial purposes.

Contrary to the opinion expressed by the Planning Board, the property is not geographically a part of the center but was an integral part of the Ginn Estate and is still effectively separated from the town center by the railroad embankment and by land presently in public conservancy. Furthermore, several fine homes have been built on contiguous land within the past few years. When this property was purchased more than 15 years ago the owners were well aware that it was zoned for single family dwellings. Development of the land in question for single family houses would result in no financial hardship for the developers even now.

Neither the Planning Board nor the people of the town are under any obligation to appreciate the assets of any group of private investors especially when such action might have adverse consequences for the town.

Squirrel Shot

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

If you are the parent who allowed your child to walk out of the house last Sunday afternoon with an air rifle you were condoning the merciless and illegal act of paralyzing the rear end of a squirrel in the town forest.

The squirrel was probably happily eating sunflower seeds which his human neighbor had sprinkled along the wall earlier in the afternoon.

The three boys, about 16 years of age, approached within perhaps five feet and fired. They ran when they were observed. I doubt that these boys or the great majority of young people in affluent Winchester have ever known prolonged pain and suffering. If they had, more would have compunctions about acts such as this one.

Please, parents, take more time to teach your children at a very early age that even the littlest creatures feel pain and they have as much right to live a comfortable life as do humans. What is more, we humans need every little creature for our own well being, as the children will learn through the school-associated Winchester Trails program.

Jogger, Keep Mind Fit Too

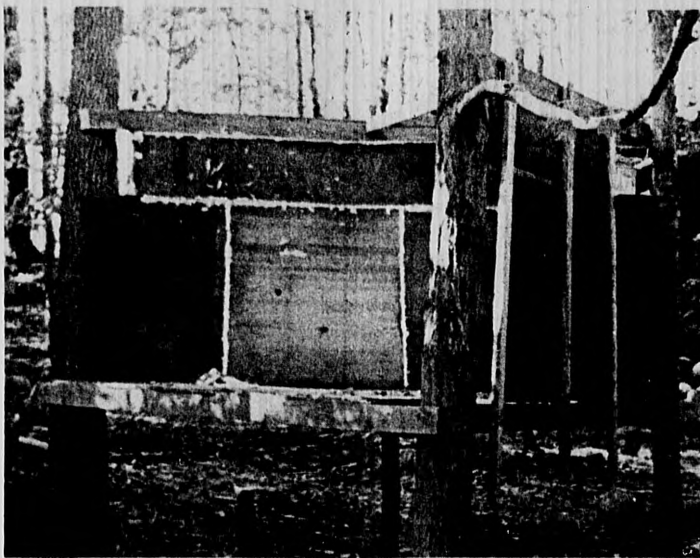

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Monday morning I was coming out of Stowell road to go right onto Main street when I almost hit a young man jogging. Thankfully I had stopped, because a trailer truck was parked on Main street, thus blocking my view of oncoming cars to my left.

As I was easing out, and watching for cars to my left, I turned my head to discover a young man in front of my car. I put on my brakes and my heart started to pound from sheer fright. I am sure the young man saw my car and why he was not aware of the situation is something I have not been able to figure out.

I rolled down the window, after the young man gave me a dirty look and a few gestures not becoming to him or flattering to me. I called out to the young man and again he yelled unflattering things at me and repeated his gestures, at which point I called him "rude."

This situation could have resulted in a very

Charter Commission

Mini Constitutional Convention For Town

This is the third and final article by Robert C. Ericson, member of the Town Government Study Committee, on how Winchester can create a charter commission to effect changes in how we govern ourselves. A petition drive to put the issue on the ballot is expected to begin shortly.

By Bob Ericson

Completion of the charter commission petition drive for 2,000 validated signatures will set in motion a series of events that will take a minimum of 405 days to complete. The procedure and schedule for the complete charter commission process are provided for in detail in the 1966 Home Rule Amendment. For Winchester this detailed schedule is:

Nov. 15, 1973: Final date for petitions to be presented to the Registrars of Voters for validation;

Nov. 26, 1973: Validation must be completed and petitions presented to the Board of Selectmen;

Dec. 26, 1973: Selectmen must issue an order for the election. This will place the question on the ballot at the annual town election in March 1974;

Feb. 4, 1974: Candidates running for election to the Charter Commission must file nomination papers with the town clerk prior to this date. Fifty signatures are required for nomination;

March 4, 1974: Annual town election. The question will read: "Shall a commission be elected to frame a charter for the Town of Winchester?" The ballot will also contain the names of all candidates running for election to the commission (listed in alphabetical order) with the instruction to vote for nine;

March 14, 1974: Organization of the Commission must be completed, if elected.

April 18, 1974: First public hearing must be conducted prior to this date. Notice of hearing must be published in the town newspaper at least 10 days prior to hearing.

Nov. 4, 1974: Publication of the preliminary report must be done prior to this date. The attorney general of the Commonwealth receives a copy of the report and must review it for conflict with the state constitution and laws within 28 days and notify the commission of its findings.

Dec. 4, 1974: The first public hearing on the preliminary report must be held prior to this date. Public notice of hearings is required a minimum of 10 days in advance.

Dec. 30, 1974: The final report of the commission must be prepared and submitted to the Board of Selectmen. The report must include: (1) the charter text, (2) indications of major differences between proposed and existing charters, (3) transmittal comments if any, and (4) any minority report of the commission filed with its chairman.

Dec. 30, 1974: The selectmen must order the charter to appear on the ballot of the March 3, 1975, annual town election.

Jan. 28, 1975: Charter filed with the town clerk.

Feb. 17, 1975: Copies of the charter distributed prior to this date to each residence with one or more voters.

serious accident. I still don't know where the young man came from because I had looked to my right and I did not see anyone at all. This incident taught me a lesson and I hope that the people who do their jogging will be aware of more than just their jogging. May I suggest to this young man that along with keeping your body physically fit that you also work on cleaning up your mind. You demonstrated to me that it needs a little attention.

Children's Theatre

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I was delighted to read in The Star recently of the revival of children's theater in Winchester. Carlene Samoiloff's contagious enthusiasm and remarkable rapport with children are pure magic.

As a veteran of some of her earlier productions, a one-time peacemaker and Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," I can't say enough of "Mrs. Samoiloff's" talents.

I urge anyone interested in children or in any area of the performing arts to get involved and offer her your support so that children's theater will be here to stay. Carlene Samoiloff is a happening.

Mrs. Richard Cooper
4 Wedge Pond rd.

March 3, 1975: Annual town election to determine whether a majority of the voters are in favor of adopting the charter.

The first step in the process is the gathering of the required 2,000 validated signatures. When this is successfully completed, the question automatically goes on the 1974 ballot. The chance of passage by the voters is very high; only four towns out of 80 voting whether to establish a commission or not have failed to elect commissions. In these four cases the question failed primarily because the election of the commission was known to be for an already determined end (such as a change to limited town meeting).

COST
The initial funding of the commission is provided for in the law, requiring the town treasurer to credit the account of the commission with $2,000 within 20 days of its election. The average cost for 17 charter commissions completing their work during the past year was $10,000. The Home Rule Amendment places a top limit of $20,000 on Commission expenditures.

CANDIDATES
On of the most important factors in a successful charter attempt is the quality of the citizens running for the commission. The slate of candidates should provide opportunity for broad-based representation from all elements in the community. Ideally the candidates should be running without preset positions on what the charter should be. They must be citizens who can make a heavy time commitment to the important work of the commission.

In the 10 months provided for the commission's work, the public should be given multiple opportunities to bring its views to the attention of the commissioners. Law requires that all meetings be open; no executive sessions are permitted. Normally all town officials and boards are heard, and it is even possible for the commission to get an advisory discussion of the preliminary proposal at a special town meeting. This kind of public input is the key to obtaining acceptance of the charter when it is placed on the ballot at the annual town election in March 1975.

In Other Towns
Many towns in the Commonwealth are taking advantage of their opportunity under the Home Rule Amendment. Three are voting on completed charters in the fall of 1973 and 14 more in the spring of 1974. Of all charters presented to the voters for approval, 50 percent have been accepted to date.

Evaluation of the failures indicates two major causes: (1) the failure of the commissioners to solicit views widely and listen to what the people want; and (2) an attempt to write the perfect charter by including all possible changes that might be considered.

A more conservative approach—to get a basic comprehensive document which reflects prevailing ideas—has met with more success. The charter amendment process can then take up changes not included in the original document.

The charter commission is truly a miniature constitutional convention. It is a great opportunity for the citizens of Winchester.

Letter From The Editor

Smith Pond

An item in The Star of Sept. 6 said the local Conservation Commission received $18,890 from the state Department of Natural Resources.

Commission chairman John T. Moore informs us that figure supplied by the state is incorrect. The actual amount received was $14,490. But, "we would have been quite happy if they had sent us $18,000."

The money was used as 50 percent reimbursement for acquiring land near Smith Pond. The pond is located between Johnson road and Ridge and High streets. The commission used the money from the state and $14,000 of the town's money to pay the two owners—Rosetti and Dudgeon—whose land was taken. Rosetti received about $26,000 and Dudgeon about $800.

Rosetti, who had 10 acres, wouldn't settle with the commission so that land was taken by eminent domain. Dudgeon's land, less than an acre, was acquired amicably. The land was acquired to provide the public with better access to the pond. It was the commission's first—and only—land taking. The commission has 30 conservation acres under its control.

Moore says the commission now feels there is a need for it to "formalize the maintenance" of its property and may ask the town meeting in March for "supportive services." Some kids recently built a tree house in the conservation area of Smith Pond.

Moore says he would like to congratulate those kids for doing such a good job building their hideaway but points out the area is used by school science classes and must remain untouched.

The pond had an oil spill last February after the brakes on a delivery truck let go and the truck rolled across Ridge street, through a fence and stopped at the water's edge. Because the truck was at such a sharp angle on the top and ran into the pond.

Moore says that except for volunteers, the commission doesn't have the resources to police its lands. One problem is that the commission hasn't yet marked the boundaries of its property.

Local motorists who ran out of gasoline this week and couldn't get a refill shouldn't really blame their service station. What can you expect them to do but shut down when the government allows the industry which supplies them with gasoline to increase prices but doesn't allow the small retailer to follow suit?

Beatie is bugged. A young man whom we shall refer to only as Beatie has received 15 greeting cards in care of The Star office. The cards are all anonymous and evidently come from a secret admirer. They contain messages of admiration and affection.

Beatie, a frequent visitor to The Star office, says he can't stand any longer not knowing who this person is. He would be lovingly grateful if she would reveal her identity.

A request by Lenore Frazier of 15 Yale st. to Gov. Francis Sargent has resulted in His Excellency issuing a proclamation declaring Oct. 7 as Grandparents' and Senior Citizens' Day.

The governor's proclamation in part said, "It is fitting that we recognize the contributions of senior citizens and grandparents to our American pattern of living and that we set apart a day to accord them recognition and appreciation."

That information didn't come from Mrs. Frazier. She is too modest to toot a horn in her behalf. But so did send The Star the following quote from "Massachusetts Beautiful," (1923) by Wallace Nutting:

"The Aberjona River in Winchester is one of the streams approached like English rivers. The bushy banks of most of our streams prevent our getting comfortably near them and we are, therefore, the more delighted when we find grassy banks and an open growth of shade trees.

"The region all about Winchester is very attractive. A vision up the stream at Winchester which shows the stone church has all the charm of mellowness and age that we associate with English village scenes."

John M. Repucci of 73 Salisbury st. must be happy. He received the following letter from Ameron, Inc.: "We have received correspondence from the Winchester Board of Selectmen regarding damage to your vehicle in August 1971. We have not received any formal claim and have not submitted this to our insurance for settlement. Because in the opinion of the Board of Selectmen you have a valid claim, we are enclosing our check in the amount of $64.90.

"The enclosed check in the amount of $64.90 is for full and final settlement of any and all claims arising out of said accident."

The Star in past issues has covered in detail the wrangling that has gone on between the Board of Selectmen, Water and Sewer Board and Ameron over this three-year claim so we're not going into it here except to say we're glad it's done with.

Selectman Arthur Dunbar told the following story Monday when the board was discussing trees. His father-in-law had an apple tree in his yard wanted to get rid of. He had read in the newspaper that road salt is bad for trees. So he dug a pit around his apple tree, filled it with salt and kerosene and watered it for five days to be sure the mixture soaked in. "The tree has grown about two feet since," Dunbar reported.

A reader sent us a newspaper clipping about a new state law prohibiting the abandonment of motor vehicles. "The new statute governs the abandonment of a registered or unregistered vehicle on a public or private way and carries a penalty of revocation of driving license of the person who last owned the vehicle. In addition, there's a fine a $100 to $500 on conviction. More than that, the individual is banned from registering another vehicle in Massachusetts for one year." For some in Winchester, the key words are that the law is applicable to private streets as well as public.

The Equal Opportunity Commission has sent to the Board of Selectmen a form which must be filled out by every town department (and every department in the cities and towns of the United States). The form is four long pages and asks the department head to list his employees in two categories according to sex and to break down his male and female employees according to ethnic background: "black, white, Spanish surname, Asian, American Indian and other." Local officials were invited to attend a government-sponsored seminar on how to fill out the form (seriously).

"Newspapers can avoid shouts of 'sexism' or even legal encounters if they watch the titles they use in their classifieds," according to an announcement from the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, which lists 50 terms papers should avoid.

Arpad von Lazar, Chile Specialist Is In The News

Last week Chilean President Salvador Allende committed suicide after a military junta, using artillery force, began taking over the Chilean capital.

Since then Arpad von Lazar of Church st., a professor at the Fletcher School of Diplomacy of Tufts University, has been in the news.

A specialist in the government, economics, culture and social aspects of Chile, von Lazar was guest of the NBC-TV Today show; he was a spokesman for Boston television news broadcasts, he wrote an article on Chile for the Boston Globe and tomorrow night he will be a member of a panel discussion on the Louis Lyons news program from 8:30 to 9 p.m.

On the Today show, von Lazar said Allende's suicide was in character with the man and "provided the cause of socialism with a martyr." He said "this was a middle class rebellion" and came about because of the political affairs and the economic situation in Chile. "The armed forces were becoming concerned because workers were armed," said von Lazar, "and the Army was worried that it would be taken over by pressure groups." He pointed to Allende as being caught between the two as he worked to change a capitalistic society to one of socialism.

A report from Chile indicates that 5,200 persons were arrested early this week by the military regime that overthrew Allende. The country remains in a state of unrest.

Ninety-five persons are reported to have been killed and 300 wounded due to the coup.

Winchester Among Towns Surveyed For Waste Water

A Wellesley firm is carrying out a major six-month study to determine industrial waste water in the Charles and Merrimack River basins. Included in the survey, now underway, are major industries in Winchester, Stoneham, Arlington, Woburn and Medford.

Industry and municipal facilities in 109 communities throughout eastern Massachusetts.

The Cortell firm will ascertain the projection figures of wastewater loads expected to be discharged by 1990, 2020, and 2050, were current discharge levels to continue until those dates.

Sources of potential organic pollution being surveyed range over a wide variety of industries in 27 broad categories. These include meat and food processing, textiles, electroplating, chemical manufacturing, plastics, leather tanning and hospitals.

The date will be fed into computers to be used by federal and state agencies in planning future pollution control needs. The MDC will use the results to select a waste water management plan for eastern Massachusetts as part of its long-range plans for new sewage treatment facilities.

A breaking and entering occurred at Linda's Do-Nut Shop on Main st. last Wednesday at 2:55 a.m. Employee Joseph McGrath reported entry was gained by forcing a back door. Though a meat slicer was stolen, cash was not touched.

Saturday night a car was damaged at 290 Swanton st. A rear wheel was spiked, headlights were smashed and hubcaps were stolen.

Also on Saturday an Arlington builder reported an unknown person had entered a house at 25 Yale st. by digging his way under a garage door. There appeared to be no damage. The same night Madison ave. and Thornberry rd. residents reported disturbing noises by youths.

On Sunday morning a two-foot concrete statue of St. Joseph was knocked over the front steps at 21 Crescent rd. resulting in the statue's head being broken.

At 12:05 p.m. on Sunday a 1968 Buick in the yard at 251 Forest st. was broken into. Wires under the dashboard and ignition were pulled out. Recommended Mid-Rise Apartment Zones

The two maps on this page show the mid-rise apartment zones in Winchester Center which the Planning Board is recommending that the Oct. 18 special town meeting approve. The mid-rise zones (80-foot maximum height) are the grey shaded areas. Height of buildings in Rangeley road apartment zone would be limited to four stories. (Presented as a public service by The Winchester Star.)

Selectmen Sign Warrant, Design Group Holds Off

Selectmen Monday signed the warrant for the Oct. 18 special town meeting, which will not include an article dealing with creation of a design and architectural review commission.

Acting town counsel Douglas A. Randall indicated by letter to the board he won't have time to study the proposed commission by-law in time for the special meeting.

Andrew Morrison, chairman of the Design and Architectural Review Committee, requested the selectmen to include a warrant article allowing the committee to ask town meeting for a vote on whether the group should continue its work.

Randall estimated his charge for going over the proposed by-law and accompanying legislation at $800. Still in doubt is whether town meeting can create a commission to control the appearance of business buildings in town or if the legislature must authorize such a commission.

The selectmen approved Morrison's request, one of 10 articles approved for the warrant. The other articles are on the Planning Board's proposals for a new zoning by-law, apartment zones for portions of Main st. and Rangeley road, transfer of control of the Lincoln School, a new sidewalk for Highland avenue and certain school name changes and a name change for Palmer, Lake and Fletcher streets.

In other action Monday, the selectmen voted 4-1 to direct the fire chief to discontinue the summer shift of 11 men, resuming to 12 men, and replacing absent officers with other officers and not firefighters. Selectman Vito A. Giarrizzo was the dissenter to Selectman John J. Sullivan's motion.

The selectmen accepted the resignation of a police officer appointed a week ago. He is Robert S. Rockwell of Medford, who has accepted an appointment with the Stoneham police.

The selectmen last week, on the recommendation of Chief Edward F. Bowler, appointed Rockwell and the following men to the force:

David E. Cronin, 34, of Watertown; James P. Capucci, 34, of Cambridge; and George E. Woel, 31, of Medford.

The board voted to inform Charles River Cable Television, Inc., of Waltham that it is not desirous of receiving application for licensing cable television in Winchester. The board now has a committee studying the situation.

The board asked the press to inform its readers that it is looking for someone to serve on the Contributory Retirement Board. A position was vacated when Leonard Mullen died. The board had asked Town Comptroller James J. Costello to suggest a name. In what must be one of Costello's shortest letters on record, he wrote:

"Your August 8 letter, directed to me as a member of the Contributory Retirement Board, requests my suggestions in filling a vacancy. As an individual member of the Contributory Retirement Board I have no suggestions. Very truly yours."

Punt, Pass, Kick Games Sept. 30

Local youngsters will be 'dusting off' their footballs and loosening throwing arms soon for the 1973 Punt, Pass & Kick competition.

This year the local PP&K will be sponsored by Bonnell Motors of Winchester and Woburn.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete against others their own age. Any youngster eight through 13 years of age, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register to compete in PP&K at any participating Ford dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participation does not impair a youngster's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on accuracy and range, with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance, and a point subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Twelve national finalists will compete for the national championships.

The local competition will be judged at Woburn High School on Sunday, September 30, at 10 a.m.

Unitarian Players Announce Tryouts For November Play

The Winchester Unitarian Players announce tryouts for "The Man Who Came To Dinner" by Kaufman and Hart, to be held on Sept. 30 at 2 p.m. and Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Winsor Room of the Unitarian Church. The play, to be directed by Bob Storer, will be performed on Nov. 30, Dec. 1, 7 and 8.

"The Man Who Came To Dinner" is a three-act comedy set in a small American town of the late 1930s. It contains some of the funniest dialogues ever written, according to some reviewers. The plot concerns the total disruption of a household by an untimely accident befalling a dinner guest, Sheridan Whiteside, a world-famous critic and lecturer, whose acid wit withers nearly everyone. In the Stanley home while recovering from his injury, Whiteside attempts to thwart romance and subvert parental authority.

The play calls for a huge cast, 36 in all. There are roles for all ages, including young adults, with many character parts.

The leading role, a large and demanding part, is that of Sheridan Whiteside, a portly and Falstaffian middle-aged man. Other major roles include Maggie Cutler, his secretary-companion; Bert Jefferson, owner-editor of the town newspaper; and Lorraine Sheldon, famous glamour girl of the stage.

Those who have interest in trying out for acting, backstage work or to just lend moral support should be at the Unitarian Church on Sept. 30 and Oct. 3. Copies of the script may be borrowed in advance from Steve Funk of 18 Chesterford rd.

Crisis In Suburban Housing Topic Of Panel Discussion

The Winchester Wellesley Club will present "The Crisis in Suburban Housing" for its fall program.

Open to all members of the community with no admission charge, the panel discussion will be followed by a question and answer period Oct. 10 at the new Lincoln School auditorium (old McCall). Coffee will be served at 7:30 p.m. The program is scheduled for 8 p.m.

The Winchester Wellesley Club is undertaking this program as an expression of thanks for 25 years of community support for its Winchester Mornings lecture series.

In keeping with the Mornings program tradition and the club's public service orientation, the subject was chosen for its topical nature.

Given the special town meeting, Oct. 18 on the new zoning by-law, the professional knowledge and experience of the three panelists will provide a background for town meeting members and interested citizens.

Directing the panel will be Prof. Alan H. Schechter, chairman of the political science department, Wellesley College. Schechter's current research is for his book "The Politics of Suburban Housing: Values in Conflict."

Prof. Schechter received a grant from the Dept. of Health, Education, and Welfare in 1972.

The second panelist, Robert E. McKay, is executive director of the Citizens Housing and Planning Association, a liaison group serving the state, city and local communities.

Jon Ellertson, also of the Wellesley College political science department faculty will complete the panel. Ellertson is a specialist in urban politics and is currently researching the Boston model cities program.

The Winchester Wellesley Club's major fund raising project is figure skating lessons. The Boots'n'Blades skating program for children begins Saturday morning, Nov. 3 at the USA Rink in Winchester.

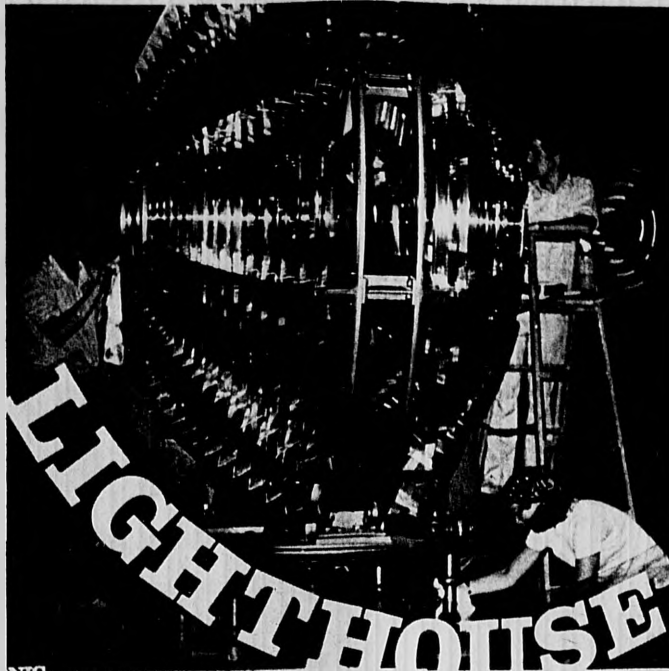

For enrollment information see advertisement (this issue) or contact Mrs. Daniel Lisberger, 8 Worthen rd. Free skate fitting and consultation for enrollees will be held Oct. 5, from 3:30 - 5:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Lane McGovern, 7 Yale st.

Decorative Lighting Is Estates' Topic

Mrs. Gertrude Winchell of the Cambridge Electric Company was guest speaker at the first annual meeting of the Winchester Estates Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Alice Warren recently.

Mrs. Winchell demonstrated various qualities of home lighting including fluorescent in a color box. She also demonstrated correct lighting techniques for studying, applying make-up, discouraging bugs, enhancing plants and artwork. After answering questions of the group she showed slides of different rooms made more decorative by lighting changes.

New members were introduced during a business meeting. Members voted unanimously to replace railroad ties on the median strip of Copier ter. Coffee and cake was served. Co-hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Gloria Belden.

Drama Workshop Next Wednesday

Boys and girls from elementary grades through junior high may participate in an introductory workshop next Wednesday at the Unitarian Church School from 3:45 drama to 5:30 p.m.

The drama workshop will be led by Paulett Taggart of 17 Ridgefield rd. with the assistance of other teachers from the Om Theater Workshop of Boston.

The open session will precede a fall series of workshops on Tuesday or Wednesday afternoons, according to age, to enable newcomers to sample physical warm-up exercises with yoga, sense awareness, movement, rhythms, mime, theater games and improvisation.

According to Ms. Taggart the fall workshops will concentrate on developing individual creativity. During the winter series, the group may join members of last season's drama workshop to expand and develop the original theater piece on energy created from their improvisations. Last year's group their work "Sun-Where" in Metcalf Hall and last May performed at the old Lincoln School, Ambrose School and the Boston center for the Arts.

The drama workshop is all about centering, says Ms. Taggart. It also centers on exploring and discovering the self and the environment and communicating with others, she adds.

She will be honored as the 1973 winner. Wallace J. Gleekman of Brookline High School will receive the 1972 award.

Miss Crawley, who has been teaching high school chemistry since 1935, is reported to have inspired scores of students to continue to study chemistry and other sciences in college.

During her 11-year tenure at Winchester High School, 24 of her students have won prizes or honorable mention in the annual chemistry contest sponsored by the ACS Northeastern Section. At Winchester she also has developed an advanced placement chemistry course in which students work at their own pace and a college preparatory chemistry course which uses aspects of the Chemical Bond Approach (CBA) and chemistry methods of chemistry instruction.

Before joining the Winchester faculty, Miss Crawley devoted a year to work on a CBA project and developed lecture demonstrations for a CBA teacher's guide. She was also a member of the board of examiners for the CBA and worked with the Educational Testing Service in preparing examinations used in evaluating the approach. She has traveled throughout the country as a consultant for CBA and has discussed the teaching method at numerous science teacher conferences and conventions.

She was a member of the National Science Foundation review panel for proposals for summer science training programs for high ability secondary school science students and in 1960 served as a member of the New England School Science Advisory Council Board.

An active member of the New England Association of Chemistry Teachers (NEACT), she has been NEACT President and Vice-President and has participated in 29 of the Association's 34 summer conferences. She has been a member of the Massachusetts State Science Fair Committee for 23 years, serving as chairman of judging, vice-chairman and chairman of the committee.

Miss Crawley received the BS degree from Simmons College and the MA degree from Vassar.

Human Relations Seminar Is Set At First Congo.

A human relations seminar by Barbara Gilbert will be offered at the First Congregational Church beginning Oct. 2 through Nov. 6.

Why do so many people feel "not okay" about themselves much of the time? What can they do to change that feeling? Why does communication break down between people and children, husbands and wives, friends and co-workers? The seminar will deal with these questions using the basic principles of transactional analysis made popular in the book "I'm O.K., You're O.K." by Harris.

The seminar will not be a sensitivity or therapy group but will be aimed at gaining new and exciting insights into one's own human relationships and living.

The seminar will be held in the Stone Room from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. To register early or to gain fee information contact Barbara Jopling at the church office.

The series is under the direction of Dr. Robert Luccock, professor of preaching and worship at the Boston University School of Theology, former pastor of the Church of the Redeemer in New Haven, Conn., and a member of the United Church of Wellesley. He will use as a text "Words of Faith" by Loring D. Chase. Copies of the book are available at the church office.

Guests are welcome from the community. Reservations are not necessary.

Raiders Picked To Win Saturday Sachem Opener

By John F. Parrell

The 1973 edition of Coach Manny Marshall's Winchester High School Sachems faces a stern test Saturday afternoon opening the Middlesex League campaign at Melrose. Veteran mentor Joe Hoague has an experienced cast of players, some well over 200 pounds. The Ell Ponders must be rated as heavy favorites in both the literal and figurative sense. The home team was the 1972 co-champion with Stoneham, and is picked to retain the title.

This is the fourth year of the league's rotating schedule which has found Winchester slated against the "iron" of the circuit early in the season.

For two years it was the Wakefield Warriors in the opener with the Melrose crew in the second game. The Raiders played the first game here last year. After this year's clash they will drop down to the eighth game for the Sachems, leaving Winchester against Watertown and then Burlington to start the season.

The Sachems have shown a sound defense in scrimmage sessions with Somerville, Chelmsford and Wayland, with all three opponents finding Winchester's goal line hard to cross.

The offense to date has been spotty with moments of clever running and effective passing mixed with other ones where missed blocking assignments, fumbles and dropped passes have stymied drives. As in the case of the Raiders, the scrimmages have found big Tim Porter, the fullback, on the sidelines, so any assessment of offensive power must take his absence into account.

Winchester had the upper hand on both Somerville and Chelmsford and took a 20-10 victory over Wayland in last Saturday's scrimmage.

Things started out on a sour note for Winchester as the visitors recovered a Sachem fumble on the second play. The Wayland team made a few short gains, but these moved them into field goal range. Bruce Paige pumped the ball over the onrushing forward wall, and it was Wayland in front by 3-0 after about five minutes of action.

Following the kickoff the Sachems worked downfield to the Wayland 20 before losing the ball. The visitors were stalled, and punted to the Winchester 38. Rudy Fiore picked up a first down, but an interception returned the ball to the Tigers.

The visitors fumbled almost immediately and Mike Heffernan hauled a long pass downfield which Elliott Miller gathered in and went to the Wayland 20. Vin Palumbo broke loose around his own left side and went over to make it 6-3.

Tri-captain Rudy Fiore was stopped short on the extra points attempt. Wayland came back by intercepting again at the 30 yard line, and finally scored aided by a 15-yard penalty. Capt. Tim Confrey went across from the one-yard line. When Paige booted accurately the score read 10-6 for Wayland.

This edge was soon liquidated when Fiore broke loose on two long jaunts, the second one covering about 50 yards for a touchdown. A tackle slant netted two points, and Winchester was ahead to stay by 14-10.

As the minutes ticked by toward the end of the game, the Tigers tried to make short yardage for a first down, but met a stone wall on fourth down as Winchester took over at the 25. Two carries by Vin Palumbo brought a first down at the 15. Mike Heffernan was only inches short of a first down at the five yard line.

Winchester's final touchdown came moments later, and even though the extra points were made, a holding penalty set the count back to Winchester 20, Wayland 10—the final score.

The Faces Of Effort

Beth Parsons' face reflects the tensions of tennis as she plays Monday during Junior Town Tennis Tournament. Beth won her match and is in fourth seed. She is expected to go to semi-finals this weekend at Packer tennis courts.

Junior Tennis Enters Finals

The Junior Town Tennis Championships have been displaying an excellent brand of tennis for the past week as matches enter the finals this weekend, weather permitting.

The boys' 15-year-and-under semi-finals are being played today and feature four very good players in Lloyd Thomas, Ray Champoux, Jimmy Ferrera and Di Pak Khaund.

The boys' 12-and-under, with a draw of 40 boys, is moving into the quarter finals with Dana Houlihan, Andy Mahoney, J.M. Gagan, Billy Strazzolo, Bubba Sandford and Chris Julien already qualified.

The girls' play started Monday with the seeded players progressing as expected. Seeded players in the 15-year-and-under group are Nancy Raleigh, last year's winner; Kathy Noble, last year's runnerup; Dawn Hudson, Beth Parsons, Karen Grozier and Carolyn Mooney.

The seeded players in the 12-year-and-under group are Beth Noble and Therese Aylward.

Soccer Squad Split

The squad has been split into two groups with Coach Gene Bouley handling the varsity squad and Don Latham in charge of the JV group.

The varsity players include seniors co-captains John Friberg and Andy Miga, Robert Bird, David Burns, Ned Costello, Richard Lougee, Mike McLaughlin, Steve Meahl, Joe Quinn, Charles Salerno, Peter Sandford, Dale Senior, Ed Shiang and Chip Whitman.

Sophomores Frank Gerardi, Rick Mauger and Tom Waite.

The JV members are juniors Dave Brenton, Dan Cabour, Tom Deshler, Jim Grady, Jay Houlihan, Jay James, Kevin O'Neill, Paul Sacca and Mark Zudeck.

Sachem Booters Win And Lose

By John F. Parrell

Coach Gene Bouley took his Sachem soccer team to Watertown, where the Raiders pulled off a major upset as they bested Winchester High School 2-1. Winchester had much the better scoring opportunities only to be thwarted by some superb goal tending by the Watertown defender.

Belmont came here two days later and helped the locals christen the new soccer field on Skillings road. This was a happier occasion for the Sachems, who came out ahead by 3-1. With a juggled lineup and new formation they fed the ball to the line and took the play away from the visitors to score an impressive victory.

After a slow start in the Watertown game the Sachems seemed to come alive and pressed the attack continuously. Play was in the Raider zone over 75 percent of the time, but the home team's goalie was solid and sensational. The first half ended without a score for either team.

As the third period opened the Watertown center forward broke clear and booted a 30 foot shot into the upper left hand corner of the cage. The Sachems were still getting plenty of shots but no goals. Steve Meahl drove one home, but it was disallowed as a hand ball. The home team added another goal to strengthen their lead, and co-captain John Friberg's goal came late in the contest to make the final tally read Watertown 2, Winchester 1.

Friberg notched two goals in the game with the Marauders, one on a breakaway and the other on a pass from Peter Frongillo. Tom Brennan netted the other Sachem marker. Halfbacks Steve Meahl and co-captain Andy Miga and Bob Bird and fullbacks Ed Shiang and Dave Raphael did some excellent work in advancing the ball to the attacking zone. Ron Vangell in goal showed a vastly improved game, making some excellent saves, two of which were spectacular.

The junior varsity group kept pace with the varsity, splitting their first two matches and losing to Belmont by 3-1 after beating Watertown by the identical score.

Coach Bouley looks forward to a good season, since the team played good soccer in the games to date. It is hoped that there will be an increase in the rooting section. The field is handy to the town center and the high school.

'B' Team Beats Wakefield 14-0

The defending Pop Warner champions on the "B" team made it two in a row by beating a stubborn Wakefield team 14-0.

In the first quarter, Winchester took the ball on their own 40-yard line, where they marched right down to the Wakefield goal line. John Barcus then swept around the corner for the score. Billy Rogers made the extra point on a dive.

The second and third quarters revealed a defensive game as Dave Deshler, Steve Mangano, Craig Pollings and Guy Cavaralla stopped the Wakefield runners cold.

In the fourth quarter Winchester started marching again. On a third and five Billy Rogers turned the speed on and galloped 44 yards for the second score. The extra point failed leaving the final score Winchester 14, Wakefield 0.

'C' Team Opens Season With Bang

The Winchester Pop Warner "C" Team opened its season with a convincing 12-0 win over Wakefield. The lopsided results came about because Winchester was just too powerful on offense and defense.

On the offensive side of the game, Winchester had drives of 80 and 75 yards for both their scores. The first score came on a four-yard plunge by burly Gary Errico. The extra point failed.

The second and final score came on a quarterback sneak by Jim Shultz. Earl Ward and Ken Goodrow also shined on the offense.

On defense John Lacey, John Descho and Brad Cowin stopped the Wakefield runners time and time again.

The "C" team now travels to Melrose where they will face a powerful team.

Youth Soccer Begins Year

Winchester Youth Soccer kicked off its sixth year last Saturday on three fields with a record 397 boys.

The program began in 1968 with 70 boys. 1969 with 150, 1970 with 220, 1971 with 325 (expanding to two fields), 1972 with 360.

The Bantam Division for the sixth through ninth grades began at 8:30 with team assignments and distribution of soccer shirts. This was followed by a series of 15-minute scrimmages until noon.

It was an opportunity for the coaches and players to get acquainted. For some boys it was a first introduction to the skills and actual participation in soccer.

Because of the interest in soccer, it has been necessary for this division to expand from the usual six teams with 108 boys, to eight teams for the 144 boys.

A second set of goal posts will be installed this week on MacDonald Field to accommodate the additional teams.

Assisting as referees in those games were Paul Austin and David Frongillo.

Coaches for the teams are: Bucks, A Muggia; Cardinals, Brake Service.

Randy Brumagim, Cellies, Robert Brosnan, Knights, Delip Bokil, Panthers, Angelo Bitterelli, Ranges, Walt Layton, Shamrocks, Jim Anasis, and Warriors, John Duffy.

Anyone interested in assisting the coaches, referees, timekeeper, scorekeeper, or publicity, please introduce yourself to MacDonald Field Manager John Duffy.

Largest Tennis Draw Ever Continues This Weekend

By J. R. Stewart Jr.

The 1973 Winchester Town Tennis Tournament drew the largest number of entries in the history of this annual event. Headed by 80 contestants in the men's singles competition, there was a total of 225 individuals or teams vying for the titles in men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles.

Over the past weekend co-chairman Don Ellis and Jim Stewart hosted a myriad of racquet swingers in two full days of activity at the Packer courts on Fletcher street.

In spite of the rain Friday night, crews of the Tournament Committee and game participants labored to sweep and mop water and brush out the courts. Play started at 11 a.m., a two-hour delay in the official starting time.

To speed up the action, the first three rounds of men's singles, women's singles (first round), and the first round of men's doubles were directed to play "pro" set scoring.

As one result of this speed-up, the committee reported that at the end of play Sunday, the tournament was back on schedule. The final match of the weekend was a grueling three-set duel between Arthur and Libby Hills vs. Marilyn Chamberlain and Dick White. The latter finally prevailed at 7:18 p.m., Sunday evening: 4-6; 7-6; 7-5.

Wee Sachems Tie Wakefield 6-6

The Wee Sachems tied Wakefield last Sunday by a score of 6-6. The Pop Warner game was a real defensive battle with Wakefield scoring in the first quarter.

Winchester didn't get rolling until the fourth quarter. Don Allard started the march with a 35-yard pass to Sam Bellino. Mike Cavaretta then squeezed through the guard and tackle for the score. Winchester had many chances to score but just couldn't seem to get the big one.

Don Allard was exceptional as far as throwing the football. Sam Bellino and Mike Cavaretta did all the work in the running game. On the defensive side Joe Costello and Dave O'Neill were the stoppers for Winchester.

The Sachems are looking better every week. Next week they travel to Melrose. Game time is 1:30 at Melrose High School.

Chickadees Tops With Early Birds

The Chickadees team of the Early Bird Bowling League, made up of Mimi Burnett, Lorraine Staniewicz and Jane Spencer, made a clean sweep last week scoring high team series and high team game. Jane Spencer took high individual series, 474.

High individual score was bowled by Glenda Green, 191. Helen McCarthy did well eliminating a difficult pin split.

New members are Marilyn Quigley, Isabel Hart, Lois Mercurio, Terry Dokas, Pat Shattuck, Mimi Burnett and Carol Fletcher.

Melrose Star Out Of Action

Jeff Buckley, sensational quarterback, is lost to the Raiders for at least the first five games. He came up with a broken shoulder bone in the scrimmage with Natick last week.

His loss will dim the prospects of Coach Joe Hoague's team, since he was not only a good field general but an excellent passer and talented runner.

He missed nearly all of the 1972 season under similar conditions, but came back in the late games to lead the Raiders into a tie for the Middlesex League title.

Capt. John Hickey is also reported not in the best of shape, having missed many workouts.

Mystic Valley Among Three Merged With Boston Gas

A first-of-its-kind agreement among gas utility, consumer interest and public officials, has cleared the way for the merger of three North Shore gas companies with Boston Gas, a subsidiary of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates.

Sale of the Lynn, North Shore and Mystic Valley Gas Companies, owned by the New England Electric System (NEES), had been ordered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Mystic Valley Gas Company serves Winchester. Successful bidder for them was Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, whose plan to merge them with Boston Gas was approved last February by the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, subject to S.E.C. approval.

Congressman Michael J. Harrington, the Association of Massachusetts Consumers, and a few North Shore communities, appeared before the S.E.C. to oppose the merger. Under the terms of the settlement agreement with Eastern and Boston Gas, the opponents will withdraw their opposition.

The agreement includes provisions relating to gas supplies and rates of the three companies being acquired, and a four-year moratorium on further gas utility acquisitions beyond those of the NEES system.

Boston Gas President William J. Pruyn said the agreement and withdrawal of opposition is "a constructive step toward completion of a merger of gas utilities which we believe to be in the public interest. Conditions of the agreement will permit us to carry through plans for a combined gas distribution system which should benefit gas customers and the general public through greater efficiency and reliability of service."

Boston Gas presently serves 325,000 customers in 47 cities and towns in eastern and central Massachusetts. The three NEES companies will add about 175,000 customers in 27 communities to its franchise area.

In the agreement, Boston Gas confirms that it has no present intention of equalizing the rates of the three companies with those of Boston Gas and agreed that it will not initiate or support any proceeding that would accomplish such equalization prior to September 1, 1977.

It also agreed that if any rate increases for the territories now served by the North Shore companies become necessary prior to that date, the percentage increase would not be greater than any proposed for the present Boston Gas territory.

Boston Gas also agrees that excess gas supply of the North Shore companies, if any, would not be used in the present Boston Gas territory to the detriment of customers of the new territory and that the merged companies will have full access to the supplemental gas supplies of the Boston Gas system.

Beyond the four year moratorium, Eastern and Boston Gas also agreed not to acquire any other gas utility prior to September 1, 1981, without the approval of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Lawrence Murray and Henry Quill

Winchester Lawyers

Murray & Quill Together Three Years In January

Attorneys Lawrence M. Murray and Henry F. Quill first met while teaching Christian Doctrine classes at their local church, saw each other from time to time at the Woburn District Court, where both tried cases, and talked about forming their own law firm.

Both graduates of Suffolk University, Mr. Murray in 1969 and Mr. Quill in 1967, they worked for out-of-town law firms after graduation from law school.

Mr. Murray, a graduate of Merrimack College, worked for Mawn & Mawn in Woburn after Suffolk; Mr. Quill for Cohen & Galvin in Boston. On Jan. 1, 1971, they formed their partnership and set up a law office at 573 Main st. in the business block at the corner of Shore road and Mt. Vernon street. They own the building.

Mr. Quill, a graduate of Boston College, worked his way through undergraduate and law schools working at the post office in Winchester. He attended St. Mary's and Winchester High schools.

Now living in Woburn, he plans to move to 12 Wolcott rd. shortly with his wife, Eleanor (Doherty) and five children.

Mr. Murray lives with his wife, Anne Patricia (Twomey) in Woburn. They have three girls. Mr. Murray is a native of Arlington.

The partners try to divide their law practice so that each handles his own specialty. Henry takes care of a great deal of the firm's probate affairs, while Larry handles much of the courtroom litigation. Both, however, do each as the need arises.

A good part of the firm's practice involves corporate and civil litigation. Murray & Quill has many large Winchester firms as corporate clients.

A member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, the Federal District Court Bar and the Federal Court of Appeals Bar for the First Circuit, Mr. Murray has had litigation experience in the federal courts as well as on every level of the Massachusetts court system.

An assistant professor of law at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, Mr.

Murray is involved with the Woburn Council of Social Concern, which deals with minority problems.

Both men have volunteered their services to be on the list of attorneys assigned to defend indigent clients from the Woburn Court.

A member of the Middlesex Bar Association, Mr. Quill is the advocate at the Knights of Columbus in Winchester, is on the school board of St. Charles Church in Woburn, on the board of directors of the Winchester Business Association and is going to be president of the Kiwanis Club in Winchester this year.

He is also president of the Suburban Answering Service.

Mr. Murray is also a member of the Rotary Club in Winchester.

St. Mary's Room Moms Hold Coffee To Learn Duties

Mrs. Albert Kennedy, recording secretary for St. Mary's School Room Mothers' Club, was hostess for a coffee meeting held recently. The purpose of the gathering was to announce this year's school program and explain duties of room mothers.

Other officers in attendance were Mrs. Robert Hallisey, president; Mrs. Richard Parker, vice-president; Mrs. George Stewart, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Robert Gooch, treasurer.

Hills Takes Course

Arthur R. Hills of 34 Cabot st. will be participating in a two-day program on the management aspects of public relations counseling and financial public relations practice at Babson College in October. The program will be presented by Touche Ross & Co. and the counselors section of the Public Relations Society of America, Inc.

Deadline Is Tomorrow To Enroll In Marriage And Family Life Institute

By Catherine R. Fallon

A marriage and family life institute will be among the offerings of the Winchester public school adult education program this fall.

"To the best of our knowledge, this will be the first national adult education ecumenical course to take place within a public school," states Steve Beirne, member of the Winchester Interfaith Education Committee and chairman of the institute subcommittee which developed the format.

"It appears to be a nationwide landmark in cooperation between an interfaith association and a public school system. The course will offer opportunities for personal growth, improvement of interpersonal communication and expansion of individual and group horizons on a highly professional level," Beirne states.

Beginning Oct. 16 for three consecutive Tuesdays, the institute will be conducted by Merle Jordan, Th.D., director of the Denison Pastoral Counseling Service at Boston University and member of the Association of Marriage and Family Counselors. His three weeks of keynote talks will deal with parental influences on children's choices. Lectures will focus on family sculpture, probing family interview areas of decision making, discipline and communication, and, finally, a demonstration of how family growth games can be used by participants in their own families.

Small group seminars developing Jordan's presentations will be held on the following three Tuesdays. Those enrolled may choose among six seminars dealing with "decision making within the family," led by Robert Fitzgerald, principal of the Lynch Junior High School; "by communication within the family," led by Arthur F. Fultz, director of counseling at YMCA Affiliate, Inc., Woburn; "loss and grief," led by Msgr. Joseph W. Lyons, Rev. John Bishop and Rev. George Easton of the local clergy; "on being parents of pre-school children" led by Mrs. Bette Jellis, director of the Neighborhood Cooperative Nursery School; "on being parents of adolescents" led by Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Guthrie, pediatrician and lecturers on adolescence and "on being a single parent" led by Robert five chapters, including one in Winchester, involving widowed, divorced and separated adults.

The entire course sprang from expressed needs of the community at large, Beirne explains. "We are grateful to the public school system and to the School Committee for allowing the program to be incorporated into the adult education curricula."

A ruling last spring by the late Town Counsel Leonard Mullen stated there would be no hurdle regarding the first amendment providing the sponsoring group was non-denominational.

The Winchester Interfaith Education Committee is comprised of representatives from each participating church.

Members of the group include Phyllis Baldwin, Rev. George Easton and Don Rowlingson of the First Congregational Church; Lloyd Stevens and Rev. Michael Strah from the Second Congregational Church; Steve Beirne, Cathy Harty, Carol Laverdure, Msgr. Joseph Lyons, Sr. Leona McCaughy and Virginia O'Neill of St. Eulalia's; Rev. Jack Bishop and Martin Hitchcock of the Parish of the Epiphany; Joanne Morgan and Rev. Jack Zoerheide of the Unitarian Church; Mildred Allison and the Rev. Mildred Palmer of the First Baptist Church; Rev. Dean Benedict and Calvin

Keeler of the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church; and Fr. Mark Sheehan and James Ulwick of St. Mary's Church; and Fr. Leonard Pelletier of the Immaculate Conception Church. Secretary for the group is Sr. Marie Doyle of Arlington. Coordinator for the Committee is William L. Wilson, DDS. Lecturers will be paid for their time at professional rates. Contributions of ENKA, the Rotary Club, the Winchester Ecumenical Association and individual churches permit a minimal registration fee. Registration must be made by tomorrow. Checks for $2 should be payable to the Winchester Interfaith Education Fund and mailed to Mrs. Priscilla Baumann, 28 Everett ave.

Volunteers For UNICEF Hear NY Representative

Several Winchester women met recently with Sarah Camblin, field services representative for the U.S. Committee for UNICEF with UNICEF volunteers from Stoneham, Medford, Malden and Burlington. The meeting was arranged by Mrs. Robert Williams of Wolcott ter, who serves as the volunteer representative for all of Massachusetts.

Among those from Winchester were Mrs. Lee J. Aubrey, who directs the sale of UNICEF cards at the local Post Office; Mrs. Harry Shaw, in charge of sales at the Star Market; Mrs. Carl Albers, publicity chairman for the greeting card sales; Mrs. Bengt Bjargard and Mrs. Lewis Thompson, trick or treat chairman.

Miss Camblin recently returned from East Pakistan after four years. She now travels throughout the United States from the New York office. She described UNICEF as a semi-autonomous body within the United Nations with a 30-nation governing board. She emphasized that money by UNICEF in developing countries serves as seed money; the assisted government is required to place a high priority on each UNICEF-aided project and bears the major responsibility for providing local expenditures for staff buildings and equipment.

UNICEF only goes into a country when requested, Miss Camblin said, with aid taking the form of goods and services, not cash. UNICEF's approach to a problem is to work within the culture of the country, and its goals are to effect permanent improvements in health, nutrition, education and social welfare services. She described in detail a project to correct Vitamin A deficiency and another to provide adequate and safe water in underdeveloped countries.

Real Estate Today By Realtor A.R. DeVelis ON JOINT OWNERSHIP

It's the usual thing for a husband to own property jointly with his wife. That's the way they ordinarily own their home. Have you ever realized why?

The whole essence of this type of ownership is that in case of death, the surviving spouse automatically becomes the sole owner of the entire estate and thus probate is avoided.

But - so you won't be in for a shock - while probate is avoided by use of the joint estate, federal death taxes are not. When one joint owner dies, his estate is taxed according to his share of the original cost. A contribution toward the original purchase by the surviving owner must be clearly proved; otherwise the entire estate tax will apply.

In many states (including Massachusetts) homes actually occupied by the husband and wife are completely exempt from state inheritance taxes in the case of joint ownership.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

Dr. Wilson Addresses Congress

Dr. William L. Wilson of 8 Oneida rd. has returned from London, where he was invited to address the Third International Orthodontic Congress. Queen Elizabeth was patron of the worldwide congress which convened in London's Royal Festival Hall with an agenda of the diagnosis and treatment of children's dental facial deformities. Orthodontists, clinicians, researchers and educators from more than 50 countries convened to hear research and clinical papers dealing with the current concepts of orthodontic treatment. Dr. Wilson addressed the congress presenting a paper on "Multi-directional Orthodontic Treatment" describing a broad spectrum approach to treatment with emphasis on diagnostic factors which qualify treatment planning for the orthodontic patient.

The paper was sequel to previous presentations at meetings of the American Association of Orthodontists in New Orleans and Denver, Colo. Wilson is the author of numerous articles on orthodontic treatment published in scientific journals. He is post-doctoral lecturer on orthodontics at Harvard University School of Dental Medicine and has also been a visiting lecturer.

Roll Call In Congress

Here's how members of Congress voted on roll calls through Sept. 12.

House
Export controls: Passed, 220 for, 133 against, a bill to increase the President's control of the export of agricultural and lumber products. Presently critical domestic shortages and domestic inflation must exist before exports can be controlled.

Rep. Torbert Macdonald voted "yea." Rep. Thomas O'Neill did not vote.

Veto sustained: Failed, 273 for, 144 against, to override President Nixon's veto of the Emergency Medical Services bill. Two-thirds majority was needed. The bill would have provided $185 million over three years for training ambulance drivers and hospital emergency room workers.

O'Neill and Macdonald voted "yes."

Wine: Passed, 248 for, 151 against, a bill to knock out state laws that permit higher taxes on licensing fees for distributing wines produced out-of-state.

O'Neill and Macdonald voted "yea."

Access to information: Struck, 213 for and 185 against, a proposal giving Congress the power to force the State Department and related agencies, such as the US Information Agency, to provide certain congressional committees with internal documents and communications relating to foreign policy.

O'Neill and Macdonald voted "nay."

Senate

Radio Free Europe: Rejected, 29 for, 56 against, an amendment to cut federal funding of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty by 50 percent in fiscal 1975. Presently they receive about 97 percent of their funding from the government.

Sen. Edward Kennedy and Edward Brooke voted "nay."

Social Security: Passed, 58 for, 31 against, a new timetable for implementing a 5.9 percent cost-of-living increase in Social Security benefits. The action, which came as an amendment to a civil service retirement benefit bill, advances the effective date of a previously passed increase from next July 1 to the day the measure becomes law.

Kennedy and Brooke voted "yea."

Mass transit: Passed, 53 for, 33 against, a bill to underwrite operating expenses of local urban mass transit systems, both bus and rail. The bill authorized $800 million to be doled out over the next two years on a formula of two federal dollars for one matching local dollar.

Brooke voted "yea." Kennedy did not vote.

The Winchester Star Challenge Bowl and the Team-of-Four Championship were won by long-time members and perennial workers of the club. Peggy and Phil Cade teamed with Miggs and Darrell Root.

It was a big field and a close one, the 10 teams behind first place bunched within five points.

Above average teams were:

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cade, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Root, 32

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cincotta, Tom Walsh, George Viens, 28

Anthony Ferdinand, Charles Dyjak, Tom Barry, Don Howard, 28

Mr. and Mrs. James Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Enge, 27

Carl Galante Jr., Carl Fisher, Edmund Joyce, Mike Scherrer, 27

Dr. and Mrs. Blackler, Frank Lombardo, William Banks, 25

Nancy Atkinson, Barbara Shea, Cathy Alexander, Paul Portanova, 25

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynch, Mary Shannon, Catherine Havican, 25

Ruth Flanagan, Natalie Kouyoumjian, Leo and Frank Gonsalves, 25

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Malkin, Ruth Jackson, Helen Mahoney, 24

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mansfield, Constance Brown, Irving Brown, 24

Section B was run as a one-winner Howell movement, Steve Linehan kindly calling the moves. In first place was Dave Miller and Dennis Dawson, who also took on the chore of scoring.

High-placing pairs were:

Dennis Dawson and David Miller, 48½

Max Goodman and Ed Beckman, 47½

Marcia Lenhoff and Steve Linehan, 45

Mrs. Jack Hoffman and Mrs. Henry Lewin, 42

Mr. Jack Hoffman and Mr. Henry Lewin, 41½

One of the special excitements of team play came during the second half of the movement when you could see on the traveler how your team-mates fared with the same hand, playing in the opposite direction, of course.

For example, Board 28, North-South vulnerable, West the dealer, provided both problem and suspense.

NORTH
S - J 10 9 8 6 2
H - 9
D - K 4 3 2
C - 7 5

WEST

EAST

D - Q 10 9 5
C - K 4

SOUTH
H - 6 5
D - A 8 6
C - A J 6 3

At one table East bid 1H, South doubled for takeout, West bid 2H, North saying 2S. Then the seesaw began between East and South; how many times do you go up before doubling?

At this table East finally bid 6H over South's 5S and was doubled.

In the play, North-South take two diamond tricks and the Ace of clubs to collect 300 points. Feeling fairly confident, they open the score slip and find that the North-South of the competing team played the hand at 4S, making 620; so—one board lost.

Here are some other two-way results. At one table, the hand was played both times by East at 5H doubled, down one, for a tie.

Once it was 5H doubled down one the first time played and 6H doubled down two the second.

And the kicker; one tied board was at 5H doubled, making five both times. By very careful play East can go after the club suit instead of diamonds, figuring South for both honors, therefore discarding two diamonds on the clubs, and ruffing two diamonds, thus losing only one diamond and one club.

Clock Turns Backward 400 Years As Church Lets Laity Give Communion

Nine lay men and women including two nuns, will serve holy communion at St. Eulalia's Church beginning Sunday.

According to Msgr. Joseph Lyons, assistance by lay persons in distribution of holy communion, as recommended by the Boston diocese and Cardinal Humberto Medeiros with backing from Rome, gives greater personal involvement of laity in liturgical celebration and provides for distribution of communion (the coming together of celebrants) to greater numbers.

The concept is not new, says Father Lyons. "It is a renewal of a practice that has been used throughout history at various stages." Though it has been about 400 years since the practice has been employed, except in times of famine or war, "it certainly is not unknown," Father Lyons said.

He reports that he and Father Paul J. Lynch along with Raymond Rabatsky, deacon, are in favor of lay involvement. "It is heartening," says Father Lyons, "that in recent months 80 to 90 percent of the parishioners at St. Eulalia's are coming forward for communion."

"More people are accepting the priesthood of the laity and that baptism initiates people into intimate roles of the church."

The lay men and women will bear the designation "extraordinary ministers of communion." They are required to be upstanding Catholics, morally responsible and able to be faithful to their duties.

Father Lyons points out they will not only distribute communion at masses but will visit the sick.

Those selected at St. Eulalia's were picked by the liturgical committee of the parish with assistance by the priests and the parish council.

They include Stephen J. Beirne, director of religious education in the parish; Sr. Marie Doyle, who is involved in Teachable Moments of the parish and ecumenical adult education; Mrs. Nicholas (Gloria M.) Fitzgerald, president of the parish council and involved in education; Harry Foden, past president of the parish council and member of the Inter-faith Council on Winchester; Sr. Veronica Hanratty, a Medical Missionary of Mary who has had experience in the African mission field; Anne M. King, lector and member of the Liturgical Committee of the Parish Council; Raymond C. McLaughlin, lector and member of the Liturgical Committee of the Parish Council; John J. Romeo, liaison for teenager and adults of the parish; and Patricia J. Waterman, involved in work with

Planning Hearing

Rangeley Road Dissension Dominates Public Meeting

Planning Board Chairman Otto E. Schaefer defended his board's recommendations for two apartment zones in Winchester Center as necessary, logical and timely during a three-and-a-half-hour hearing Monday night.

Other officials and residents argued that apartments are aesthetically distasteful, the recommended 80-foot height out of proportion to the rest of Winchester Center and of benefit only to developers.

The hearing was called to gather public comment on four articles the Planning Board is asking the Oct. 18 special town meeting to approve. One article is for adoption of a new zoning by-law for all the town.

Another is for establishment of a small "conservancy" district (public use) on Waterfield road. The remaining two articles—establishment of two apartment zones in the center—took up the bulk of Monday's discussion.

About 75 persons were present. Of these, a majority appeared to be from the Rangeley road area, one of the apartment sites. They were solidly united in opposition.

John D. Hamilton Jr. of 34 Rangeley rd. commented on the argument that apartments are necessary to upgrade the center: "Why in the face of the experience we've seen in Belmont and Lexington, rather than put apartments in the center, don't we concentrate on parking?"

Schaefer argued that there is evidence Winchester has enough parking for its immediate future needs. He also said Wellesley has permitted "a substantially mid-rise in the center of town."

Hamilton countered that Wellesley's height limit is 40 feet and "he remains offended by 80 feet." The board is recommending 80-foot heights for apartments on the Main street site, which is bounded by Main, Park, Vine and Lake streets.

The other site, which is recommended for 40-foot limitations, is bounded by the B&M tracks, Waterfield road and a buffer zone adjacent to portions of Rangeley road and Church street.

Selectman John J. Sullivan questioned why the Rangeley road site wasn't included in an apartment zone two years ago when the Planning Board first attempted to update Winchester's zoning by-law, which dates to 1924.

Schaefer answered that the site was originally included and then dropped because of an access problem. But, he said, that problem has now been corrected with the inclusion of a conservancy district over the Waterfield road parking lot.

He also argued that the board's consultant considers the Rangeley road site part of the center. The fate of the town, he said, doesn't hinge on Rangeley having apartments. "But this would help stabilize the residential character of the Rangeley area."

exceptional children and education activities.

This Sunday at the 10 a.m. mass, with their families on the scene, the new "ministers of communion" will participate. In subsequent weeks, on a rotating basis, they will serve at one Saturday mass and two Sunday masses.

St. Mary's Church and the Immaculate Conception Parish were contacted by The Star to learn if their parishioners would be involved in a similar plan. According to spokesmen, they will not, the latter saying "because there is no need."

He said covenants have been prepared with the owners to place parking underground, limit the units to 120 and retain a single-family house lot between the site and Rangeley road.

Town Meeting Member Clara Hewis asked how many property owners within the Main street-proposed apartment site have the required footage and setbacks to build apartments.

Board member William Holland said there are 22 separate owners, but only one appears to have the required 20,000 square-foot minimum to build.

Hamilton commented that it is "unusual to rezone so many different parcels without a redevelopment project." Schaefer countered that passage of the by-law might attract a developer willing to buy the necessary property to construct apartments.

Main street landowner James Cullen opposed inclusion of his business property in an apartment zone "because it will put my property in a non-conforming use."

Schaefer answered that property owners would get a fair value on their land. He said current tax assessments of $1.5 million for that area would increase to $7 million if apartments were built "with no increase in services to the town."

He estimated about 415 units could be constructed on those five acres, now primarily zoned business, with some residential.

Schaefer spoke of pressure on the board from many sources to get apartments in town. Young persons and the elderly "every year are forced to leave because they don't want to keep up a big house and have no place to move."

Lifelong residents of Winchester, he said, including former selectmen and heads of boards, and the state legislature "which believes there is a metropolitan housing problem" were reasons for the board's recommendations.

Holland said it's not up to the Planning Board to decide that people in Winchester can't live in apartments. "The Planning Board is giving people a choice."

Arthur Kerman of 37 Rangeley road argued that apartments "can't take care of everyone who retires."

Selectman Lawrence T. Smith endorsed the new zoning by-law and called "apartment districts an important addition" but added that mixing the proposal for two apartment zones and adoption of the by-law at the same town meeting creates controversy.

In general remarks Schaefer said the board has been working on the by-law since 1965, that the present law contains ambiguities and contradicts the town's building laws and the board opposes mixed use because "mixed use hasn't produced good

Man Dies, Son Hurt In Separate Crashes

A 69-year-old Winchester man was killed early Sunday morning when the car he was driving slammed into a pole on Pond street across from the Woburn parkway.

James F. Mawn of 51 Forest st. died an hour after the accident at Winchester Hospital.

His son, John E., 34, of 6 Sunnyside rd., Woburn, was seriously injured Monday in a head-on collision at Lockeland road and Ridge street.

John Mawn is at Winchester Hospital with facial and mouth injuries. The hospital lists him in fair condition.

The elder Mawn was driving east on Pond st. Sunday at 12:30 a.m. when his car struck a pole at the corner of Chesterford rd., across from the parkway. The force of the impact nearly severed the pole. There were no skid marks on the street, which at the time of the accident was slick from a shower.

Arriving police officers Theodore W. Yeaneopolis and Franklin P. R. Bartlett found Mawn unconscious and bleeding from the nose. He was pinned under the steering wheel.

Winchester and Woburn police and Winchester Fire Department rescue truck personnel helped extract Mawn from the extensively damaged car.

Arrival in the Winchester Hospital emergency room was at 12:45 a.m. He died at 1:25 a.m. Officer Bartlett assisted the nurses and doctor in administering heart message and artificial breathing.

Medical Examiner Dr. Harry L. Benson said Mawn died of multiple fractures and injuries. He said it had not been determined if a heart attack preceded the accident.

The mishap involving John Mawn occurred Monday at 12:25 p.m. in front of the West Side fire station. He was driving north on Ridge street after coming out of Lockeland road when the car was in collision with a car going south on Ridge street driven by Ralph E. Bates, 42, of 15 Vinson cir.

Another Mawn son, Thomas F., died April 17 of this year of an electrical shock from a falling wire in Nashua, N.H., where he was working as an equipment operator. He lived at 32 Stevens st.

The elder Mawn was the father of Kevin P. Mawn of North Reading, a police officer with the Winchester Police Department.

He also leaves his wife, Anna M. (Oliver); his other sons, James F. Mawn Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., Richard A. of Winchester, Peter M. of North Reading, Joseph B. of Northampton; his daughters, Patricia Ann Brazee of Chelmsford, M. Judith Murphy of Burlington, Marilyn Jeffrey of Acton; his brother, John F. and sister, Gertrude McCarron, both of Winchester.

Mr. Mawn was a supervisor with H. P. Hood Co. for 35 years before his retirement nine years ago. He was a past exalted ruler, Winchester Lodge of Elks; past grand knight, Winchester Knights of Columbus, and was active in both organizations.

He was a native of Winchester and lived here all his life.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Lane Funeral Home. A funeral mass was celebrated yesterday at St. Mary's Church.

Contributions in the memory of Mr. Mawn may be made to the Massachusetts Elks Scholarship Fund in care of the Winchester Lodge, 375 Cambridge st.

Elderly, Town Employees, Flu Isn't For You

The Winchester Board of Health will conduct a flu clinic for all town employees and, for the first time, Winchester senior citizens Oct. 3 at 3:30 p.m. and Nov. 28 at 3:30 p.m.

According to board chairman Dr. Lawrence J. Quigley Jr., this eighth annual influenza immunization clinic will be free to residents 65 years of age and older.

The clinic previously was open only to town employees. "If a person has not received the influenza vaccine at all, he or she will have to have two injections at about a two-month interval to be fully immunized," according to a Board of Health announcement.

"If a person received a booster dose last year, he or she will require only one booster dose this year."

"Any person who is allergic to eggs should not participate in this clinic," the announcement continued. "All town employees are urged to avail themselves of this influenza immunization clinic."

The town's Senior Service Corps is arranging for transportation for elderly persons who require a ride on either or both of the Wednesday afternoon clinics. Senior citizens may telephone the senior service line, 729-2111, to make transportation arrangements or for other information.

Officer Catches Pair After House Entered

The case of two men arrested last Friday morning in Winchester for breaking and entering and possession of dangerous weapons was continued Tuesday in Woburn District Court.

Joseph Bovo, 27, of Lexington and Michael Sullivan, 19, of Boston were apprehended walking on Cambridge street after police received a report from Mrs. Elizabeth Pezaris of 16 High st. that her home had been broken into.

Mrs. Pezaris said she left home at 10:30 and returned earlier than usual at 10:50 and heard noises.

Officer Richard W. Fisher, who a short time later spotted the suspects on Cambridge st., said two men apparently jumped out a bathroom window onto a roof and then 15 feet to the ground, where they fled into the woods behind the house.

Fisher, on radar patrol duty, responded at 10:50 in one car while Officer Joseph N. Perritano responded in another. Perritano said a resident of Taft drive said he saw two men go through the woods toward Cambridge street.

Perritano radioed Fisher, who turned south on Cambridge street and spotted two men near Everett avenue looking over their shoulders.

Bovo was arraigned later that day on charges of breaking and entering in the daytime, possession of burglary tools and possession of a dangerous weapon (a knife), Sullivan on breaking and entering in the day and possession of a dangerous weapon (a knife).

The judge ordered innocent pleas entered and committed them to the Billerica House of Correction in lieu of $1,000 bail pending trial Tuesday.

The men were bailed Monday. According to the police, however, Sullivan defaulted on his court appearance and the case was continued until Oct. 11.

In another recent case, Richard Devlin, 31, of Somerville, was arrested on a charge of passing a bogus check at the Winchester Trust Co. Aug. 24.

An investigation was conducted by Lt. William William Haggerty and Sgt. Roland Roy and Devlin was arrested in Amesbury last week. He was held in $2,000 bail for a court appearance Oct. 5.

Wedge Fish Die--Why?

The case of how fish in Wedge Pond died seems to be a mystery.

Eyewitnesses have seen hundreds of dead fish in the pond; a member of the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control was in town Monday night and saw eight or nine dead fish; the town was sprayed against mosquitoes Sept. 16, and shortly thereafter some of the citizenry, mostly town employees, began sighting hundreds of dead fish.

Charles Scerpa of Lake St. called The Star office to report that Wedge Pond "is stinking." He said he believed the 200 dead sunfish died as a result of a DC-3 which flew over town a week ago last Sunday spraying against mosquitoes. He said the plane made some low passes over the pond.

According to the local Board of Health office, Park Department employees began reporting dead fish in the pond the end of last week. The department, in turn, reported the problem to the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control.

Sabin Lord of that office told The Star on Tuesday he was in Winchester Monday night. He reports having taken water samples and seeing about eight or nine dead fish in the pond.

He said it is difficult to determine what caused the problem. It could be one of three reasons, he guessed:

1. Something detrimental was let loose upstream and killed the fish in its path downstream;
2. The spraying of mosquitoes by the state Department of Public Health infected the fish life of the pond;
3. There was a natural "overtown."

Lord described an overtown as a natural phenomenon occurring at the end of summer when weather causes water to cool. He said water at its densest is at 39 degrees. As the temperature change moves along the water and the entire body reaches the same degree, he said, a slight movement on top can cause the lake or pond to actually "flip over." When this occurs, dirty bottom layers work their way to the top and sometimes kill fish. Lord said he feels it is too early in the season for this to have happened, but it is a possibility.

He concluded by saying he was under the impression that a representative from the state Fish and Game Division had been called to Winchester to investigate. He referred The Star to a Fish and Game office for more information.

Eric Weiss, Star photographer, was walking his dog Monday when he met a man who said he was an employee of the state Fish and Game Division in Winchester. Weiss said the fellow was here to take tests, but when The Star contacted two offices of the Fish and Game Division (one in Westboro, the other in Acton) there was no factual information gained.

Colton Bridges of the Westboro office knew nothing of the dead fish and said no one from his office had been to Winchester. Two of his associates, however, were not in the office.

Bridges said he would question them on their return and would call The Star if he had any information to report.

Jack Dixon of the Northeast Acton office of the state Fish and Game Division said he knew nothing of the Winchester case, but it sounded to him as if it may have been caused by mosquito spraying.

He said the chemical used by the state to spray mosquitoes offers a two-day life span to anything afflicted. The chemical breaks down almost immediately but after a long period of time, as in the Winchester situation, "there is no way of tracing it." He noted the same chemical is used, under controlled conditions, to minimize fish populations in bodies of water.

Dixon said he could send a crew out to Winchester but all he would accomplish is to spend time and money. "We have to examine fish soon after they are contaminated or around time of death."

Dixon said he doubts "there is a total kill at Wedge Pond" even if hundreds of fish died, adding the pond probably has a population of half a million.

He said he felt public health personnel took every precaution as they sprayed to kill mosquitoes. But at this stage of the game there is no way of tracing the cause of death; in a situation like this "finding a scapegoat" is usually the quest.

He felt making a concerted effort to kill mosquitoes through spraying at the end of the summer was "bowing to political pressure and panic."

He said the only mosquito he saw in September was one "in my home and I got him. Why not kill all the horses too?" he asked. All it did, he said, was "make a good show."

Returning to the Winchester incident, Dixon said "in the long run it is usually the community which must solve the problem."

The best time to put in a lawn is fall! The best one to put in a lawn is the Lawn-A-Mat man!

From his successful experience on over one million lawns coast to coast the Lawn-A-Mat man knows that Fall seeding is best because:

1. Fall is the seeding time for 15 of 22 seed grasses including Kentucky Blue grass and Fescues, the two best kind of lawn grasses.
2. Lawn seed sprouts fastest in cool weather, grows faster too. The Lawn-A-Mat man knows that grass is essentially a cool weather plant.

Fall is the time of year when the lawn's enemies, the hot sun, heat bugs and weeds are on the wane. He agrees with experts who say that Fall is the best time to start a lawn you can be proud of, one that will probably require less expense than you are putting into your present lawn.

Just as Fall is the best time to put in a lawn, the Lawn-A-Mat man is the best man to put in that lawn. Lawn-A-Mat has put in more than one million lawns and has more lawn care professionals from coast to coast than any other service. His Lawn-A-Mat seed and chemicals are the highest quality equal to the best you can buy at most garden centers. This means that you get more for your money in the Fall. The Lawn-A-Mat man is offering you Fall Specials to save you even more.

He will do all the work and it will cost you no more than if you did it yourself. All you do is buy the high quality Lawn-A-Mat products and the work will be done free!

Take your choice of two Fall Specials or ask your Lawn-A-Mat man about the Annual Greenskeeper Program.

Update

Chapin Street

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It is time to bring you up-to-date on the long, arduous and often frustrating attempts to "recycle" Winchester Center. Much is soon to happen, and we feel it is critical that all citizens and town groups be fully informed.

Our position will continue to be that Winchester Center should be a business district, a social center, a town government and civic center, and a shopping center.

We urge more pedestrian and pedestrian emphasis, more and better parking, more housing, more attention to design and graphics—in general, a physically more dynamic and exciting look, while at the same time serving residents' needs and preserving the human scale and charm of the best of Winchester.

Where appropriate, renewal should be cosmetic; where necessary, it will have to be more fundamental. Above all, any center zoning should be flexible in both concept and physical form.

To this end we will petition for the inclusion in the November or December fall 1973 special town meeting of an article for multi-purpose use of the central business district.

As an additional aid to downtown renewal we have initiated and endorsed the concept of an architectural review commission which we feel would safeguard the interests of the town by providing assurance for high standards in building and sign design. We urge speedy action by town officials on the recommendations soon to be made by the Design and Architectural Review Committee for setting up such a commission.

But especially we are asking townspeople to be aware of and to possibly support the Winchester Business Association zoning proposals. We feel strongly that this kind of zoning would accomplish much and prevent the continued decay of Winchester Center.

Registration

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last week's Star carried a large story about the Marriage and Family Life Institute which is being conducted as part of the Winchester Adult Education program this fall. The headline of the article mistakenly indicated that last Friday was the deadline for registration. I would like to correct that impression.

The institute, which will begin on Oct. 16, will be open to registration up until that date. There will also be an opportunity to register the first night of the program at Winchester High School.

Dr. Merle Jordan, professor and counselor at Boston University, is known for his informative and involving presentations. The subject matter, the relationships we establish in a marriage or family, is important to the welfare of the whole community.

Because of the importance of this program, I felt it was necessary to assure anyone who was interested but not yet registered that they would still be able to attend the program. Further information can be found in the ad elsewhere in this issue.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We would like to express our deep appreciation to the members of the Winchester Fire Department who worked so hard to save our home during the recent fire there.

Everyone should be aware of and thankful for these men who protect our community.

Doris and Nick Dizio and family

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am glad to see The Star take an interest in the affair of Chapin street and other such areas. However, your article on Thursday, Sept. 20, 1973, concerning Chapin st. should be clarified.

As for the three court cases which Mr. Ronzio mentioned, I believe if you check the record you will find that two involved automobile accidents and the third property damage to poles we had placed alongside the area in question. All these cases were dismissed.

As for Mr. Ronzio's claim he has had no words with us, it would be heavenly if it were so. But on many occasions he has screamed and yelled at me and my family. I must say, since our last court appearance and since he has removed all the poles alongside our property, he hasn't said much to us.

I had written to the Board of Appeals and the selectmen about an unlicensed vehicle reported to the local police parked alongside our property. However, there have been and are other problems on this street which should be looked into with are caused by Ronzio's garage.

They have to do with drainage, the parking of trucks there, holes on the street which fill with rain, beer cans and trash left alongside the area in question, unauthorized persons backing into our driveway, blocking our driveway and at times parking in our driveway.

Our requests they move are ignored and remarks made to us. Other problems involve oil and grease spilled on the street which is tracked into homes in the area and the parking of cars on private property.

Perhaps some of these problems are not considered illegal. However, these certainly are conditions the town should not expect the people to tolerate.

Butterflies

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have read about the mass migrations of the Monarch butterfly but have never been fortunate enough to see them gathered en masse. I read recently that this phenomenon had occurred a week or two ago in the Cape Ann area. A friend who lives down that way says that he was privileged to see it and he was quite impressed.

In Winchester Medford and, probably throughout New England as well, this same migration has been going on for several weeks now, although as far as I know it has not been en masse. Usually during the warm part of the day I will see three or four single and solitary individuals per hour, all fluttering their way toward the southwest. Even on days when the wind seems to be fairly strong for these little creatures, they still flap their way along, always, as I say, toward the southwest in this area. Now and then one will stop to visit a flower, hoping no doubt to live off the land on his 1500 or 2000 mile journey to Florida or Texas, or wherever it is that it will spend the winter months.

The ones that I have seen close enough for me to examine them have all been fat and shiny individuals, in perfect color and with perfect wings—not yet torn and tattered as we sometimes find them in the spring. I believe their's a one-year life span; they come back next year to breed and then die.

If you see one of these beautiful red and black creatures, try to determine if it, too, is heading on a general southwest course. All that I have seen lately are heading that way.

Gubernatorial Candidate

Sargent, With Courage, Independence Front Runner In Very Crowded Race

By Kenneth P. Trevett

with research assistance by Barbara K. Favout

Dignified, gracious, a sense of style—Francis Sargent is everyone's image of a Massachusetts governor. His mannerisms are a long way from the casual "Hi, how are ya?" tradition of Beacon Hill politics.

The 59-year-old Sargent has impressed Massachusetts voters with his honesty and open-mindedness, and his popularity—while somewhat shaken in recent months—has remained high since he first took office in 1969.

To date, the governor has successfully straddled the awkward rapids of being a Republican in an overwhelmingly Democratic state. While he has not formally announced his candidacy for 1974, he is expected to run for re-election.

Gov. Sargent has an impressive governmental background. He has held 12 different positions in federal and state government, including commissioner of both the Natural Resources and Public Works Departments. Prior to his work in state service, he was an architect and the owner of a Cape Cod sporting goods store. Besides numerous honorary degrees, he received a special degree in architecture from MIT in 1939.

The governor faces a possible challenge in his own party ranks in the coming elections, an unusual occurrence among unified Republicans. Middlesex County Sheriff John Buckley has announced tentative plans to seek the governor's chair. Responding to this intra-party challenge, Sargent during our interview commented, "I appointed Sheriff Buckley, and I think he's done a creditable job, but I don't know how he'd do in the big leagues."

Adding to his re-election headaches, Sargent faces some formidable Democratic opponents, among whom could be Edward King, executive director of Massport. If King chooses to run, he will draw support from the business community, traditionally the focus of Republican fund-raising efforts.

But despite the challenges, the governor indicated he likes the job and wants to remain in office. "I'm proud of what we've done here, but I recognize that there are many, many controversies. And if you're in the governor's chair...you are bound to have offended some groups. I think if I run and I expect that I will expect to win. I would run very hard."

BUSINESS CLIMATE

Particularly worrisome to Gov. Sargent are potential election year conflicts with the monied and influential business community. He has clashed with businessmen over his support of the graduated income tax referendum and the extent of executive control over operations at Logan Airport. His problems have been exacerbated by the closing of the Boston Navy Yard and the continually high unemployment rate in the Commonwealth.

"We've been going through a very difficult time in Massachusetts in relation to employment. We've lost the traditional industries that we've had in textiles, shoes, and so on," the governor stated. "We've been hurt by the cut-backs in military contracts along Route 128 and in the area that your paper represents. And on top of that, we've had the defense plant closings. The initial impact of that would be very serious."

"We've taken a variety of different initiatives to try to have a reconversion program that will make sense," Sargent explained, "so that we will get maximum use of these facilities for the future. If we wisely use them, if we wisely plan, the closing of these installations can be a great opportunity for Massachusetts. Think of the many ways which the Boston Navy Yard could be used—by private enterprise—for Massachusetts."

"Secondly, we've led the way in fighting for legislation that will have a long-range impact on the economy of this state. It will grant to industry certain tax advantages so that they would expand here and provide more job opportunities."

"There is one package that we have been working on very hard that will provide $500 deductions on corporate taxes for each series of persons taken off the welfare and unemployment compensation rolls."

The governor went on to say that businessmen have not fully recognized the benefits of being in the Bay State. "Businessmen have got to start looking at the advantages we have in this area and not just look for a fall guy. They must stop forever singing gloom about the economy in Massachusetts."

REORGANIZATION

Reorganization of the state bureaucracy is the number one priority the governor has set for himself. The conflicts and debate has proposals have engendered have considerably heated the political atmosphere at the State House this year.

Democrats, while unwilling to totally condemn the Sargent reorganization plans, have opposed changes within certain departments. House Speaker David Bartley has specifically denounced the governor's efforts to sell his reorganization to the public as a potential tax saver.

Responding to this charge, the governor admits "taxes are not going to go down materially in the coming years." He insists, however, that his reorganization will stem the rising costs of government.

"The cost of state government has gone up 15 percent to 20 percent every single year," Sargent emphasized. "The budget we submitted this year—based on reorganization—would go up 2 percent. I maintain that we can level off spending by eliminating 150 boards, by eliminating 2,000 jobs, but more particularly, by having a more efficient, more effective government."

"Every single unit of government - and we have two or three hundred units - every year asks for a little bit more money to assume more responsibilities. Nobody has ever said, 'Wait a minute, why are we even performing that service?' We are saying, 'Let's eliminate some of these agencies and boards and commissions that no longer serve a useful purpose! It is important to the taxpayer and important to all people.'"

TRANSPORTATION

Gov. Sargent has made a prominent name for himself among other governors by his forceful advocacy of mass transportation vs. the continued construction of super highways. He was selected by his colleagues to lobby in Congress for legislation to open the national highway trust fund to uses other than highway development.

His efforts in Washington were recently rewarded when Congress enacted a bill which would provide millions of dollars for the development and operation of mass transit facilities, Massachusetts is a prominent beneficiary of the new legislation.

Given the changing attitudes about transportation, we inquired about the future of commuter rail service in Winchester. "We have got to improve our commuter rail," Sargent stated. "It should be on time, it should be faster, it should be air-conditioned. This will call for major expenditures."

"I have been acquiring right-of-way so that the day will come, I hope, when private enterprise will operate the service over government-owned right-of-way and trackage. We have proposed a major program of assuming 50 percent of the deficit for all of the cities and towns in relation to transit."

"Our reorganization plan calls for major

Letter From The Editor

Winchester 73

Nearly everyone who lives in Winchester wants to keep the town as it is - a pleasant residential community a short distance from all the excitement of Boston, much of it without much of the noise, pollution, crime and social problems of Boston.

Most of the newer residents of Winchester moved here because they liked the town. Older persons stay here for the same reason. The town has a good school system, a responsive (though sometimes slow to act) government, plenty of green spaces to calm the eye and mind, little crime, friendly neighbors and quiet streets.

Winchester is almost a quaint community, with its small-town New England atmosphere, beautifully maintained Common and well-kept recreational areas. Most everyone in Winchester likes Winchester. As it is.

But there are those who see a frightening sign of change in the downtown section—a deterioration in the quality of the business area, the heart of Winchester.

Ironically, to keep the town as much like Winchester as possible—that is, to prevent further decline—we have to change. It doesn't have to be as drastic a change as that South Vietnamese town which was destroyed in order to save it.

But it has to be a change major enough to alter the traditional appearance of the town. We have to face the fact that what has worked in the center up until some years ago isn't working any longer. And the Winchester Center of a few years ago isn't going to come back by itself.

The town needs a shot in the arm (or kick in the pants). Nearly everyone in the town government recognizes the downward trend of the center. The Planning Board and the Winchester Business Association are the only two groups to come up with concrete ideas.

And their ideas have to do with some concrete: build apartments. The two groups differ in the where's and how's. But essentially both argue for small-scale (80-foot maximum height) buildings in and near the center. Such apartments could have many beneficial results.

The young and elderly wouldn't be forced to move out of Winchester because they can't afford single homes; the town tax base would increase without a large increase in services; there would be more shoppers to insure a healthy business center and some of the decayed buildings in the center would be removed. Those who oppose this plan should have an alternative in mind (and we haven't heard one) because the center cannot go on declining as it has without the rest of the town being adversely affected. As a local concerned citizen said recently, "When the center thrives, the town thrives."

Businesses help keep the tax rate down. When taxes go up, people are forced to move. Houses are divided into apartments. Store fronts become empty. Each loss contributes to another loss and the downward spiral is unchecked. Before you know it urban renewal is the only solution.

Some may say that Winchester can't have a working business center because of competition from shopping malls. That's not a sound argument because Lexington, closer to the Burlington mall than Winchester, has a thriving shopping center. Others say we are too close to Boston. Yet the distance between Winchester and Boston has always been the same and the square in Winchester once was healthy. Besides, it probably takes more time now to drive to Boston than it did 10 years ago.

As Planning Board Chairman Otto Schaefer said the other night, Winchester has already changed, and will continue to change. If we want to be sure the change is for the good we've got to exercise some control.

A special town meeting, probably in December, will be asked to create a design and architectural review commission to oversee construction in the business areas. The members of the commission would see to it that nothing hideous goes up in Winchester.

The year of 1973 could be a turning point for Winchester if the October 18 special town meeting passes the apartment zoning for Winchester Center. If it doesn't, it should be prepared to accept responsibility for the continued economic decline here or at least come up with some ideas on how to improve conditions.

The long Planning Board hearing the other night was almost monopolized by residents of the area of Rangleway road, one of the two areas in the center being recommended for apartment use. At times it seemed almost as if the bloc of residents from that area were attempting a filibuster, repeating the same questions and asking Chairman Schaefer unrelated questions and making broad "philosophical" remarks.

With one small slip, Schaefer took it all with remarkable calm and patience, keeping his composure through the exhaustive grilling.

You have to admire the courage of the Planning Board in proposing apartments near Rangleway road, an area of wealthy and influential citizens who apparently unanimously oppose the idea to construct a four-story apartment building of 120 units.

It will be a shame if the residents of one small area of the town defeat a proposal which stands to benefit the entire town. Some officials feel the Planning Board should have held off proposing any specific apartment area until after the new zoning by-law is passed because they feel the town meeting will get hung up discussing these specific areas and possibly defeat the badly needed new by-law.

TMM Albert McDougall was at the Planning Board hearing and recalled the days when the proposed site of the apartments between Waterfield road and Rangleway road was a park with a fountain and pool.

When the present owner bought the land, McDougall said, he filled in the pool and took out the fountain. Maybe what the residents of that area should do is buy the property and turn it into a park if they're really opposed to apartments.

It's kind of odd according to some observers, why Rangleway residents at the hearing spoke against apartments on the other proposed site, on Main street, yet two years ago when apartments were being proposed by the Planning Board for eight areas in town (but not for the Rangleway road site) they weren't heard from.

A picture we printed on this page last week of an illegal tree house on conservation land at Smith Pond has prompted the following response from a reader, Mrs. Arline Emerson:

"Children are only young once. Let them enjoy the tree house to always remember. Better that they are builders rather than destroyers and window breakers. They could be future architects."

Mrs. Emerson went on to ask that if the land is for conservation, then who is it for? "If it is for the people to enjoy, children are people."

School Committee Votes New High School English Program

The Winchester School Committee Monday night voted to change the high school English program and credit system.

The new system, described by Richard Sullivan, director of the high school English department, has been in effect since the beginning of the school year.

According to Sullivan and the 1973-74 Winchester High School Handbook, all college preparatory students, except seniors in advanced placement English, will be involved in the new English program.

The new program, which has required and elective segments, puts more responsibility on students, has students still earning 15 credits over their three years at the high school, and offers greater variety in electives.

Some of the electives include 20th Century American literature, loss of love and innocence, mixed media, popular American culture, witchcraft and the occult, rapid reading and studying, journalism, creative writing, science fiction, romantic poets, children's literature, black literature, television studio and SAT verbal preparation. All electives run for 10 weeks each.

Sophomores have three required quarters, juniors two, seniors one.

Sophomores who pass required English courses earn 3 1/2 credits. They also earn 1 1/4 credits for their elective, thus earning five credits for the total year. A passing grade is D minus or better.

Juniors who pass their two required programs take electives in the third and fourth quarters and earn five more credits.

Seniors take one required program during the first quarter and during the second, third and fourth quarters earn a total of five with three electives.

The program evolved over a three-year period. Students who have trouble passing as sophomores or juniors have their senior year, which is light on required English, to make up required sophomore and junior English. A senior either earns five credits or zero credits, said Sullivan.

He noted a student who fails the first quarter will meet with him in his office. He will take two new electives in the second quarter. There will be a call and possibly a letter to parents, which will continue through the quarters in an effort to assist the student in graduating with proper credits.

Questions of the audience and a few committee members revealed other points. The new system will provide earlier counseling to failing seniors than in previous years; parents have the final say on students' elective choices; Sullivan will be visiting all classrooms and every attempt will be made to communicate the new program. Two student representatives at the meeting spoke favorably of the new program.

"This is the culmination of three years' work," said Larocco, who noted it would take six years to be implemented. "I see this as the last block falling into place."

Mrs. Mary Mears, vice-chairman of the committee, wondered if she had been absent from an earlier meeting when all of this was explained. She said she did not recall voting for this program.

Chairman Harriet Dieterich acknowledged the committee had, in fact, not voted for the program prior to Monday night.

Responding, Larocco referred to earlier meetings and a certain memo which Mrs. Dieterich also acknowledged. Larocco said there must have been a misunderstanding because he was of the impression that as he presented progress reports to the committee the new program was acceptable.

Mrs. Mears asked Supt. of Schools William MacDonald if he supported the new program.

He said yes. With that the committee unanimously voted to accept it. Mrs. Mears closed the matter with the words, "May the good Lord be with you."

Lynch Parents Attend A Tea

Mrs. Charles Haley, president of the Lynch Junior High School Parents' Association, welcomed a sizeable crowd of parents to its annual parent-faculty tea last week.

Robert Fitzgerald, principal, introduced the staff and briefly described some of the new grouping patterns within the school. He also explained the "academic extra" classes which the new teaming patterns allow. These classes eliminate double study halls and provide time for four academic teachers to give extra help where it is needed.

Refreshments were arranged by newly elected social chairman Mrs. Arthur Ferrara, and served by several cadette girl scouts.

Conferences between parents of seventh graders and parents new to the school with the three members of the Lynch guidance department conclude this week.

Oct. 16 has been set as the date for the Lynch "Back to School Night" when parents have an opportunity to follow their youngsters' class schedule and catch the flavor of each of his or her courses.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Guanci

Joan McNally, William Guanci Exchange Vows At St. Mary's

Joan McNally and William Carmen Guanci were married at St. Mary's Church on Aug. 25. The 3:30 p.m. ceremony was performed by Rev. John H. O'Donnell.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frank J. McNally Sr. and the late Mr. McNally of 266 Highland ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Guanci of Arlington.

Given in marriage by her mother and brother, Frank J. McNally Jr., the bride wore a gown of white silk organza featuring pearl clustered re-embroidered Alencon lace at the high neckline, empire waist and lantern sleeves and was fashioned with an A-line skirt and detachable train. Her train was trimmed with Alencon lace and pearls and her camelot headpiece held a chapel length veil.

Ellen McNally, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a hot pink chiffon gown featuring a multicolored bib, and carried a single painted mum to match her gown with multi-colored baby's breath to match the bib.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Judy McNally of 266 Highland ave., sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Mary Kabadian of Menomence, Mich., sister of the bride; Mrs. Marilyn Wright of Arlington, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs.

Martie Cuzzi of Waltham, and Mrs. Pat Groden of Watertown.

They dressed identical to the maid of honor.

Carmen Maggiamico of Medford, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers included cousins of the bridegroom, Paul Maggiamico and Ronny Maggiamico, both of Arlington, and John Goodwin of Billerica; Gary Wright of Arlington, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and Ed Kabadian of Menomence, Mich., another brother-in-law.

Jamie McNally of 266 Highland ave. was flower girl. She wore a white chiffon gown with a ribbon to match the bridesmaids' dresses. She carried a basket of pink and white carnations and multi-colored baby's breath and wore two bands of flowers in her hair.

After a trip to Maine and a cruise to Nassau the couple is living in Medford.

The bride attended Winchester High School and Chandler School for Women. The bridegroom attended Arlington High School and Boston College.

How to get a bigger apartment without moving.

No matter how big your apartment is, it's got one thing in common with everyone else's apartment: It's not big enough.

Well, instead of resigning yourself to cramped quarters, come to our Ethan Allen Gallery and let us show you how to make the most of the space you have.

Our expert home planners can show you how to use mirrors and glass tables to add depth to the smallest living room. How the right lamps and lighting fixtures can create a whole new feeling of spaciousness. How to use color, patterns, fabrics, even accessories to make any room look a lot more roomy.

We'll also show you an ingenious modular system called the Custom Room Plan. With it you can turn a few feet of empty wall space into an office, a library, a home entertainment center or a much-needed storage area that's as beautiful as it is functional.

And of course, we have a complete collection of furniture that cleverly saves space by combining two jobs in one. Like discreet drop leaf tables that open up to seat 8 for dinner. Or beautiful living room sofas that turn into comfortable full size beds at night.

Stop by our store and bring a floor plan if you like. There are dozens of ways to give any apartment or condominium a new feeling of spaciousness and comfort.

And at our Ethan Allen Gallery, we know them all.

Town Tennis: Final Match Is Sunday

By James R. Stewart Jr.

Richard Kadesch Jr. of 15 Mayflower rd. and William Macneill of 18 Symmes rd., individually and with partners, were the prominent names in the final rounds of the Winchester Tennis Tournament that almost came to a conclusion, last weekend.

Almost, because due to rainy weather, early darkness and multiple appearances in the championship events, there were numerous delays in completion of the mixed doubles competition.

Final match of this section will be played next Sunday at 3 p.m. on the William S. Packer Courts, scene of the previous two weekends of play.

Seeded fourth and third, respectively, in the 80-entry main event of men's singles, Kadesch and Macneill upset the experts by coming through some tough competition to meet in the final, won by Kadesch 6-0; 7-6, the second set going into an exciting nine-point tie-breaker in which Macneill fought valiantly but vainly for his racquet life.

The two top competitors met again in the men's doubles where Kadesch, paired with cagy veteran Blair Hawley, eked out a first set over Macneill and his new partner, Bob Gallant, 7-5, and then blew their opponents off the court in the second stanza, 6-0.

Dick ended his two weekend campaigning by achieving the final round in the mixed doubles with Elyse Wilson before darkness Sunday night prevented the last match from being played.

This last act was not easy, though the remarkable team of women's singles champion Sue Cowan and Richard Furr fought to a tenacious double over-time set to against the ultimate winners, succumbing only by 7-6; 7-6 in the quarter finals.

On the distaff side, Sue Cowan of 12 Fenwick rd. successfully defended her women's singles title, but only after a gruelling challenge from Brenda Johnson in the semifinals, 6-1; 5-7; 7-6, wherein Sue was at the brink of defeat in the final set, only to be let off the hook in the last points of the third set tie-breaker. Against her last year's finals opponent, Sue breezed by 6-1; 6-2.

Disaster struck Mrs. Cowen in the women's doubles final when Marie Furr of 41 Cross st. and Sandy Pomeroy of 29 Lakeview rd. outlasted Mrs. Cowen and Joan Richardson, 3-6; 6-2; 7-5, in a match that gave the good crowd of spectators many thrills, as all four girls showed some remarkable "gets" and some plain and fancy shot-making.

Results of the week-end play were as follows:

Di Pak Khaund Wins Jr. Tennis 10 Years Under

The Junior Town Tennis Championships provided a lively weekend for players and spectators despite poor weather as Di Pak Khaund won the boys' 10 years and under title.

Khaund played a strong brand of tennis, defeating Ray Champoux 6-1, 6-2.

Consistency prevailed in the girls' 15 and under games as Dawn Hudson won over Kathy Noble 6-4, 6-3.

Boys' 12 years and under matches showed determination as Mark Aylward outlasted Billy Strazzullo in three sets: 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

Girls' 12 and under was the only final played Saturday as Beth Noble prevailed over Therese Aylward 6-4, 6-2. The pair had earlier played as doubles partners.

Boys doubles were won by Jim Ferrera and Rhys Thomas over Ray Champoux and Rene Gutierrez in a fast display of serves and volleys. Ferrera and Thomas won in straight sets, 6-3, 7-6.

Girls' doubles final was a highly competitive match with Nancy Raleigh and Kathy Noble defeating Dawn Hudson and Carolyn Mooney in three sets: 7-6, 5-7, 6-2. The girls displayed consistent tennis, with most points scored on winning shots rather than mistakes.

Sachem Booters Beat Burlington

Coach Gene Bouley's Winchester High School soccer team completely outclassed the Red Devils of Burlington.

The score does not reflect the completeness of Winchester's domination of play, since many fine chances to score were lost as shots caromed off goal posts. A more definite statistic shows that Burlington never had a single shot on the Sachem nets. The defense led by Ed Shiang and Dave Raphael kept all attackers at bay.

Co-captain John Friborg netted the ball early in the first period when Tom Brennan set him up in front of the goal. Although Winchester constantly pressed the attack it was not until the final period that the second goal came. Tom Brennan drove it home after taking a Peter Frongillo pass.

The junior varsity group badly outclassed the Red Devil reserves as they posted a 7-1 triumph.

Sachems (27) Surprise Raiders (24)

By John F. Parrell

Coach Manny Marshall's Sachems opened their 1973 football season with a bang last Saturday morning by upsetting heavily favored Melrose, 27-24.

It was a disappointing start for the Hoaguen, who were a near unanimous choice of most schoolboy gridiron authorities to go through undefeated and qualify for the Superbowl in Division 2.

The game, originally set for the afternoon, was changed Thursday afternoon to Saturday at 10:30 a.m. and there was no way to notify local rooters except by word of mouth and by contacting Boston papers.

The death of Dr. William G. Marcoux, long-time physician for Melrose teams and prominent in youth hockey, was the reason for the change. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon. With the game played in the morning, players, coaches and Melrose athletic fans could be present.

Those who made the game saw one of the best matched contests in schoolboy history. Some compared it favorably with the famous Boston College game with Georgetown in the late thirties. It was nip and tuck from start to finish, with tri-captain Rudy Fiore of Winchester High School crossing the goal line with the winning points as the score board clock registered just 43 seconds left to play.

Winchester's defense, which seemed to be its strong point in pre-season scrimmages, was stubborn. However, the Raiders are one of the most potent offensive units in the state and captain John Hickey is all that he has been touted to be. He runs hard and well and is the backbone of the attack. Many fans compare him with Raftery, the Wakefield star of a few years ago. Hickey seems definitely headed for high scoring honors and all scholastic choice.

With Hickey leading the way and other strong carriers like Steve Colomey, Gary Buckley and Bob Healey, a defense must be strong to keep them in check. They also have rangy receivers in Ron LaVita and Jim Lyle to complete very adequate aeriels of Charlie Gill, their replacement quarterback.

It is a tribute to the sound Sachem defense that it was able to keep this powerhouse under a steady check, with only one breakaway, by Hickey, who raced 65 yards for the Raiders' second touchdown. The final Melrose tally took four plays to cover the last four yards. It will be a long time before the Sachems face more powerful offensive drives and a team as big as the giant Melrose club.

Two inside kicks by Tony Rogers, both covered by an alert Ron LaVita, kept Winchester in trouble over the first period. Hickey tallied the first touchdown before the Sachems finally got rolling. With a Mike Heffernan to Elliott Miller pass sandwiched between two long sprints by Rudy Fiore, they knotted the score. A placement by Elliott Miller put Winchester in front for a short time, but then came Hickey's masterful 65-yard jaunt for a 12-7 Raider lead.

At midpoint of the second period, Winchester was in possession near the midfield stripe. A pass to Elliott Miller brought the ball to the Melrose 47. Fiore picked up a first down at the home team's 45. On the next play, Fiore swept around his own left side and sped 40 yards down the sidelines before being forced out of bounds.

Two plays later he was in the end zone, and Miller again added the extra point for a 14-12 Winchester lead. The clock showed three minutes left before half time, and the Raiders went right to work and moved the ball to midfield.

However, the Winchester line stiffened, and Melrose was forced to give up the ball with less than a minute to play. The Sachems were not content to rest on their lead and Mike Heffernan took to the air and complete a pass to Elliott Miller and a few seconds later one to Chip Roche. The latter broke a couple of tackles and went into the end zone standing up.

Miller toed another point for a 21-12 half time lead. Hickey, victimized on these aeriels, appeared to be having trouble with his injured foot. Coach Hoague also notice this and altered his defense somewhat in the second half.

Taking the field with a nine point deficit, the Raiders were faced with the necessity of scoring at least two touchdowns. They did get these two scores, but the scrappy Sachems refused to accept defeat and rallied for the victory. Melrose controlled the ball for practically the entire third period. Hickey took the kickoff by Miller, bobbled it, but recovered at the 20. Gary Buckley went for five. Steve Colomey raced all the way to the Melrose 48 for a first down.

Three smashes by Hickey brought a first down at the Winchester 40. A short gain by Hickey and a pass to Lyle set up a first down at the Sachem 29. Bob Healey barreled for a first down at the 14 and then picked up seven more. Charlie Gill sneaked for a first down at the four, and Healey scored. Once again Melrose missed the point. Score: 21-18, with two and one half minutes left in the period.

Once again the Raiders tried the short kickoff, but Steve Johnis snagged it at midfield. Kit Adams injured his leg on this play and was forced out of action. The next play found Winchester offside. John Carzo picked up two yards. A pass from Mike Heffernan was intercepted by Dan Toner for the home

WHSR To Broadcast Sachem-Watertown Game On Saturday

This Saturday WHSR-FM Winchester High School Radio will begin broadcasting sports events for the 73-74 season. Winchester will host Watertown in the first Sachem home clash. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. and WHSR will be there with play by play description by Joe Quinn, a Winchester High school senior. WHSR-FM is 91.9 on the FM dial.

Watertown Faces Winchester Here

Fresh from their hard-earned win over the Red Raiders of Melrose, Winchester's football team faces another Raider invasion this week.

Coach John Bartlett brings his Watertown 11 to Manchester Field Saturday afternoon with kickoff slated for 1:30. Both teams will be fighting for their second victory, since Watertown bested Wakefield in its home opener by a score of 20-6.

The visitors are usually a hard club for the Sachems to beat. The game here two years ago was one of the closest of the Winchester undefeated season. Last year's was a nip and tuck battle all the way with the Raiders coming out on top.

The winning combination for the Raiders last year was sophomore quarterback Charlie Laurie and end John Papis. Both are back again, with Laurie now grown to 6 ft. 1 in. and 185 lb. Papis is 6 ft. 2 in. and 190 lb. Charlie Aiello at fullback is a powerful driving runner whose block busting style accounted for two scores against the Warriors.

The well-coached and hefty invaders will be a hard team to stop. The Sachems can suffer no letdown from their Melrose performance if they are to stay in the league lead.

The probable offensive lineups:

team, launching an eight-minute offensive that found Melrose grinding over the Sachem goal for a 24-21 lead.

The drive included 16 plays, with Hickey lugging nine times, Healey on three, and a vital pass completion by Steve Colomey at the 14 for a first down. The Sachems staged a stern goal-line stand from the four-yard line. It took three smashes by Hickey and one by Healey before the captain squeezed over. This time a pass went awry for the extra points, but Melrose was now in front by 24-21 as the clock showed only 3:54 left. The home team had held the ball for 16 minutes straight, except for the momentary Winchester possession following the kickoff.

It looked like a grim ending for the Sachems as they lined up for the kickoff. Few fans and even some of the players figured there any chance as the clock ticked relentlessly. On the boot by Rogers went to Rudy Fiore, who ran hard from the 10 to the 23.

Vin Palumbo went for three, Mike Heffernan added six, but a penalty set Winchester back after Fiore made the first down. On the next play a breakaway made a first down at the 44. The clock now showed 2:31 to go. A short gain moved the ball to the 40.

After a pass failed, Mike Heffernan threw to Fiore, and it was a Winchester first down at the 19. Mike Heffernan went for a first down at the seven, a line play made only one, and then Fiore galloped untouched into the end zone for the winning margin. Desperate Melrose used Hickey on four plays and tried two passes, but the final whistle ended the upset.

The game was hard and cleanly played. It was a case of two good and well-coached teams colliding, and the courageous Winchester team came out on top. It was one of the finest games in recent years. Accurate figures are not available on Hickey's great effort, but he must have carried better than 25 times for something over 150 yard.

Tri-captain Fiore scored three touchdowns as he carried 15 times for 125 yards. Mike Heffernan completed five passes out of 10 attempts for a 98-yard total gain.

On defense, tri-captain Charlie Deroo had 11 tackles and nine assists, while John Carzo made nine tackles and 13 assists. Rick Gentile, one of the smaller Sachems, nailed Hickey twice, once on a kickoff, and just before the final whistle.

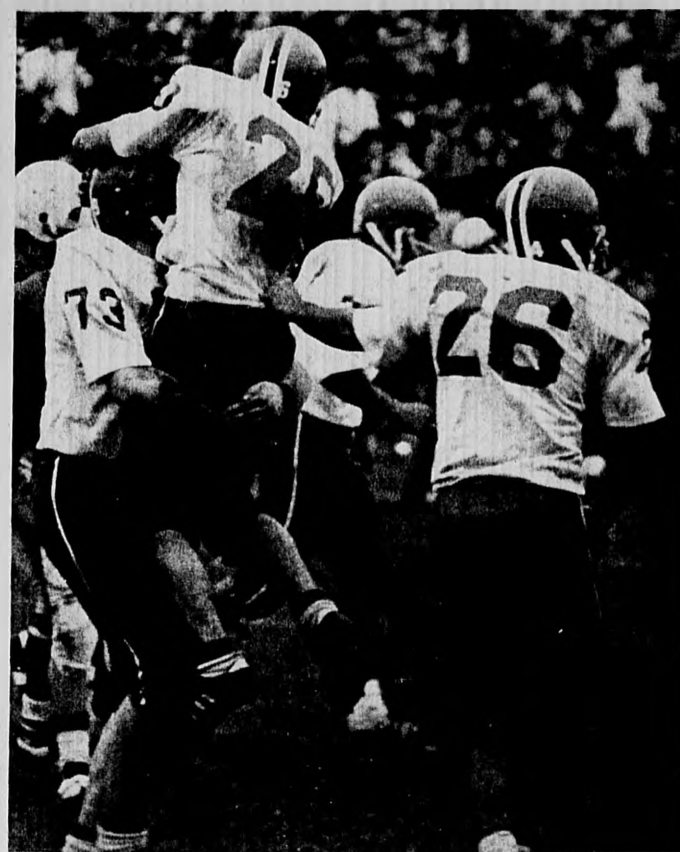

It was a great way to start the Middlesex League season. If the Sachems play as hard, and show the same courage, in the remaining eight games, they might well regain the championship.

Sons Gun Police For Slow Pitch Championship

Third place Sons of Italy defeated the fifth place Winchester Police recently to become champions in the Slow Pitch Softball League.

The Sons had reached the finals by defeating fourth place St. Eulalia's two straight and then drawing a bye as first place Phil's Cigo and second place Elks were defeated two out of three by Christiansen Auto and Winchester Police in the quarter finals.

The Police reached the finals defeating Christiansen Auto two out of three in the semi-finals. In winning the town championship, Sons' Sam Bellino and Dick Giacalone pitched three straight wins over the police.

The fielding and hitting of Mike and Joe Bellino, Bill Murray, and two home runs hit by Joe Giacalone in the final game put it all together.

So with timely hitting and good defense the Sons were victorious. The Police team, with the pitching and hitting of Jim Colgan, Bucky Morgan and leader Fran Manzi, deserve a well done. They fought early and came from behind often to make the playoffs and finals. Phil's Cigo, which finished first and boasted such names as Jacobs, Procopio, Flaherty and Vespucci, hit the ball right at the fielders and were eliminated in the quarter finals.

The Elks, which finished second, had Bob McGee, Bob Foley and Paul, John and Jim Reardon who fielded and hit well in many clutch situations during the year and the playoffs.

Nick Gold's fourth-place St. Eulalia's played a fine season but ran out of gas in the quarter finals. Sixth place Christiansen Auto, with the hitting of Tony Ganchi, Jerry Crowe and John Gillette and pitching of Bobby Garman, Paul Ganchi and Mark Smith, performed well under pressure until defeated in the last innings of the semi-finals by the Police, 10-8.

All the teams not making the playoffs are to be complimented for their sportsmanship and for the enjoyment they gave the softball fans of Winchester. Director Frank Langone thanked the umpires who worked all season and the players "for their cooperation to help us in our first season. I also would like to thank the Recreation Department for their help during the season."

"I hope that we will have the lights at Ginn Field next year so we will be able to have more enjoyable softball for everybody."

"Just in case I may have overlooked anybody who helped during the year, again I would like to say team ideas and comments are always received with gratitude."

Youth Soccer Cardinals, Rangers, Celtics Winners

The bantam division of Winchester Youth Soccer began its schedule of games last Saturday on MacDonald Field, where the Park Department had erected a second set of goal posts to accommodate the increased number of boys participating this season.

Cardinals 5, Bucks 2. The Bucks were outplayed by the Cardinals, with scores by John Barcus, Peter Ruggles and three goals by Alyn Stillman. The Bucks had several attacks on the Cardinals' goal, but goalkeeper Brian Tarbox stopped all but two Bucks' goals by Tom Shirley and Jim Philliou.

Rangers 2, Knights 0. The Rangers led at half time 1 to 0 on a score by Pat Fortin. The Rangers played well defensively, particularly Richard Champoux in goal. In the second half Rangers' Charlie Mahoney scored the second goal. The Rangers had a few more opportunities but the Knights' goalkeeper Robert Rigney made the saves.

Celtics 3, Shamrocks 0. Sparked by two goals from Mark Nelson, the Celtics defeated the Shamrocks in an exciting opening game. Ray Kenney also scored for the Celtics. The defense was led by strong work from goalie John Brosnan. Booming kicks by fullbacks Dick Gardner and Scott Farrar helped keep the Shamrocks deep in their own territory through the game. Shamrocks' George Casey turned in a notable performance at center halfback.

Warriors 3, Panthers 3. In the first half Jackie Driscoll scored the first goal for the Warriors, who had outplayed the Panthers. Most of the action was in the Panthers' half of the field, although John Waite scored for the Panthers. The Warriors came back with goals by Justin Kermond and another goal by Jackie Driscoll.

In the second half the Warriors' defense began to weaken, requiring goalkeeper Jim Gebhard to make more saves. The Panthers' offense turned in an excellent performance scoring two goals by Barry McQuillin and again by John Waite. For the Warriors, Paul Sylvester was a key man at fullback. For the Panthers, notable performances were by Mustafa Kopruc on defense with John Herrin in goal.

The bantam division is grateful to Ed Shiang and Peter Franchi as referees last Saturday. Anyone interested in helping with this soccer program may contact John Duffy.

On Saturday seven members of the professional Boston Astros soccer team will give a clinic at 9:45 on MacDonald Field. The Astros recently completed its finest soccer season. They had increased attendance records and their best win record, placing second in their division, just nosed out of the playoffs in the American Soccer League.

Wolfe Scores For U-Mass

Bill Wolfe, former Sachem end, added another touchdown last week as the University of Massachusetts downed Maine 20-0. He completed three passes, one for 40 yards, and another for the score. The latter completion came as Bill alertly snagged the ball after it had bounced off the hands of a Maine defender.

Bill's brother, Bob, also had a hand in the victory as he carried the ball 11 times for 22 yards, with his longest gain an eight-yard scamper.

Bowling

High bowler recently in the Early Bird Bowling League was Mary Jane Brooks with a tally of 192. She also bowled high individual series, 486.

The Starlings, Heather Bass, Pat Dean and Gerry Lesperance bowled the high three games.

The Wrens bowled the high team game at 464. The Wrens include Joan Kelley, Myrna Wilson and Ann Malrondola.

Accidentally Overheard
The bridge building brotherhood was a religious fraternity formed in the south of France in the latter half of the twelfth century. They were bound together to build bridges and keep ferries. According to tradition, a shepherd boy received a revelation that he must build a bridge across the Rhodé at Avignon. His life and death, all involved in building this bridge, inspired others to found a brotherhood for the purpose of building other bridges.

'C' Team Demolishes Melrose

By John Dellagrotte

The Winchester "C" of Pop Warner football team traveled to Melrose to face what was expected to be their toughest opponents of the season recently. Winchester kicked off to Melrose and the tough Winchester defense, led by captains John Lacey and Mark Bingel immediately went to work to stop the Melrose offense.

The Winchester offense took over and began to grind out the yards with the drive ending in a one-yard touchdown plunge by halfback Bobby Fiore. The attempt for the two-point conversion failed. Melrose once again went to the offense and again the defense held and Winchester took over the ball.

Led by the running of quarterback Jimmy Schultz, Gary Errico and Bobby Fiore, the offense scored again with Gary Errico plunging for the touchdown. Again the conversion failed.

With time running out in the first half, Melrose went to the air, but the pass was intercepted by cornerback Mark Sullivan who made a beautiful return to the Melrose 10 yard line. Two plays later, Gary Errico went in for his second score of the day. Bobby Fiore carried for the conversion.

The first half ended two plays later with the score Winchester 20, Melrose 0.

The second half opened with Winchester receiving the kickoff. A fired up Melrose defense caused a fumble three plays later and Melrose capitalized driving 30 yards for a touchdown.

The next series, Melrose held Winchester and forced a punt which was fumbled and recovered by Winchester, but once again the Melrose defense was tough and Winchester had to give up the football.

Melrose again went to the air and again the alert Winchester defense picked it off, this time it was Joe Donlon. In the closing minutes, with the Winchester backfield eating up yardage, Gary Errico on a draw play found a large hole and galloped 36 yards for his third touchdown of the morning. Jimmy Schultz passed to end Pete Mahoney for the two point conversion. The game ended with Melrose having the ball on their own 30 yard line.

The Winchester defense was led by Chuck Merritt, Mark Sullivan, Brad Cowen and John Del Solio.

Winchester will be at home this Sunday against Watertown. Kickoff time is 11 a.m. at Manchester Field.

Pop Warner Dinner Dance Large Success

By Carol Peluso

Winchester Pop Warner recently held a dinner dance at the Winchester Elks Club. The affair was a large success due to the hard work of the committee consisting of Arthur Giannelli, Ralph and Ellen DellaGrotti, Tom Cafarella and Billy Shields. The door prize was won by Mrs. Ward.

At this time Pop Warner would like to thank William Smyly of Smyly Buick for donating a color television for the raffle. We would also like to thank the Winchester Pastry Shop and Charley Doe of the "99" Clubs for their worthy donations.

A luau dinner dance, to bring to a close the end of the Pop Warner football season, is being planned for some time in November.

The first home game for the A, B, and C teams will be against Watertown on Sept. 30. This is the first time in Winchester Pop Warner history that a "C" team is being featured. The age for this group is 11 or under with a maximum of 95 pounds.

The "C" team will play the first game of the day starting at 11 a.m., coached by Arthur Giannelli, Billy Shields, Tom Cafarella, Tom Bagley, and Joe Morrone.

The "B" game will start at 12:30, coached by Mike Moriarty and Bob O'Brien.

The final game of the afternoon will be played by the "A" team starting at 2 p.m., coached by Joe Bonaserra and Dave DeTesto.

The chuck wagon will sell foods and beverages. Mothers may treat themselves to hotdogs and coffee as they watch their sons play football.

The annual Pop Warner tag day will be held Oct. 13. Volunteer drivers are needed to drive the boys to their destinations. Those who wish to help should contact one of the coaches.

Soccer Pee Wees Hold Scrimmages

The pee wee division of Winchester Youth Soccer held a round of scrimmages at West Side Field this week in preparation for next week's opening round of games.

The Mustangs, led by Marc Pelloux and Brian Donnellan, topped the Eagles, 3-1. The Hawks defeated the Lions, 1-0, on Kevin Conely's goal in a hard fought defensive battle.

The Falcons used a strong two-goal first half to top the Vikings 2-1, while the Panthers fell to the impressive Wildcats, 2-1.

It was evident that every team in the division has the potential to be a contender in this year's title.

Coronis Wins $9 Million Bid

'B' Team Loses, 6-0

The Winchester Pop Warner football "B" team suffered its first loss of the season recently when the Melrose Red Raiders defeated them 6-0.

The game was probably the closest contest for the B's in two years.

Winchester kicked off to Melrose and Melrose marched up to the Winchester 45-yard line. Then on an off-tackle play a Melrose HB ran all the way in for the score.

Winchester tightened up and stopped the extra point cold. Melrose kicked off and Pat Costello took the ball on his own 40-yard line and scooted up the middle to the Melrose 45. Winchester went into its powerful stacked "I" formation, but the Melrose defense was too overpowering. They stopped the Junior Satchems in their tracks.

In the second half, once again it was a defensive game as both teams battled between the 40s.

In the fourth quarter, with five minutes left, Winchester's Costello recovered a Raider fumble on the Winchester 33-yard line. The Winchester offense took the field.

Dave Downing, Bill Rogers and John Barcus had a running show as Winchester marched up to the Melrose 30. On a QB keeper, Barcus was shaken up and had to leave the game. This seemed to take the starch out of the Satchems. Winchester went no further as Melrose took the ball over.

Gateway Opens Doors To World For Town's Travelers

Gateway Travel of 29 Thompson st. opens doors to the world as personnel assist Winchester and area residents in domestic and foreign travel.

According to George Littell Jr., who started the business in January of 1971, Gateway personnel have a total of over 20 years' experience in the travel business.

Besides himself, staff members include Polly Flickinger, a former employee of an airline; Ellen Jones and Mary Glasshoff, both formerly connected with travel agencies.

"Many people feel it costs more to deal with a travel agency," Littell says, noting this is not the case. He explains Gateway acts as an agency for airline and steamship companies and "are reimbursed by companies we represent in the form of commissions."

Hotels, airlines and steamship companies invite travel agency personnel to participate in familiarization trips "to become acquainted with destinations they sell." The cost to the travel agency is minor, he says.

Littell says, "Agents must satisfy stringent financial requirements and possess experienced personnel with a minimum travel experience."

Gateway personnel have "literally traveled the world," Littell says. Recently members of the staff have visited Bermuda and other islands in the Caribbean, Europe, the west coast, ski areas in Aspen and Vail, Colo., Alta and Snowbird, Utah, and Disneyland in Orlando, Fla.

"A good travel agency can determine a routing that may lower costs," Littell says, noting that convenience is another important product of Gateway inasmuch as a person is saved bother and time of going to Boston to obtain tickets and travel information. In effect, "We are like an airline office. We write airline tickets," he says. An airline ticket bought at Gateway Travel costs the same as it would in Boston.

Littell reports an upsurge in domestic travel, including Hawaii and Mexico. He says Mexico is cheaper for tourists insofar as expenses are concerned.

Week in and week out, Bermuda is the most popular destination both for young and older people, he notes.

This past summer travel to Europe has been off due to the lower value of the American dollar, he notes.

To prepare travelers during holiday time, Littell notes a new policy of airline companies in an attempt to keep people from making reservations with several airlines for peak periods. In the past this has tied up airplane seats and in the end had many planes, during peak periods, leaving the airport half empty.

This year, a strict policy of obtaining tickets three weeks ahead of time will be adhered to. Gateway Travel can take care of this matter for travelers, Littell says.

Formerly with a sales and marketing firm which dealt with banks, Littell holds a bachelor's degree from Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind.

George Littell

He served three years in the U. S. Marines with overseas duty in the South Pacific, 1-12 years of which was on Guam.

Littell is on the board of directors of the Winchester Business Association and is active in the choir at the First Congregational Church.

He lives at 47 Grove st. with his wife, Carol, and their three children, Stephanie, 16, Terry, 14, and Bill, 7.

Prof. Schechter To Head Housing Panel Discussion

Prof. Alan H. Schechter, Health, Education and Welfare grant recipient, will head a panel discussion, "Crisis in Suburban Housing," to be held Oct. 10 at the new Lincoln School auditorium at 8 p.m. A 7:30 p.m. coffee hour will precede the program, sponsored by the Winchester-Wellesley Club.

The panel discussion will be followed by a question and answer period and is open to the public at no charge.

Prof. Schechter, chairman of the political science department at Wellesley College, is in his second year of research and writing under a $38,000 grant from the federal HEW Dept. for a study on the legal, political, and value conflicts in suburban housing.

Schechter and his staff are interviewing 1,000 realtors in nine suburban towns near Boston, New York and Washington to obtain information on the role that realtors play in public policy-making and the implementation of both state and federal laws.

The research also involves interviews with public officials and analysis of statutes and judicial decisions. The project, to take two years, will be published as a book.

Books by Schechter include his most recent, "Contemporary Constitutional Issues," published in 1972. This study examines the law and politics of six major domestic issues including "open housing." An earlier book, "Interpretation of Ambiguous Documents by International Administrative Tribunals" was published in 1964.

An Amherst graduate with a Ph.D. from Columbia, he has received a number of research awards including a Fulbright Scholarship and fellowships from the United States Steel Foundation and the Ford Foundation. He has also received a number of faculty research awards and Huber Foundation grants from Wellesley College.

A major issue slated by Schechter for the panel to deal with is federal and state participation in the suburban housing market. This includes:

1) consideration of government subsidy programs and their legality (e.g., Chapter 774—anti-snob zoning law) versus local control of zoning process by towns;

2) the impact and evaluation of such subsidized programs as low income housing, housing for the elderly, subsidized interest rates and housing allowances on the community;

3) the viability of regionalization, i.e., formation of regional housing authorities, etc., to tackle the relationship between urban and suburban housing.

The panel will deal with a variety of other questions bearing specifically on many of Winchester's present concerns.

Are apartments a tax benefit or town burden? How effective is public housing policy as an educational tool in solving other social problems?

Is there an equity question for the private homeowner when state regulations preempt local rights?

What legal protection is available to the suburban citizen?

In answering these, Prof. Schechter will detail approaches other suburban communities have chosen in resolving these issues.

Peace Committee Marches, Protests

Members of the Winchester Peace Committee Saturday joined about 200 citizens from the Boston area in a march in support of political prisoners in South Vietnam.

The march organized at the Park street MBTA station, marched around the Common to Copley Square and back to Park street. The march was organized by a coalition of community groups including the American Friends Service Committee and Clergy and Laity Concerned.

According to Michael Strah, a spokesman for the Winchester Peace Committee, the march was not only a protest but also an attempt to dramatize "the continuing nature of our government's military involvement in Vietnam."

Participants in the march dressed as President Nixon, General Thieu, political prisoners and prison guards. As the march progressed, those in costume reminded onlookers that last year "over $4 million in U.S. tax dollars went to support Thieu's program of arresting and jailing political prisoners (some of whom were held in American-built tiger cages), that American tax dollars provide 90 percent of General Thieu's budget, that during the last four years, by its own admission, Thieu's regime executed 50,000 South Vietnamese civilians, and that there are currently an estimated 200,000 political prisoners incarcerated in South Vietnam."

The Peace Committee stated: "One reason members of the Winchester Peace Committee participated in the march is because they feel most Americans are totally unaware of who the political prisoners of South Vietnam are. Most of those held in jail are neutralists—the non-communist opposition to Thieu."

"Without them as an active force in society there can be no coalition government, no way to move towards reunification of the country. Thieu must imprison these people to preserve his charade of resisting a communist take-over of South Vietnam."

"Conversely, the release of the prisoners in South Vietnam is the king pin to self-determination in Indochina. Thieu cannot stand up against this political force when it is free to exercise its influence."

Chairman Strah said that members of the Peace Committee feel "It is most important for people to realize that the oppression of political prisoners in South Vietnam is not a past issue, but a continuing one."

"The fiscal 1974 budget request for the U.S. Agency for International Development includes nearly $5 million for equipping and training Thieu's national police force, his principal instrument of oppression. There is also a request of $8.8 million by the Defense Department to replenish police ammunition and supplies."

Strah continued: "Both of these proposed expenditures of American tax dollars are in clear violation of Article 9 of the January Peace Accords, which prohibits all acts of reprisal against individuals or organizations that collaborated with one side or the other."

This, said Strah, is one reason the Winchester Peace Committee remains so active. "because U.S. funds are still being used to continue the policy of suppression in South Vietnam while the American public is led to believe something entirely different."

Later this fall the Winchester Peace Committee will sponsor a public educational meeting on the question of political prisoners in South Vietnam.

Duplicate Bridge

By Bridgette

The very popular Mr. and Mrs. Tournament will be held at the WDBC on Oct. 3. This club championship was made possible by the donation of a bowl from Mrs. Carl Sittinger and the late Mr. Sittinger.

Ida Finlay and Dick Sullivan were the NS winners in Section A on Sept. 19, with Mike Scherrer and Charles Richardson coming in first EW.

North-South
Ida Finlay and Dick Sullivan, 100½
Bob and Ev Blackler, 99
Carl Galante Jr. and Joe Salani, 93½
Helen Mahoney and Ruth Jackson, 86

East-West
Mike Scherrer and Charles Richardson, 98
Anne Galpin and Madelyn Walworth, 95½
Phil and Peggy Cade, 89½
Ruby White and Clarence Woodward, 87
Paul and Chris Cowies, 87

In Section B there were nine tables playing on a 63 average. Two of our newer members, Harold and Greta Enge, were the winners NS, with Bob and Pat Wassmuth winning EW.

North-South
Harold and Greta Enge, 80
Barbara Shea and Donna Redpath, 74½
Miggs Root and Dolly Pasquale, 74½
Ruth Flanagan and Natalie Kouyoumjian, 72½
Cathy Alexander and Nancy Atkinson, 66

East-West
Bob and Pat Wassmuth, 74½
Lewis Ward and Paul Vatter, 71
Eileen Brennan and Lillian Sheridan, 68
T. Rutli and D. Tachick, 66½
Paul and Peggy Sandersen, 63½

A second board, No. 12, from the team-of-four championship shows anew that the partial scores in duplicate are as important as the big ones. North-South is vulnerable, West the dealer.

North
S - 9 7 6 3
H - A K J 5
D - J 4
C - 9 3 2

East
S - A 10 5 4
H - Q 8 6
D - 10 9 7 2
C - Q 7

South
H -
D - Q 6 5 3
C - A J 10 8 5

Please look now at both sides and decide where you'd stop bidding and think of setting for a plus score.

It's a ticklish hand; at the two level, North-South is fairly safe at 2S, and East-West at 2H. But letting the other side play at the two-level is likely to be a poor score. So—East-West usually pushed on to 3H.

Then North-South, being vulnerable, should probably pull in its collective horns and pass; brave hearts may double.

Here are a few pairs of results. One North-South partnership doubled the 3H, collecting 100 points, while the other North-South went to 4S, down two for a —200, the first North-South winning the board.

Another North-South set the 3H by West, undoubled, for a plus 50; the other side of the coin was 2H doubled, making three for a —570 for North-South.

A third North-South also set 3H for plus 50, the other result being 3S by North, down three for a —300.

AIM Opening Concert Oct. 16

Winchester's McCall Junior High School will be the scene for the season's opening Adventures in Music Concert on Oct. 16 at 1:15. There will be a triple treat in store for youthful audiences as they hear and view Serge Prokofiev's "Troika" (Steighrider), "Peter and the Wolf" and "Classical Symphony."

In order to bring good music to elementary-aged children, director-composer Newton Wayland combines an orchestra of professional instrumentalists, actors who have participated on the education show "Zoom," short poems describing musical events that will involve audience participation and the director's own energy and talent.

Audiences may recall Winchester's first program last winter, "The Little Sweep." Children who participated on "Zoom" will take the parts of Peter (David Alberico), The Bird (Bernadette Yao), The Cat (Jay Schertzer), The Duck (Maura Mullaney), The Wolf (Leon Mobley), the Hunter (Luiz Gonzales), and the Grandfather (Wayland).

Wayland, Rockefeller artist-in-residence, pianist for the Boston Symphony Orchestra, composer and director, has experience working with young audiences. His approach is considered by many to be fresh and original. Future programs will include "Pulcinella," prize-winning compositions written by children from the participating towns, and "A Celebration of American Song."

For further information, contact Adventures in Music Town Chairman Mrs. Andrew Nichols. Filers and order forms have been distributed throughout the Winchester public school system.

RSVP Sponsors Tour Of N.E. Rehab. Center

The Winchester Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) will sponsor a tour of the New England Rehabilitation Center in Woburn on Oct. 4 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The tour, which includes transportation and lunch, is designed to acquaint senior citizens aged 60 and over with the possibilities for volunteer service at the center.

Besides having an opportunity to tour the buildings, including nursing and therapy floors, a representative of each department will describe his department's function and show how volunteers may help.

The job of the center is to help its patients learn to care for themselves even though they are handicapped. This is done primarily through physical and occupational therapy.

Senior volunteers need no special skills. Patience and understanding are the prime requirements. Those who are interested in signing up for the tour or to inquire about other volunteer opportunities may call the Senior Service Line at 729-2111.

Wee Sachems Put It All Together

The Wee Sachems of Pop Warner football finally put it all together last Sunday as they manhandled the Melrose Red Raiders, 24-6.

In the first quarter Winchester received the ball and went to work. Sam Bellino started things off with a 10-yard jaunt up to the Melrose 49.

Don Allard hit Peter Mascali on a square out pattern for a 19-yard pass completion. Don then handed off to Sam Bellino on a blast and Sam broke four tackles racing down the middle to the Melrose four-yard line.

Once again Allard gave to Bellino and Sam dove over the goal line for the first Winchester score. The extra point failed. Melrose then took the ball and did the same thing to the Sachems and scored on a 15-yard sweep.

The extra point failed. The ball then switched hands for a few minutes. Then with Melrose out there on their own three-yard line Bellino caught the 2 Melrose QB in the end zone for two points.

Winchester took the ball on the free kick where they went to work again. Allard hitting his receivers and Bellino and Cavarratta doing the running. Not much time was left in the half when Mike Cavarratta went off-kick for the score.

Bellino added the extra point, which left the score 16-6 at the end of the first half.

The third period was scoreless as both teams battled in midfield. Melrose in the fourth quarter had their backs to the wall. Joe Costello blitzed and caught Melrose in the end zone for Winchester's second safety.

Winchester received the ball and started to march once again, with Bellino, Allard and Cavarratta doing all the ground work. Bellino scored the final touchdown of the day on a dive.

Winchester did a lot of scoring on the ground and Allard had an excellent day completing three quarters of his passes. This would not have been possible without the help of the game's unsung heroes, the offensive line.

The following blocked hard for their teammates: Kevin Foley, Jim Peluso, Jeff Michine, Steve Michine, Jim Cotton, Gary Tedesco and Peter Mascali. Other key players were Jack Driscoll, with an interception; Len Bellino, Joe Costello, Dave O'Neil, Joe Sprague and John Shattuck, who was the outstanding player of the game.

The Sachems now play host to Watertown next Sunday at Manchester Field at 1:30.

Congressional Roll Call Votes

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes recently.

HOUSE

School Lunches: Rejected, 127 for and 227 against, an amendment to keep the school lunch subsidy at eight cents per meal served. As a result of the rejection, the subsidy may be increased to 10 cents per lunch served. The bill, with its 10 cent subsidy intact, now goes to the Senate.

Reps. Thomas O'Neill (D-8) and Torbert MacDonald (D-7) voted no.

Veto Sustained: Sustained 259 for and 184 against, the President's veto of the $2.20 minimum wage bill. The vote fell 23 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override the veto.

O'Neill and MacDonald voted yes.

Sports Blackouts: Passed 336 for and 37 against, a bill lifting hometown blackouts on the telecasts of professional football, baseball, basketball, and hockey games. The bill permits, for a three-year period, telecasts to home fans of games that are sold-out at least 72 hours in advance, and ends a 23-year policy of the National Football League that blacked out telecasts of games within a 75-mile radius of the home stadium.

The Senate then passed the bill and it was signed into law. MacDonald voted yes, O'Neill did not vote.

Pipeline: Rejected 198 for, 221 against, an attempt to restore language allowing judicial review of the Trans-Alaskan oil pipeline's impact on the environment. Failure leaves standing a provision which, in effect, bars lawsuits challenging the pipeline on environmental grounds.

Reps. Thomas O'Neill and Torbert MacDonald voted yes.

Limousines: Approved, 222 for, 189 against, a motion allowing continued use of chauffeured limousines by certain federal agency heads some of whose chauffeurs received between $12,000 - 17,000 annually. O'Neill and MacDonald voted yes.

Annual Ball

The Friends of the Winchester Hospital will hold their annual ball Nov. 3 at the Winchester Indoor Lawn and Tennis Center. For more information, contact Mrs. James E. Connell, 4 Churchill rd., chairman of the affair.

Salary Cuts: Rejected 190 for, 217 against, an attempt to cut $518,000 from $2,070,000 appropriated for the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy. The fiscal 1974 money is scheduled to pay salaries and expenses in this agency.

Macdonald voted yes, O'Neill nay.

SENATE

Pension Plans: Passed, 93 for and 0 against, a reform of private pension plans that sets federal standards to protect workers and limits the use of pension plans as tax shelters. The bill now goes to the House.

Sens. Edward Kennedy and Edward Brooke voted yes.

Tax Loopholes: Rejected, 32 for and 59 against, an amendment to the pension reform bill (above) that would have set a $45,000 limit on the amount of yearly pension-plan payments that can be deducted from taxable income.

Kennedy voted yes and Brooke voted no.

BIG INCOME OR GOOD LOCATION?

Which is a better long-term investment - a high income property in a deteriorating neighborhood or a low income property in a superior location?

Based only on these facts, the lower income property in the good neighborhood is the better investment. Why? Because the most important factor to be considered in any real estate investment is location. Nothing is closer to importance. It is extremely rare when a property, in a prime location, turns out to be a bad investment in the long run. This is true even if too high a price is paid. As time goes on, the superior location will command higher rents which will outrun the market; the income loss will rise as will the resale value of the property.

On the other hand, the high income property in the deteriorating neighborhood will decrease in value, maintenance expenses will increase and resale will be a problem, if possible at all.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

land use. "The merchants are recommending combining business with apartments."

Schaefer also said the two new apartment zones should be acted on at the Oct. 18 town meeting because "they should be decided while the center is being decided."

Others in the audience had specific questions on the new by-law, among them a section which apparently would prohibit the parking of cars in front of car dealers.

Schaefer said the board would correct this through an amendment. He also said persons wishing to make amendments at the special meeting should get their amendment in writing to the town counsel "well in advance" of Oct. 18.

Signature Petitions Underway

Going To The People, a coalition of Common Cause-Massachusetts, the Boston Jaycees, Mass. Action and Citizens for Participation in Political Action, has announced the beginning of its signature gathering drive for two initiative petitions.

One of the petitions would take the administration and enforcement of Massachusetts' election laws out of the hands of elected officials who have been reluctant to enforce the law. The petition would create an independent office headed by the director of campaign and political finance, and the director would have the power to hire a special prosecutor to ensure proper enforcement.

The second petition would require most elected officials and appointed public officials earning more than $15,000 a year to disclose their outside sources of income and personal economic interests. The disclosure statements would be public records, available for scrutiny by the public and the press.

The blank petitions for circulation were prepared by the secretary of state's office and the coalition of Common Cause-Massachusetts, the Boston Jaycees, Mass. Action and Citizens for Participation in Political Action.

In Politics must now gather 56,038 signatures on each petition by Dec. 5.

Anyone desiring further information about the petitions or to volunteer to help circulate the petitions, should contact Ron Rosenblith at 73 Tremont St., Boston 02108.
